Miss Stone Must Await Ransom.

Turks Withdraw from Around Mountain.

Arrangements to Pay Money are Being Effected.

American Consul-General at Sofia—Stambouloff's Slayer Killed.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 11.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In compliance with a request from Washington, the search by Ottoman troops for the abductors of Miss Stone, the American missionary, has been abandoned, it being feared that the brigands would kill her should they be closely pursued. Arrangements are now being made to pay the ransom demanded.

SEARCH BY BULGARIANS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Three battalions of the Sixth Bulgarian Infantry Regiment marched through the country between Dubnitza and Samakov and searched the villages of the Rilo-klosters district, in one of which it was reported the brigands had concealed Miss Stone, says the Sofia correspondent of the Journal and Advertiser. Col. Gaschof at the head of a searching party composed of 300 Bulgarian infantry and 500 dragoons, is scouring the ranges.

The American Consul-General at Constantinople has arrived at Sofia with an evangelical pastor from Philippopolis as dragoman, and both are taking energetic steps with the Bulgarian government to effect Miss [illegible] Inspector [illegible] has also been suspected of being associated in the capture of Miss Stone, he was shot dead on the frontier near Kostendit. Though £5000 reward had been placed on the head of the murderer of Stambouloff, Hallo, the name under which he was known, was too influential a ruffian for the Bulgarian police to arrest.

Four additional brigands have been captured near Tschepino, and a band of twenty, fully armed, were discovered near Dubnicza and driven into the mountains again.

STATE DEPARTMENT'S NEWS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The State Department has heard again by cable from United States Consul-General Dickinson and Secretary of Legation Spencer Eddy touching the progress of negotiations looking to the release of Miss Stone. None of the details was made public, however, and all that can be gathered as to the status of the case is that the conditions are by no means as reassuring as was expected yesterday.

SITUATION MUDDLED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 12. — "The United States legation here," says a dispatch from Constantinople to the Daily Telegraph, "has received information which it withholds, of some expected developments in the Stone affair. Tuesday, it was supposed an attempt would be made to capture the band, but nothing has been heard since Monday, when Mr. Haskell reached Samakov. He is not provided with funds, but has been empowered to arrange the lowest terms.

"The attempts to capture the band have made the brigands shy of future traps, thus rendering negotiations difficult. Such tactics are severely criticised here. The brigands may in revenge kill their captive. Moreover, the fact that no money was produced on the first demand may cause the brigands to mutilate Miss Stone as a warning.

ANOTHER APPEAL FOR FUNDS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, Oct. 11.—The misunderstanding existing in various parts of the country indicated especially in private advices received here as to the progress of the fund to ransom Miss Stone, the missionary, is considered to be sufficient reason for the issuance of another appeal for funds by the clergymen who signed the first one. The idea is to impress upon the people of America the danger that still threatens Miss Stone.

UP AGAINST SULTAN.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—After detailing the history of the abduction of Miss Stone, the Spectator remarks:

"President Roosevelt and the Washington Cabinet maintain justly that the Sultan is responsible, as it is misgovernment which provoked and protects brigandage, and they intend to demand reparation from the Porte. It will not be limited, we imagine, to £25,000. The Porte will be required to punish the authors of the outrage, and as Turkey is sure to shuffle and America is tired of being played with, a naval demonstration is on the cards. The Sultan, of course, will yield to the first show of force."

TAKEN TO IAKARUTA.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—According to the Sofia correspondent of the World, the Bulgarian police are assured that Miss Ellen M. Stone, the kidnaped American missionary, has been conducted by twenty brigands close to the village of Iakaruta, in Turkish territory.

Chicago Police Hold Youth Charged With Burglary, Whose Wealthy Mother is Said to Live in Los Angeles.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—William H. Gibson, 19 years old, said to be the heir upon the death of his mother to several hundred thousand dollars, is confined at the Town Hall police station on a charge of burglary. The police admit that the name under which the prisoner is booked is a fictitious one, but they refuse to reveal any of the facts concerning his relations. It has been learned, however, that the boy's mother, who is a widow, is the owner of a mansion in New York, another in Los Angeles, where she now resides, and that she lived in Chicago with her son in the most fashionable quarter of Hyde Park.

Gibson admits his guilt, and as a result of his confession much of the jewelry stolen has been recovered at a pawn shop.

BARGAIN IN CANALS.

Company Can Only Sell Out Its Work.

United States Would not Buy Without Concession.

President and Cabinet—Cable and Southern Policy—Sea Postoffices.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If the Panama Canal Company really wishes to sell the canal property to the United States it must make a sharp reduction of price before any proposition to purchase can be considered. The Panama company has been negotiating, off and on, for two years or more, for the sale of its canal property. It has never yet named a price at which it would be willing to sell, but has talked about $100,000,000 as being the least it considers the property worth. Engineers of the United States government who only this summer made a complete examination of the Panama route for the Isthmian Canal Commission, say they consider the property worth only about $35,000,000. It is believed here that if the United States government could be sure of making a satisfactory treaty with Colombia, it might be willing to pay $50,000,000 for the Panama company's property.

Contrary to general belief, the Panama company has no transferable concession for the Panama Canal. It has [illegible] that will hold good if the [illegible] completing the work, and in case it be sold to the United States, a new concession will have to be obtained from Colombia. The only thing the Panama company has to sell, therefore, is its actual completed work on the canal, and that would be of no use to the United States unless the government should first get a concession from Colombia.

M. Hutin, the representative of the Panama company, is now on his way to Washington, and it is believed that as soon as he gets here he will go to the Isthmian Canal Commission with a direct proposition to sell the Panama Canal Company's works and rights for a stated sum, and the sum he will ask will be in the neighborhood of $50,000,000. If such an offer is made, it will then be necessary for the State Department to open negotiations with Colombia to see if that government will give the United States a concession for a canal, and if a concession can be had within the range of possibilities, the Panama route will be chosen for the isthmian canal.

It is known that the Isthmian Canal Commission is delaying completion of its report for the purpose of getting at the exact facts regarding the possible purchase of the Panama Canal, and for that reason the report will not be closed until about December 1, although it is already nearly finished, and might be closed up on very short notice.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET.

CABLE AND SOUTHERN POLICY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Atty.-Gen. Knox made a verbal report to the President and Cabinet today regarding the result of his investigations into the Pacific cable question. His conclusion was that, under the law of 1866, any domestic company could land any cable on the shores of the United States, or its possessions. The President and the Cabinet were convinced by the verbal report that no executive action is called for at this time.

The President will go over the subject more in detail with the Attorney-General tomorrow, and will review the whole matter in his message to Congress. The law of 1866 is the same law under which the Postal Telegraph Company claimed it had the power to land a cable at Havana, but the claim was disregarded at the time by the Secretary of War.

Five members of the Cabinet, Secretaries Long, Hitchcock, Wilson, Atty.-Gen. Knox and Postmaster-General Smith, were present at today's meeting, which was devoted largely to the consideration of appointments under the various departments. The question of southern apportionments generally came up, and the President reiterated his policy of appointing Republicans, if suitable applicants could be found, and if not, of appointing Gold Democrats. His policy in this respect meets the approval of the Cabinet.

MIGHT CREATE CABLE TRUST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The cable matter is giving Atty.-Gen. Knox a good deal of trouble. He now believes the granting of landing rights to Mackay and his associates for a Pacific cable will be equivalent to giving the Eastern Cable Company, a British concern, a monopoly of Manila-American cable business, and, further, that this concession might result in a meeting of the Eastern Cable Company with the Postal Telegraph Company and Commercial Cable Company, thus creating a sort of cable trust, with lines completely around the world, a thing no cable company has at the present time.

HANNA'S HOLD WEAKENS UNDER NEW REGIME.

THE PRESIDENT PURSUING AN INDEPENDENT POLICY.

National Committee Ignored in Regard to Dispensing Patronage—Kerens No Longer Recognized as a Power in Missouri, Wm. Addicks in Delaware.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The friends of Chairman Hanna expect that the continued ignoring of the Republican National Committee in the handling of patronage problems will induce the chairman to make a decisive declaration. He is expected to do this in order that there may be no public misunderstanding as to his relation to patronage in the South and elsewhere.

The President is showing no disposition to seek advice of the national chairman in making appointments. In the past Hanna, as national chairman, had recognized President McKinley's supporters, and, presumably, those who would assist in aiding him to keep political control of the South.

It was not particularly surprising when President Roosevelt departed radically from this policy. He invited scores of prominent men of the South to come to the White House to discuss Federal business. His appointments, thus far, excepting those definitely agreed upon while President McKinley was alive, plainly show a course distinctly independent of Hanna. The appointment of a Federal District Attorney in Kansas, the turning down of the Hanna Republican national committeeman, is a case in point. Following this came the selection of an anti-Addicks postmaster for Wilmington, Del., and it was known on all sides that Chairman Hanna favored the appointment of an Addicks man as best for the Republican party.

Since then, an applicant for a Missouri postoffice has been informed that

Why the Code Was not Sent—Admiral Dewey's Nephew on the Stand.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Capt. F.E. Chadwick, who was in command of Admiral Sampson's flagship, the New York, and who also was chief of the admiral's staff during the war with Spain, testified before the Schley naval court for a short time this afternoon. He was the last witness called, and when court adjourned he was still under cross-examination by Rayner, who stated that he had only a few more questions to ask him. There was considerable interest in Capt. Chadwick's appearance because of his close relationship to the commander-in-chief of the North Atlantic squadron.

Capt. Chadwick's testimony related very largely to dispatches sent by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley while the latter lay off Cienfuegos, in May, 1898, and to the code of signals agreed upon between Capt. McCalla of the Marblehead and the Cuban forces operating near Cienfuegos. He said the code had not been sent to Commodore Schley because Capt. McCalla had expected to join the commodore immediately and communicate the code to him.

He also told of being present at an interview between Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley, in which the latter had expressed his intention to be loyal to the commander-in-chief. He related in detail the change of opinion concerning the whereabouts of Cervera's fleet by Admiral Sampson, May 21, between the sending of the two dispatches of that date by Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley, one of which was dated at Key West and the other at Havana. Capt. Chadwick said he had not approved of Admiral Sampson's dispatch of May 28, congratulating Commodore Schley on his accomplishments up to that date.

Five other new witnesses were heard during the day, two of them being officers of the New York. One of these was Lieut. C. C. Marsh, the flag secretary of Admiral Sampson, who testified concerning dispatches to Commodore Schley, and the other was the ship's flag lieutenant, Lieut. E. L. Bennett. Lieut. T. G. Dewey, a nephew of Admiral Dewey, who served on the Massachusetts; Lieut. Althouse, also of the Massachusetts, and Lieut. Francis Boughter, who served on the Marblehead, were the other new witnesses of the day.

BEFORE SANTIAGO BATTLE.

MORE OFFSHORE BEARINGS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—When the court was called to order, Capt. Lemly made a brief explanation of one of his statements of yesterday concerning the statement received from Commander Marix. He said that the statement was "unsworn."

"I would like it to appear," he said, "that, although these are sworn to, they are not, being in the shape of depositions and ex parte statements, such sworn evidence as is usually admitted before the court, but came in with their full value merely because there was no objection on either side."

Among the witnesses called early in the day for the purpose of correcting their testimony was Rear-Admiral H. C. Taylor. While he was on the stand he was asked by Capt. Lemly whether he had received information that the Spaniards were coming out of the harbor at Santiago before they made their appearance, the morning of July 3. His answer was: "None whatever."

Mr. Rayner asked: "You did not get a message from the Vixen in reference to smoke coming out of the harbor?"

"None."

Capt. Parker asked: "Your attention was not called to the smoke?"

"Not at all, sir."

"Do you remember anybody on your vessel who did observe smoke and report it to you?"

"I do not remember."

Capt. Lemly read a report from Capt. Merrill Miller, formerly of the Raleigh, concerning the accuracy of the stadimeter. This report was dated in 1898, and stated that the stadimeter had been found to give accurate results in measurements of less than 800 yards, but not so when the distance was greater. In one case, the writer noticed an error of 200 yards in a 1600-yard measurement.

LIEUT. ALTHOUSE.

Lieut. Adelbert Althouse, formerly watch and division officer on the battleship Massachusetts, was then called. He detailed the movements of that vessel in connection with the "Flying Squadron." He said that, at Cienfuegos, the vessels lay from six to ten miles out at night, going nearer in the daytime.

Lieut. Althouse said that, the day of the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon, he had been in charge of the 8-inch turret of the Massachusetts. The ship had not taken to exceed three minutes

LOS ANGELES LEADS LARGEST POSTOFFICES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The postoffice business of San Francisco increased more rapidly during September than that of any city in the country, with three exceptions. Los Angeles heads the whole list of the fifty largest offices in the country in respect to the percentage of gain of receipts in September over those of the same month in 1900. Los Angeles' gain was 28.8 per cent. The only other cities which gained more rapidly than San Francisco in postal receipts were Jersey City, N. J., and Portland Or.

San Francisco's receipts during September last were $89,871, as against $77,691 in 1900, a gain of 15.2 per cent. San Francisco stands eighth in rank among all cities, according to the gross postoffice receipts, Brooklyn being seventh and Baltimore ninth. The postoffice receipts are always taken as an indication of the intelligence of the people and the general business prosperity of the city.

in passing the entrance to the harbor on the first passage, and only two shots were then fired. The instructions were to make the range 7000 yards, but the shots fell short and the range was increased on the return trip to 8500 and then to 10,000 yards.

Asked what was developed as to the strength of the land batteries by this reconnoissance, he said that, to his mind, it was shown they were very weak. In reply to a question as to whether he had made any notes concerning the engagement he replied: "No; we went in under instructions to sink the Colon."

His orders had been to direct his fire at that vessel.

SCHLEY'S REPORT.

When Lieut. Althouse was excused, Capt. Lemly introduced as evidence the reports made by Commodore Schley to the Secretary of the Navy on the engagement of May 31. In one of these, dated June 3, Commodore Schley said: "Reconnoissance was intended principally to injure and destroy the Colon. The fire was returned without delay by the heavy batteries to the east and to the west entrance; large caliber, long range; reconnoissance developing satisfactorily the presence of the Spanish squadron, lying behind island near inner fort, as they fired over hill at random. Quite satisfied Spanish fleet is there."

ADMIRAL DEWEY'S NEPHEW.

Lieut. P. G. Dewey, nephew of Admiral Dewey, who was a watch officer on the Massachusetts, was the next witness. He placed the distance of the blockading line under Commodore Schley from the mouth of the harbor at from five to eight miles, the distance being about the same, day and night. There was, he said, no particular formation of the vessels. The examination on this point was as follows:

Capt. Lemly: When you were at the western end of the blockade, with the leading vessel making the turn, what orders were there for attacking, if you saw the enemy coming out of the entrance?

"I do not believe we could have seen the enemy coming out. There were no orders I have any knowledge of."

"Why do you think you would not have seen the enemy coming out, if such had been the case?"

"Owing to darkness and the distance from the harbor. For instance, when we were at the western end of the line, the ships could have come out and stood to the eastward without our being any the wiser, unless they showed lights."

"How about the reverse of that proposition?"

"I think it would have been the same in either case."

Capt. Lemly then asked: "Did you have any conversation with the commanding officer of the Flying Squadron, or any one in his presence in relation to the fire on the Colon, or otherwise?"

Lieut. Dewey replied: "I was told, shortly before we started into the entrance, that the commodore wished to see the turret officers in the pilot house. I went to the pilot-house, and the commodore said that he intended to go in a few moments and have a 'try' at the Colon, and that he hoped we would sink her. I asked what speed we would make, and was told 'about ten knots.' I remarked that I thought that that was giving us very little chance at the Colon, as she would be in sight between the headlines only a couple of minutes, and that the smoke from the guns would probably make our fire very slow. To the best of my recollection the commodore stated we would have to do the best we could; that the speed would be ten knots."

Lieut. Dewey said, in reply to questions, that the Spanish shore batteries had not given the American ships much trouble on that occasion.

"None from the Colon came near," he said, "but two or three shots from the batteries fell about the Massachusetts at the time, one passing over it."

"What conclusion did you arrive at as to the caliber of the shore guns?"

"I did not think they were of very large caliber; not over 6-inch."

LIEUT. FRANCIS BOUGHTER.

Lieut. Francis Boughter, who was a watch and division officer on board the Marblehead during Commodore Schley's blockade of Santiago, was then called. He said that, during that time, the Marblehead and the Vixen were on picket duty between the shore line and the line of blockade, the Marblehead being stationed three miles from the shore and to the westward, six miles from the Morro. He would attempt to say how far outside the squadron was, but he could not see the ships after nightfall.

The court asked: "Was the Marblehead in such position while on picket duty off Santiago that the enemy's vessels would have been seen had they attempted to leave the harbor?"

The witness replied: "That would depend on a great many circumstances—the state of the weather, the course they took, and their success in keeping their ships dark and quiet."

Admiral Dewey asked: "The Marblehead was on picket duty. Could she have seen the enemy coming?"

"If the enemy kept too close to the shore," replied Lieut. Boughter, "and we were three miles off during most of the time, we could not have seen them. If the enemy had stood south from the entrance, which would have placed them about four miles off, we could not have seen them, provided they kept reasonably dark and quiet."

Rayner asked: "What was the purpose of the picket boats being there, if they could not see the enemy?"

"They were supposed to be there, I presume, for that purpose," replied the witness.

"Then, if they were there for that purpose, what was it that would have prevented them from accomplishing this object?"

"The fact that they could not see a vessel if it ran a distance of from two to three miles off at night."

Lieut. Boughter was still on the stand when the court took its noon recess. At the afternoon session, Lieut. Boughter said he had received no general orders as to the distance out from Santiago Harbor for the Marblehead, the captain of the vessel fixing the distance from time to time.

LIEUT. ERNEST BENNETT.

Lieut. Ernest Bennett, flag lieutenant on the New York in 1898, was called. He said that when the North Atlantic squadron arrived off Santiago, the "Flying Squadron" was found there.

Capt. Lemly then said that he had called Lieut. Bennett not only for his direct examination, but for full cross-examination, in accordance with the precept.

LIEUT. CHARLES C. MARSH.

Rayner stated, however, that he had no questions to ask, and the witness was excused, being succeeded by Lieut. Charles C. Marsh, who was flag secretary to Admiral Sampson during the Spanish War. Lieut. Marsh testified concerning the forwarding of dispatches by the Dupont and the Iowa from Key West May 20. These messages were from Admiral Sampson to Commodore Schley, and one of them was the memorandum by Capt. McCalla concerning the insurgents at Cienfuegos. Questioned as to the correctness of his memory, the witness said that his mind was refreshed by the records of the commander-in-chief as to his correspondence. Every letter was, he said, press-copied as soon as written, and he therefore considered the order in which the letters were copied as a certain record of what has transpired in the way of letter-writing. Other records were produced, which, he said, were corroborative of this.

From his records he found that the "Dear Schley" letter had been sent on the Dupont May 20. He also found from the record that a dispatch of May 21, saying the Spanish squadron was "probably at Santiago," had been forwarded by the Marblehead. This is the dispatch dated at Key West in which Admiral Sampson said to Commodore Schley: "If you are satisfied that they (the enemy) are not at Cienfuegos, proceed to Santiago," etc. He also identified a dispatch of May 21, dated at Havana, urging the commodore to get away from Cienfuegos before daylight of May 23, as the "Spanish would probably be still at Santiago." The latter dispatch, he said, had been written after the dispatch from Key West of the same date.

Mr. Hanna asked: "Would it have been possible that the 'Dear Schley' letter could have been sent on an earlier date than this letter of May 19, transmitting the McCalla memorandum?"

"I should say not," replied the witness, "the McCalla memorandum being press-copied in the book on a prior page."

In cross-examining the witness, Rayner said that counsel for Admiral Schley would admit the receipt of one copy of the McCalla memorandum, but that there was dispute as to the other copies. He tried to get the witness to say that the Iowa had carried a duplicate of the "Dear Schley" letter, but he would not do so. He held, however, to the statement that the McCalla memodandum had been carried in duplicate by both the Dupont and the Iowa. He had, however, no written evidence that either the Hawk or the Marblehead had carried the memorandum.

"We were likely to be on the safe side in such matters," said the witness, "and to have chucked in the memorandum, but the Marblehead had not been relied upon to carry the dispatch."

Rayner questioned the witness at some length on this point, saying: "I want to call your attention to this: Dispatch No. 6 was received May 23 by the Hawk. Now, it is in evidence here that the Hawk carried No. 8 to Commodore Schley, and this letter commences, 'In reply to your letter No. 8, I would state,' and so on. Then it says: 'Regarding inclosed information from McCalla.' Now, don't that refresh your memory upon the point that when he received No. 8 from the Hawk he received with it the inclosed information from Capt. McCalla, which is the memorandum?"

"He probably did. He might have received it half a dozen times. That was not the first time it was sent."

"Does not that settle it that he got it from the Hawk?"

"I do not know that it necessarily does."

Lieut. Marsh was then excused.

SAMPSON'S CHIEF OF STAFF.

Capt. F. E. Chadwick, who commanded the New York and was Admiral Sampson's chief of staff, was called as a witness in the Schley court this afternoon. He testified concerning the code of signals arranged by Capt. McCalla with the Cuban insurgents at Cienfuegos, of which he said Capt. McCalla had informed him upon his arrival at Key West, May 19, 1898. He said he could not recall to whom he had communicated the code; that he had not informed Commodore Schley, because Capt. McCalla was to return immediately to Cienfuegos, where Admiral Schley was stationed.

Capt. Chadwick recalled a conversation he had heard between Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley at Key West, in which Commodore Schley had told the admiral that he was glad to be under his command, and assured him that he would be entirely loyal to him.

Capt. Chadwick also said he had heard Commodore Schley tell Admiral Sampson after the latter's arrival at Santiago that it was impossible to blockade the Spaniards at Santiago, if they desired to come out.

CHADWICK AN OBJECTOR.

Capt. Chadwick said that he had objected to the telegram of congratulation which Admiral Sampson had sent to Commodore Schley, May 28, considering it uncalled for by the circumstances.

At 4 o'clock p.m., with Capt. Chadwick still on the stand, the Schley court adjourned.

TRIAL OF NEELEY.

PILFERED POSTAL FUNDS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The War Department is informed that the trial of C. W. Neeley on charges of misappropriation of postal funds in Cuba, is now in progress. No law officer of the United States government is engaged in the case, although testimony and depositions taken in this country have been forwarded to the prosecuting officers in Havana. Additional testimony in the case was sent yesterday.

COPPER PRODUCERS AGREE.

Product to be Curtailed—Several Big Mines Close Down Temporarily and All on Sundays.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Amalgamated Copper Company, Augustus Heinze, Senator W. A. Clark and other big copper producers have reached an agreement to restrict copper production. This fact has been disclosed by repeated rumors that Heinze had settled with his old enemies, the Amalgamated people, which he denies. It is stated that the only agreement he has is to curtail the copper production, so he has reduced the working force in his mines one-third. Several big producing mines of the Amalgamated company are closed down temporarily, and operation in all the mines has been suspended Sundays.

Restriction is to continue until the copper supply on the market is practically exhausted, and the price of the metal will thus be maintained.

MONTANA IRRIGATES.

Opening of Canal System on Carey Land by the State, Whose Settlers Will Reap Entire Benefit.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

HELENA (Mont.) Oct. 11.—What seems to be a good beginning in the solution of the great arid-lands problem was made yesterday by the State of Montana. The State Arid Land Grant Commission, which was created by the Legislature with power to reclaim lands donated to the State by the general government under the Carey act, celebrated the opening of the great canal system in district No. 4. The canal, intended to irrigate 33,000 acres of the Carey land, was opened and water sent on its mission of making homes for the small farmers. Eleven thousand acres are now ready for settlement. The land lies in small valleys surrounded by low-lying hills that supply rich grass for stock. The State is building the canal system, and will own and operate it in perpetuity for the sole benefit of the occupants of the land, and without profit to any one, making the enterprise entirely cooperative in nature.

SOUTH AFRICA.

THIRD YEAR OF THE STRUGGLE.

Critics Asking Why not Wind Up the War?

Official Assurances Too Vague to Satisfy.

Buller's Confession Causes Consternation and Loses Him a Peerage.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The opening of the third year of the war in South Africa today is the subject of editorials in the morning papers reviewing the campaign. Although it is admitted that the reply of Mr. Brodrick to the critics of the War Office puts a better face upon the situation, the critics are not satisfied.

"It is useless to talk about the great forces employed and the money expended," says the Standard, "unless the government is able to expedite the winding-up of operations."

The Times says: "The tone of both Mr. Brodrick and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach is excellent, but the official defense of the faults and omissions of the past is lame and impotent, while the official promises for the future are too vague to be very reassuring."

BULLER'S BULLS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Sir Redvers Buller's extraordinary speech is hailed with consternation by this morning's papers, according to the Tribune's London correspondent. The Standard attacks him severely, and tells him that the best thing he can do now is to resign his command of the First Army Corps.

The Daily Mail, which considers that the speech would have been more in place on the boards of a theater, points out that the message to Ladysmith is exactly paralleled by Sir H. Parker's famous order to Admiral Nelson at Copenhagen, to break off the battle and to retire in order—a request which posterity has unsparingly condemned.

On the whole, Brodrick's statement concerning the South African situation is fairly well received, but two or three of the Conservative papers are not satisfied with it. If ministerial optimism was unwarranted twelve months ago, why, it is asked, should the public have faith in it today? If the government cannot contrive to wind up operations without much further delay, there is little comfort in the fact that the nation is employing a great many men and horses, and spending enormous sums of money over the still unfinished task. Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, although he did not say much that was new in his speech, afforded the information that the special object of the proclamation of martial law at Cape Town was to stop supplies of ammunition, which have been making their way through Cape Colony to the Boers.

Gen. Buller, in his speech, talked garruously about coincidences, and dealt freely in innuendoes, but he was merciless in attacking his own reputation. His attempt to connect the visit of some blackmailer of Aldershot with articles written for the press by men like Spencer Wilkinson, and others of the highest character, was farcical. He does not seem to know that men like the Duke of Cambridge have turned against him on his own record.

THE STORM GROWS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The storm raised by Gen. Buller's remarkable outburst yesterday afternoon continues to grow. The speech is the one topic of discussion, and there is general anticipation that disciplinary measures will follow, unless Gen. Buller himself takes the advice of such a conservative supporter of the government as the Standard, and resigns.

The tone of the press is generally one of surprised amazement at his indiscretions. The people of England generally stuck to him throughout, and his and his wife's social influence has been most powerful, and has even reached the court. It had been decided that he would be elevated to the peerage on the next honor list, but it is now doubtful if, after yesterday's confession, that he advised the surrender of Ladysmith—"a humiliation compared with which," as the Standard says, "all other reverses of the war would have been trivial"—even the King and the people will continue to favor him.

THE MASTER HAND'S WORK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sir Redvers Buller's outbreak has arrayed the entire press against him, and has probably alienated the sympathy of the court, which was already seriously impaired. The King is a stern disciplinarian, and has an intense horror of "bad form," and Gen. Buller, by his unseemly exhibition, has violated all amenities of military etiquette. His downfall cannot be long deferred, strong as have been the Aldershot and social influences behind him.

To those behind the scenes, the work of a master hand can be traced in these transactions. Gen. Buller's plan of campaign, two years ago, sacrificed everything to the deliverance of Natal; Lord Methuen was sent to Modder River with instructions to relieve Kimberley, and then evacuate it, taking the garrison and people back to Orange River. Cecil Rhodes, the real defender of Kimberley, never forgave him. Ladysmith was a long way off, but Jameson was there, and knew what went on after Colenso.

The inscrutable Rhodes kept silent respecting Kimberley, but gradually turned on the light in regard to orders for the surrender of Ladysmith. His hand has been out of sight, but today Gen. Buller, discredited by his own folly, has not a friend, either at court or in the ministry, and the entire English press is demanding either his resignation of the command of the First Army Corps, or a thorough military inquiry.

TRAITORS IN REAR.

MARTIAL-LAW IN CAPE COLONY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Discussing the South African situation, the London correspondent of the Tribune says that the best explanation which has been received regarding the proclamation of martial-law in Cape Colony is that Lord Kitchener insisted upon having some means of protecting the army against traitors in the rear who were more dangerous than the Cape rebels, hiding and fighting in the mountains. Whether or not there was any controversy between Lord Kitchener and Sir Alfred Milner over the proclamation is an open question, but the report that another commander-in-chief in South Africa would have been requisite if it had not been issued is generally credited among the military and government officials.

IMPERIALIST RHODES WORRIED ABOUT EGYPT.

EPISODE OF GLADSTONE'S DAYS BROUGHT TO LIGHT.

Five Thousand Pounds Donated to the Liberal Party's Funds on Condition That the British Should not Scuttle Out of the Nile Region.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Spectator tomorrow will print letters from Cecil Rhodes and the late Francis Schnadhorst (who, from 1885 to 1892, was the chief organizer and adviser of the Liberal party,) sustaining the sensational allegations made some months ago that Rhodes, in 1891, gave £5000 to the Liberal party on condition that Gladstone would not bring about the evacuation of Egypt by the British troops. Both Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman (the Liberal leaders) have publicly declared this to be false. In a letter covering this correspondence, Rhodes sums up as follows:

"I met Mr. Schnadhorst in London, and he asked whether I was willing to subscribe to the party funds. I said I was prepared to do so, providing the policy was not to scuttle out of Egypt, and that in the event of a home-rule bill being brought forward, provision should be made for the retention of the Irish members at Westminster. I understood from Mr. Schnadhorst that he would consult Mr. Gladstone, which quite satisfied me, as I looked upon Mr. Gladstone as the Liberal party. Mr. Schnadhorst accepted the contribution upon the conditions defined in the letter appended."

In this letter, Rhodes demanded that his contribution be kept secret, and that the check be returned if the Irish were not represented at Westminster. But he added a postscript, saying: "I am horrified at Mr. Morley's speech on Egypt. If you think your party hopeless, keep the money, but give it to some charity. It would be an awful thing to give my money for the breaking up of the empire."

In 1892, Rhodes again wrote to Schnadhorst, drawing attention to a speech by Gladstone, foreshadowing a scuttle out of Egypt, and expressing the hope that Schnadhorst would do his best to check the mad step. "But," he said, "if your respected leader remains obdurate, I shall certainly call upon you to devote my subscription to some public charity."

In Schnadhorst's reply, he says Rhodes's money had already been spent, as he believed it was given mainly to help the Home Rule struggle. Schnadhorst, however, assured Rhodes that Gladstone's utterances were only an expression of his opinion; that Sir William Vernon Harcourt was also annoyed at them, and that no scuttle out of Egypt was likely, as he had seen Lord Rosebery, then slated for Foreign minister, who would not permit it, being "a strong man, who will take his own course, very different from the pliant, supple Granville."

"On the reception of this," Rhodes says, "I bothered no more, as upon Lord Rosebery's appointment I knew that Egypt was saved. I have your readers to decide how far Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman is justified in characterizing the original statements as a lie from beginning to end. According to their statements, neither Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman nor Sir William Harcourt are acquainted with the facts. But I, naturally, assumed that Mr. Schnadhorst was speaking with authority."

"A MARE'S NEST."

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Westminster Gazette this afternoon publishes letters showing that Rhodes's remonstrances to Schnadhorst concerning Gladstone's speech on Egypt, in 1892, was sent through W. T. Stead, who, in writing to Rhodes that he had forwarded the letter intrusted to him, says that Gladstone, hearing that Rhodes was dissatisfied with the Premier's views regarding Egypt, wrote to Stead that he did not know Rhodes's views on Egypt.

"From this," writes Stead to Rhodes, "I infer that Mr. Schnadhorst never informed Mr. Gladstone of anything you said to him."

The Spectator's revelations are generally commented upon as a mare's nest, and the Spectator itself, in an editorial, unreservedly withdraws its statement that "Mr. Rhodes bought up the evacuation policy for £5000," and expresses regret for having made it.

FORTHCOMING FISTICUFFS.

Ruhlin Settles Down to Hard Training.

Walcott Gets Ready to Meet Carter.

Oxford Boy Wins Five Thousand Dollars—Lipton to Challenge Again.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ruhlin has settled down to hard training for the championship fight with Jeffries, which has been set for November 15. As a starter, at his work today he boxed four hot rounds with "Kid" Lavigne. It was the first time Gus ever had the gloves on with "the Kid," and he was rather surprised at his speed. After boxing with "the Kid," Gus banged away at Charley Goff until the latter wanted a chance for a little fresh air, and young Gibbs, the Cincinnati middleweight, finished up the day's work by keeping Gus in action for twenty minutes.

Ruhlin is taking quite a bit of gymnasium work, and has not yet taken to the road for the hardest work. Indications point to him as the short-ender at odds of about ten to four before the fight.

Walcott is already in fine shape for his fight with Carter, next Tuesday night. He is training at Gus Frizzi's Larkspur retreat, and is being handled by Gus Herget and Henry Lewis. He will be in even better condition than he was for Gardner last month. Walcott is a pugilist who requires a great deal of work. To this he never took very kindly, and under the former management often entered the ring in bad shape. His new manager, Gus Herget, however, gives him no let-up. When Joe is not on the road or boxing he is hardening up his muscles carrying five-gallon cans of water to the arks in Corte Madera Creek.

Betting commenced around the sporting centers yesterday. The first wagers were at even money, but soon an influx of Walcott money made the colored man favorite at odds of 10 to 7. This shows the confidence the public have in the "little demon" when they know he is trying.

Carter has every physical advantage over Walcott. He is twenty-three pounds heavier on entering the ring, nine inches taller, and can take as much, if not greater, punishment than the black. He looks to be in better condition than when he fought Gardner.

OXFORD BOY'S VICTORY.

TWO-YEAR-OLD FUTURITY.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Oct. 11.—Lawson's Oxford Boy won the two-year-old trotting Futurity today, after a hard struggle with Grace Eldred. The pace was too swift for the majority of the youngsters, and at the finish of the third heat there were only two left. Accordingly, the son of Red Clute took first, third and fourth money.

The $2000 Wilson Stake, 2:30 class, pacing, was won in straight heats by Audubon Boy, the favorite. He was fought to the wire in each heat by Dr. Monical and New Richmond, being forced to lower the record for the stake three-quarters of a second in the first heat, and covered the other two miles in the remarkable time of 2:07¾ and 2:08½. Summary:

The 2:18 class, pacing, purse $2000, unfinished from Thursday: Dan Riley won the second, fifth and sixth heats; Pinchem Wilkes won the third and fourth, Louise C. won the first; time of sixth heat, 2:12¾.

The 2:20 class, trotting, purse $1000: Galbater won three straight heats; best time 2:12¾.

The Wilson Stake, 2:20 class, pacing, purse $2000: Audubon Boy won three straight heats; best time 2:06¾.

The 2:16 class, trotting, purse $1000: Willie Glenn won three straight heats; best time 2:11¾.

The Futurity for two-year-old trotters, purse $5000: Oxford Boy won the second and third heats in 2:17; Pattie Mc won the first heat in 2:20¾. Gail Hamilton, Olive, The Rajah, Chesko and Baron Wilkes also started.

AMATEUR GOLF CONTEST.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The contest for the women's national amateur golf championship will be finished tomorrow between Miss Genevieve Hecker of the Essex Country Club, Orange, N. J., and Miss Lucy Herron of the Cincinnati Country Club. After four days' play these two have survived out of the eighty-four players who entered the contest last Tuesday. Miss Hecker is the metropolitan amateur champion, and is well known in eastern golfing circles, while Miss Herron has surprised every one here by her brilliant play, being comparatively unknown as a tip-topper at the game in this section.

REFEREE FAVORS O'BRIEN.

HONORS ABOUT EVEN.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

STOCKTON, Oct. 11.—At the close of twenty hot rounds, Referee Ed. Smith of the Reliance Club, Oakland, tonight gave Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia the decision over Rufe Turner, the Stockton fighter. The men fought at 133 pounds, and gave a pretty battle from start to finish, with honors even according to general opinion, but the referee decided for O'Brien. Turner laid back the first six rounds and made a waiting fight, with O'Brien boring in at all times, and then it was give and take. O'Brien showed clever blocking and ring generalship, but did not have the force to give a knockout blow at any time. He worked at Turner's stomach the entire fight, but the colored fighter was as fresh at the close at his white opponent.

Jack O'Brien is a lightweight of New York and Philadelphia, who fought Frank Erne a twenty-five-round draw at Coney Island and whipped all the other best lightweights in the country. The decision tonight was on points made by body punches and cleverness in blocking. The only knockdown in the fight was in the eighteenth round, when Turner slipped and O'Brien caught him a short left in the stomach. The colored boy took the count. Turner's mistake was laying up the first six rounds in an effort to protect his friends, who bet on the second line, and in that O'Brien secured a big lead on points.

CRESCEUS CUTS TIME MADE BY HIMSELF.

WORLD'S RECORD FOR MILE ON HALF-MILE TRACK.

Wonderful Trotter Goes the Distance at Toledo in Two Minutes and Nine and a Half Seconds—Over Forty Thousand People Present.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

TOLEDO (O.) Oct. 11.—Cresceus this afternoon lowered the world's trotting record on a half-mile track by one-quarter of a second. The record was previously held by himself, having been made on the Toledo track a year ago. It was 2:09¾.

He trotted for the benefit of the charitable institutions of the city, and more than 40,000 people gathered to see him. The receipts were $18,000.

Cresceus got a very slow start, and with a running mate passed the quarter in 0:32½. The three-quarters-of-a-mile pole was reached in 1:36½. The horse went under the wire in 2:09¾, which is the fastest mile ever trotted on a half-mile track.

Three Interests Merged into One.

Can Withstand a Strike and Be Helpful.

Procuress Convicted—Folsom Convict Will not Testify. Forest Fires.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—An organization that will be stronger than any similar combination ever before in this port or on the coast is the Federation of the Steamship Managers' Association, the Ship Owners' Association, and the owners of schooners. Preliminary steps have been taken to organize this federation, and it is expected that within a week the interests of all three organizations, so far as they can be made mutually beneficial, will have been merged into one. Under the prospective new conditions, the owners of vessels will be in perfect position to withstand a strike and be mutually helpful to one another.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

HUMOR OF CONVICT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 11.—Thomas Cox, convict from Folsom, in Judge Hunt's court today refused to be sworn or to testify against Convict Charles G. Klein, charged with the murder of Convict Henry Miller. A touch of humor was added by the order of Judge Hart that Jones be adjudged guilty of contempt of court for refusing to take the oath, and was ordered taken into custody of the Sheriff until such time as he shall see fit to purge himself of contempt of court by taking the oath and delivering his testimony. Jones is serving a sentence of fifty years in the penitentiary, and the present proceedings do not impress him as so important. He also regards the accommodations at the Sacramento County Jail as superior to those of the state prison at Folsom, and would relish a sojourn in the Capital City in the light of a picnic, especially as the attempt commitment does not carry with it a requirement of hard labor. When pressed by Deputy District Attorney Wachhorst for an explanation of his refusal to testify, Jones replied that ever since his testimony against Cox in before the Coroner's jury in this matter, the other convicts at Folsom have made his life a perfect hell, harassing him constantly, and from threats made by them, he fears that he will be killed if he again testified against Klein.

Warden Wilkinson and Capts. Cashin and Murphy of the Folsom penitentiary were in court, and declared that Jones would be, and would be provoked to give his testimony against Klein, notwithstanding his past refusal, in the event of further threatening, and still declined to open his mouth.

Wachhorst took Jones into his office and endeavored to dissuade him from his determination to refuse to testify before a conclusion was reached the court was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, it being believed that Jones will be present and willing to testify. He intimates that he is willing to do so, if given satisfactory assurance that he will be protected from the wrath of the other convicts.

BIG FOREST FIRE.

TRACT NEAR PACIFIC GROVE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PACIFIC GROVE, Oct. 11.—The largest forest fire known here in years is now raging in the hills back of town. A dense cloud of smoke hangs over the valley, and the atmosphere is very hot. The fire started on the Jacks tract, north of Monterey, last week, and has steadily gained headway, despite constant fighting. It is now burning a large tract of the Pacific Improvement Company's property about three miles south of Pacific Grove.

FIRES NEAR SALINAS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALINAS, Oct. 11.—Immense forest fires are raging on the Gabina and the Los Lenos range hills. The former is in the neighborhood of San Miguel and Agenda; the latter back of the old reservoir. Fires, which were started about 5 o'clock this morning, and were caused by the carelessness of hunters, have been spreading rapidly, and are spreading terrific rapidity. Thousands of acres of timber have already been consumed, and it is feared that the fire will extend over several thousand acres, before it can be gotten under control. The damage will be immense. Owing to the prevailing of these fires near Salinas the air has become unbearable, the thermometer touching 95 in the shade.

COLLINS MAKES PLEA.

METHODS ALWAYS LAX.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Attorney Collins made his closing argument to the jury in the case of Walter Leach before United States Dist. Judge De Haven today. Collins for the prosecution and said that the unfair questions of witnesses when it referred to the defendant's dealings with the Tallant Bank-ing company of this city, and also a number of the Folsom penitentiary. The prosecution produced evidence to support such slanderous charges, he said.

Secret-service agents, the attorneys for the prosecution, Superintendent Leach and Cashier Cole say they have no feeling in the case—that they are merely to subserve the interests of justice—justice as they understand it. Leach's own testimony showed that regulations were violated at times. The methods were lax. Supplies were missing from the bank. I suppose Mr. Leach was superintendent, I suppose William Cole was cashier. Is there no ample motive for this prosecution?"

Collins then went into the testimony, reviewing the dealings between the Mint and the Selby Smelting Company.

At 12 o'clock, when a recess was taken, he announced that he would probably argue in the afternoon. Special Counsel Graham will close for the prosecution.

CORRUPTION IN POLITICS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, Oct. 11.—The Rt. Rev. Henry C. Potter, bishop of New York, is in attendance upon the Episcopal convention in San Francisco, addressed the students and citizens at the Greek Theater this morning. A conspicuous feature of the assemblage was the presence of the Rooters' Club, an organization of students, who rendered the various slogans and college yells.

Bishop Potter pointed out the university as being the place where young people should be taught the high responsibilities of citizenship. He pointed out corruption in politics as being a weak point in the government. As a remedy for this the speaker suggested that all citizens who are duly qualified to vote wear an insignia. He also proposed that July 4 be set aside as a day for the examination of young men who are about to reach their majority. The schools, he said, should be kept open at night for the education of the foreigners who are in our midst.

In closing, the bishop predicted a glorious career for the State University.

MURDEROUS ASSAULT.

SLUGGED AND SHOT.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—George W. Rice, a machinist, 23 years of age, is lying at the City and County Hospital at the point of death as the result of an attack made upon him tonight by two men as he alighted from a Howard-street car at Twentieth street on his way home from work.

Rice has been employed at the Golden Gate Iron Works for the past seventeen years. Tonight as he jumped from the car he was hit on the head with a blunt instrument by a man on the car. When he fell to the ground, another man, who had already alighted, fired four shots at him, three of which took effect. One shot entered the shoulder, the second in the breast and the third in the groin.

William Buckley, aged 24, has been arrested and is being held pending the result of Rice's wounds. The police are looking for the second party to the assault.

EXPLOSION KILLS FOUR.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

JUNEAU (Alaska) Oct. 7.—[A. P. Correspondence Wired from Seattle, Wash., Oct. 11.] There was a frightful accident at the Treadwell mine on Douglass Island at 11:30 p.m., yesterday. A party of miners were drifting in the 440-foot level, and from appearances after the accident they recklessly attempted to open a box of powder with a pick, resulting in an explosion which killed four and seriously wounded the fifth. Joe Feratta was blown to atoms and William Moore, George Dusing and an Italian called Louie were instantly killed. The fifth man is at the hospital seriously wounded.

The accident is one of the worst in the history of the mine.

DULL PRUNE MARKET.

NO PRUNES SHIPPED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The dullness of the prune market indicates a repetition of last year's conditions. Scarcely any prunes are going forward, and no inquiries are being received. This is the natural result of the movement on the part of a portion of the association members to place their organization in the hands of receivers. Packers say it is a natural outcome of the unsettled conditions, and the drop made by the association of one-quarter cent a pound a few days ago. It is quite possible the association will handle half the product of the State and the packers the remainder.

INVALID CODE REVISION.

LEGISLATURE MAY CONVENE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Constitutional lawyers who have studied the latest Supreme Court decision declaring invalid the code-revision bills passed at the last session of the Legislature, are speculating today upon the probability of an extra session of the Legislature being necessary for the purpose of reenacting the County Government Act.

This bill was passed in the same manner as those revising the codes. The objections raised by the Supreme Court to the latter measures exist with respect to the new county-government act, and for that reason there are many who believe that an extra session will become a necessity.

THE FIRST TIME.

A PROCURESS CONVICTED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—For the first time in the history of California a procuress has been convicted. After seven minutes' deliberation this afternoon, the jury sitting in Judge Lawler's department of the Superior Court trying Mrs. Aggie Kelly, brought in a verdict of guilty.

Aggie Kelly's crime was a bold and heartless one. She inveigled a sixteen-year-old girl to go to Eureka, Cal., where the child was thrown into the disreputable house run by the notorious Evelyn Miller at that place, and kept a prisoner for many days and nights. The police were finally called upon by the girl's brother to effect a rescue, and the child was liberated. Aggie Kelly being arrested soon afterward.

GOLD DUST FOR SALE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) Oct. 11.—The steamer Danube brought from the north today $105,000 in gold dust for the North American Trading and Transportation Company. Officials of the company were here to receive it and will tomorrow offer it for sale at the provincial assay office and claim the rebate of 1 per cent. of the Dominion royalty paid to Klondike miners marketing their gold here. There is a question as to whether the government will allow the royalty to a company, it having offered inducements to individual miners to market their gold here.

RAISIN TIE-UP RELEASED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—A tie-up of the undistributed balance of the raisin crop of 1900 was released when Superior Judge Sloss refused to grant an injunction restraining the California Raisin Packing Company from selling 600 carloads of raisins to the Pacific Coast Seeded Raisin Company.

The suit in which the injunction was demanded was brought in August last, and since that time 6000 tons of raisins have been lying idle and perishing.

Germany Repudiates Claim of Venezuela That Territory Was Violated at Sailors' Affray, and May Present Demands for Punishment of Guilty Parties.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Advices from Ciudad Bolivar announce that the Venezuelan revolutionists, commanded by Gen. Geronimo Rivas, have attacked and defeated the Venezuelan government troops under Gen. Arostegui, near Barrancas, in the State of Bermudez, and that Gen. Arostegui has been taken prisoner. It is further announced that the Venezuelan troops have joined arms with the revolutionists. Government troops from San Felix, commanded by Gen. Africano, sustained a defeat near that town at the hands of the revolutionists under Gen. Vidal. Gen. Africano escaped to San Felix.

PREPARATIONS HURRIED.

GERMAN CRUISER TO SAIL.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Germany has repudiated the contention of Venezuela that the territory of that republic was violated during the affray October 6 at Porto Cabello, between sailors from the German cruiser Vèineta and the populace of Porto Cabello. In communicating this decision to Caracas, Germany has reserved the right of presenting demands for the punishment of the guilty parties and, for satisfaction. According to a special dispatch from Kiel to the Lokal Anzieger, preparations on the German cruiser Falka are being hurried so that she may leave for South American waters next Tuesday.

The Kiel correspondent of the Berliner Tageblatt says: "The gunboat Panther, which is nearing completion in the imperial yards at Dantzic is dstined for use on the Amazon, the Orinoco and the Platte for the protection of German interests. She is of the improved Iltis type, with stronger artillery, and is capable of thirteen knots.

RIPLEY PREDICTS CONTINUED PROSPERITY.

RESERVE POWER OF PAST FOUR YEARS, A GUARANTEE.

No Indication of Diminution of Business—Iron and Steel Deliveries Six Months Behind Because of Large Contracts—Good Crops for Several Years.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Ripley of the Santa Fé declared the reserve power collected by the American railroads, industrial corporations, and, to a large extent, by the farmers in the past four years, was a guarantee of continued prosperity for years to come.

"At present," said Ripley, "there is no indication of a diminution of the volume of business throughout the country. The iron industry is generally taken as a gauge of the general conditions. It is impossible to get deliveries of iron and steel inside of six months, on account of the large contracts made ahead. This does not look like contraction. Everything points to a continuation of the present increase in the volume of business which railroads and other corporations are showing at the present time, for at least the year to come. We have had good crops for several years past, except in the case of this year's corn crop, and as a result a surplus of reserve power has been stored up which it is impossible to estimate."

RAILWAY PASSES STAND.

PLAN TO WIPE OUT KILLED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Railway passes will not be abolished December 31 next. The plan to wipe them out of existence was killed at a meeting here today of the executive officials of western roads. They will meet again November 5. The scheme to abolish passes in all probability will be resurrected about a year hence, as E. H. Harriman and other railroad magnates are firmly imbued with the idea that the officers and employés of the railroads, and members of their families, should pay regular rates when they travel, the same as all others.

When a vote was taken on the question of abolishing passes, nearly all the big roads voted in the affirmative, and all the smaller roads voted against it. The majority against abolishing passes was decisive.

BURLINGTON COMING.

WILL REACH SALT LAKE.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—The Post today says:

"Positive and authoritative confirmation has been given of reports that the Burlington road will extend its lines from Guernsey, Wyo., to Salt Lake City, Utah, to connect with the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake road. The line will be built by an independent company, but members of it will be directly allied with the Burlington. For all practical purposes the new line will be part of the Burlington system, and there is no doubt that it will be incorporated with the parent company ultimately. It is also likely, though a more distant prospect, that Senator Clark's road will come into the Burlington family."

MORGAN PACIFIC.

GIVES UP ST. PAUL INTEREST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The most interesting piece of financial talk today was the report that J. Pierpont Morgan, to settle the Northern Pacific dispute, had given up his interest in the St. Paul, to the Harriman-Union Pacific interest, and that a combination of the two latter and the Northwestern, and possibly of other lines, would be the result.

St. Paul and Union Pacific were the most active stocks in the list on the strength of this proposition, each being traded to about 129,000 shares. St. Paul made a net advance of 7 points to 166, and the Union Pacific moved up 2⅝, to 160⅛, at the close of the market.

In addition to this, it was reported that the Harriman interest had sold its Northern Pacific holdings to the Morgan-Hill party, and that the consolidation of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Burlington would result. Jim Hill will go to New York next week about the time Morgan returns from San Francisco. New York advices by private wire were that the Missouri Pacific consolidation had only been held in abeyance, and that it would be effected this fall.

"There is no doubt in my mind that Hill will effect a combine of his three roads, the Great Northern, the Northern Pacific and the Burlington," said a banker. "There is no doubt in my mind, either, that the Union Pacific will effect a combine with several roads at some time in the near future. The St. Paul will be included in that deal, and, of course, the Northwestern, for the interests of the Union Pacific and Northwestern are so closely allied, that the latter would not be left out by any such combination."

BIG THEFT OF BONDS.

ITHACA (N.Y.) Oct. 11—Charles Norris, car inspector for the Lehigh Valley Railroad, was arrested here today, charged with the theft of bonds, jewelry and other property valued at $70,000, belonging to Mrs. Denman Thompson and Mrs. Franklin Thompson of the "Old Homestead Company." Most of the property, including $60,000 worth of bonds, has been recovered. The articles are said to have been stolen from trunks in a baggage car.

TORONTO GREETS THE DUKE.

TORONTO (Ont.) Oct. 11.—Thousands of loyal Canadians joined in the reception to the Duke of Cornwall and York today. The events of the day began with a grand review of 10,000 troops and a march past which was highly commended by English army experts present. The Duke seemed highly pleased with the work of the colonial troops. In the afternoon the degree of LL.D. was conferred on the Duke by the Toronto University.

NARKA BANK ROBBED.

BEATRICE (Neb.) Oct. 11.—The bank at Narka, Kans., 40 miles southwest of here, was robbed last night. Expert safe-blowers used dynamite on the steel safe, and secured $15,000, principally in cash. A posse with bloodhounds is pursuing the robbers.

NO FINES BY MULCT LAW.

DES MOINES (Iowa) Oct. 11.—The State Supreme Court decided that a city has no statutory authority to prescribe a fine for the violation of that section of the Iowa Mulct law prohibiting open saloons election days, holidays or Sundays.

Tyranny of the Tip.

It is becoming a common occurrence to hear of railway passengers being charged with assaulting others in the fight for seats. The system is a scandalous one, which admits of the inconvenience from which these brawls arise. It regularly happens that the London, Chatham and Dover and Southeastern trains coming into town in the morning have certain compartments labeled, "Reserved for Mr. Various Party." The occupants of these half-filled carriages have secured their unfair advantage by tips to the guard or porters earlier on the journey. The result is that others awaiting the trains nearer town must travel second or third class after paying first-class fare. —[London Black and White.

Old Teeth or Bridge Work.

This method does away with plates and, while more expensive, is certainly much more satisfactory. You can bite and masticate with these teeth just as you could with natural teeth. We do so much of this work and save more time by the Schiffman Method that we are enabled to save you about 25 per cent. In delicate work like this, where practice is such an element in success, does it not seem reasonable to suppose that a dentist of natural ability, wide experience and unusual practice, can do better and cheaper work than others of less experience and small practice, even if they have the same natural ability? Reason answers for us.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he removed the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth, and put on a porcelain crown which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. # TO PROHIBIT REMARRIAGE.

Debate on Section Four Calls Crowds.

No Vote Reached Before Adjournment.

Five Missionary Bishops are Named—Huntington's Exception.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The question of marriage and divorce was before both houses of the triennial convention of the Episcopal Church of America today. The bishops adopted a substitute for the proposed canon 36, providing for the discipline of persons marrying again after being divorced. The principal change made by the substitute is the provision that such person may receive the sacrament on the written consent of a bishop.

The House of Deputies began the eagerly-awaited debate on section 4 of proposed Canon 36, which virtually prohibits the remarriage in the church of divorced persons. The announcement that the debate would be public attracted a large crowd. Nearly all of the spectators in the galleries were women who evinced great interest.

As soon as this section was announced as the business before the House, which was sitting in committee of the whole, it was read by the chairman, Judge Packard of Maryland. Rev. Dr. Huntington of New York, moved an amendment which excepts the innocent party to a divorce on the ground of adultery from the prohibition of the canon. The debate at once began and continued until the adjournment.

The debate will be resumed Monday. The only vote reached during the day was on a proposed modification of Dr. Huntington's amendment providing for determining the cause of divorce in the case of a divorced person applying to be married. This was defeated, Dr. Huntington declaring that his amendment sufficiently covered this matter. The debate throughout was characterized by great earnestness, and some of the speeches were marked by real eloquence.

The day was extremely warm and there was a constant fluttering of fans in the galleries. Several times a disposition to applaud was shown, but this was quickly suppressed by the chairman's gavel.

Five missionary bishops were voted for and nominated today by the House of Bishops to the House of Deputies, where the final election must take place.

HOUSE OF DEPUTIES.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—On the assembling of the House of Deputies today an attempt to take up matters on the calendar in advance of their order was promptly tabled, showing a disposition to proceed with the regular order, which secures first consideration to the canon on marriage and divorce and other similar prominent subjects.

At 10:30 the House went into committee of the whole on the new marriage and divorce canon. An attempt to strike out a requirement of section 3 that, in recording a marriage, the clergy shall state the ages of the parties, was defeated. A requirement that when practicable the parish register record should be signed by the married parties and the witnesses was, after considerable objection, retained. Section 3 was then adopted as a whole.

This brought the controversy down to the famous Article IV, already adopted by the bishops, which forbids the marriage of persons divorced for cause not existing before their former marriage—a practical bar to the remarriage of divorced persons by the Episcopal Church.

Mr. Lewis of Pennsylvania, arose to correct a misapprehension of the purport of this canon. He explained that it does not propose to prevent any one at all from being married. It only proposes to forbid ministers of the Episcopal Church to marry any divorced persons whatever, whose former husband or wife is still living.

Rev. Dr. Huntington offered an amendment intended to except the innocent party to a divorce obtained for the cause of adultery, when the fact is made to appear by a certified record from the court granting the divorce. He supported his proposal by an appeal to the authority of Jesus Christ, which he said cannot be attacked, except by the assistance of what is known as the "higher criticism," and this could be fully answered if the need arises.

Richard H. Battle of North Carolina argued strongly for Dr. Huntington's amendment, as being in accordance with scripture, and free from the charge of impracticability.

Thomas C. Elder urged that evidence regarding divorce should be sought for in the whole record, rather than in the decree of the court alone, which would not in every case recite the ground for the divorce, and moved an amendment to that effect.

Dr. Huntington said he saw the point raised by Elder, and accepted the amendment offered by him.

Edward G. Bradford of Delaware advocated the passage of the section just as it came from the House of Bishops. He said the conditions of society and common decency required just such stringent legislation as is proposed.

Rev. Dr. Greer of New York cited the fact that more divorces were granted in this country than in all the countries of Europe together. Every consideration of social conditions of our country, of the sacredness of the home, and of the teaching of Christ, as he understood it, led him to oppose Dr. Huntington's amendment, and to favor the measure just as it came from the bishops.

Rev. Dr. Wilke of Rhode Island said the eye of the whole country was upon the action to be taken by this convention in this great matter, and appealed for the support of the deputies for the original measure.

Rev. Dr. McKim spoke with a very solemn sense of responsibility. He had deep sympathy with the motive beneath the canon, as it came from the bishops, but he did not believe it would accomplish the end intended. It is revolutionary legislation in this church. He differed with those who, with the church of Rome, held marriage to be absolutely indissoluble. The claim was unscriptural, he said. He cited Bishop King of Lichfield, Eng., as unable to regard marriage as indissoluble. This view was supported by Bishops Lightfoot, Wordsworth and Trench. He thought it a proposition to nullify the teaching of Christ.

Dr. Bacchus of Long Island claimed that the proposed measure did not have the warrant of Holy Scripture as found at least in St. Matthew. Nor does it command the warrant of common sense and moral judgment.

Rev. Mr. De Rossett of Springfield had one point to urge, that the prayer-book service already contemplated just what the canon would require.

Rev. Dr. Ashton of Western New York also claimed that the law of the church was already defined in the prayer-book as making marriage indissoluble.

Rev. Dr. Foley of Central Pennsylvania acknowledged himself, since coming to San Francisco, a convert to the stricter view of the case, largely because the laity seemed to him to demand it. A firm stand, he said, is now required to influence a right public opinion on this subject in the direction of domestic and civic righteousness.

The committee of the whole arose and reported progress. Recess was taken until 3 p.m.

QUESTION OF LABOR.

BISHOP POTTER'S VIEWS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Bishop Potter of New York was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Church Association for the Advancement of Labor, held at the Alhambra Theater last night. Bishop Potter said in part:

"We will never solve the question of labor until the organizing minds, the guiding hands and employing managers are identified with the unions with which the employés are identified. There should be a mutual understanding between employers and their help, and both should be animated by a common tie of brotherhood and fealty."

Bishop Potter spoke of the operations of the Board of Mediation of New York, of which he is president. He said the board came into being without authority, and that is the reason, probably, why he was chosen its president. The board was in existence some ten years, and had settled a number of momentous labor disturbances. The operations of the board were conducted on the principle that nothing tangible could be accomplished if the question of social contact was ignored. In conclusion he said:

"The laborer and employer must be brought closer together. You may legislate as you please, impose taxation as you please, or by other process adjust the conflicting elements of modern society, but if you have not your heart in the work, you fail utterly. The solution of the labor problem consists in the awakening in the hearts of the employer a deep concern for the welfare of those who are in his employ. Their ideas and hopes should not be antagonistic. They should mingle together and observe the laws of social contact. Their aims being identical, their methods should be harmonious if those aims are to be subserved."

TEXT OF PROPOSED CANON.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Following is the text of the substitute for proposed canon 37 relating to the disciplining of persons marrying after divorce, which was adopted by the House of Bishops today:

"No person divorced for causes arising after marriage and marrying again during the lifetime of the other party to the divorce; nor any person marrying a person so divorced, shall be admitted to baptism or confirmation or permitted to receive the holy communion, until the written approval of the bishop shall be given.

"Provided, that this prohibition shall not apply to the case of the innocent party to a divorce for the cause of adultery.

"And provided, also, that the sacrament shall in no case be refused to a penitent party in imminent danger of death."

HOUSE OF BISHOPS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The morning session of the House of Bishops was presided over by Bishop Doane of Albany. After the service of holy communion, the first business in order was the nomination of five missionary bishops, whose final election is dependent on the approval of the House of Deputies.

THE CANAL TREATY.

Return from America of Lord Pauncefote Awaited—Canal Treaty a Certainty in Early Future.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The American Embassy will remain under the direction of Henry White for the remainder of the year, as Choate will sail tomorrow for New York.

Everybody at the Embassy is properly reticent respecting the Canal diplomacy, and there is no official warrant for the statements which are constantly appearing in print. There will be no treaty until Lord Pauncefote returns to America and brings the negotiations with Secretary Hay to a successful issue. Lord Pauncefote is as influential here as in America, and has removed every obstacle, and the canal treaty may be regarded as a certainty of the early future, and it will embody the principle of American control as clinched by the Davis amendment to the last treaty.

When the work is done the United States will be in the same position respecting Panama or the Nicaragua Canal as England occupies in regard to the Suez Canal, with the power of closing it in an emergency of a war against an enemy's ships. England may not have the treaty right to do this with the Suez Canal, but it would be done if necessity should require it.

A GARLAND FROM THE GRAY.

I.

Weeping skies that would seem to deplore him
Cast shadows on stars and on suns;
Drooped flags that are shivering o'er him
To a far-rolling thunder of guns!
And great bells that rock the starred steeples
And moan to the heavens above,
But dearer than all things—a people's Devotion and love!

II.

O Northland and Southland far-sighing
Your grief, in this hour unbiest,
He died for his country, and dying
Was folded in Love to her breast.
In the storm of the battle he towered
A beacon—a strength to the brave,
And Freedom, low-kneeling, has showered
Her tears on his grave.

III.

Fall, flags, o'er the sod where he's lying;
Moan, winds of the world, as ye sweep
Over States unto sad States replying,
O'er oceans where deep calls to deep!
Clasp hands Time shall never dissever,
Though Fate strike with wrath and with rod,
Where he rests in a world's Love's forever—

WASHINGTON.

National Committeeman Kerens would no longer be recognized as representing the interests of Missouri Republicans at Washington. Kerens is one of Hanna's strongest friends.

These events have succeeded each other so rapidly that they have attracted the attention of those who were acquainted with the Republican way of handling patronage. It is the practice of the party for the national chairman to take charge of States from which there is no Republican Senator. He, in turn, depends largely upon the national committeeman from Democratic States. Chairman Hanna maintained a large force of clerks, who looked after the vast correspondence which grew out of these patronage contests. The clerks were paid by the national committee's treasurer. He remained here last spring several weeks after Congress adjourned to wrestle with these southern offices. He made recommendations in about 90 per cent. of the cases.

The President's radical policy will make it difficult for Chairman Hanna to continue at the head of the committee in the advisory capacity which he has heretofore held. The suggestion that he will resign is scouted.

PRESIDENT AT WORK.

WILL MAKE NO LONG TRIPS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The President has decided to take no extensive trips about the country for at least one year. He has received many invitations to visit cities in different parts of the country, to attend fairs and local celebrations, but he has declined every one. He will stick closely to Washington for the next ten or twelve months, by which time he hopes to be able to take a little relaxation.

A slight exception to this rule will be made in the course of the next two weeks, when the President will go to New Haven to receive the degree of LL.D. at Yale. When he returns, it will likely be to remain in Washington until well into the early fall of 1902. That is his programme at present. Many invitations declined were to visit cities in attendance at celebrations to occur next summer. The President realizes that a great amount of hard and exacting work is before him, and he desires to give it his undivided attention.

HAWAIIAN PUBLIC LANDS.

FAIR PRICES REALIZED.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Acting Gov. Cooper of Hawaii has forwarded to the Interior Department the report of Edwin S. Boyd, Commissioner of Public Lands for that Territory, on a complaint filed by Edwin S. Gill, editor of the Honolulu Republican, alleging that public lands were being disposed of contrary to the existing authority and to the interests of Hawaii.

Boyd alleges that some of the statements in the complaint are absurd and ridiculous. The revenues from the proceeds of the sales, he says, go toward the maintenance of the administrative government. The Hawaiian Land Act of 1895, he reports, is well suited to the conditions in the Hawaiian Islands, and under it the demand for public land has been active and fair prices have been realized for the benefit of the public treasury, and speculation and land-grabbing have been minimised.

ITINERARY OF THE INDIANA.

HAD NO WAR PAINT ON.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—On the 30th of September the Navy Department issued an itinerary for the battleship Indiana. She was to take a number of landsmen on board on a training cruise through the West Indies. The publication was misinterpreted as indicating a demonstration on the coast of Venezuela. The Indiana was to approach no nearer that country than Port of Spain, but to remove any cause for criticism, the Navy Department has canceled the itinerary, and hereafter will refrain from publishing the projected movements of ships.

GOVERNOR FOR ARIZONA.

COL. BRADY THE MAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Murphy of the Territory of Arizona will not be reappointed when his present term expires in 1901. There is nothing against Gov. Murphy's administration of the office, so far as is known here, but the President has decided to appoint Col. Brady, who was lieutenant-colonel in the Rough Riders during the war, to the position when Gov. Murphy's term runs out.

Gov. Murphy, it is understood here, will try to signalise his term in office by making further steps toward Statehood for Arizona. An attempt will be made to get a Statehood bill through at the coming session of Congress, but on account of the great amount of business on hand, it is not likely that it will succeed.

NEW COALING STATION.

SAN DIEGO LAND TRANSFER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral Bradford, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment, is at last able to carry out his plan for an adequate coaling station at San Diego, which he regards as especially important on account of the proximity of the Mexican frontier. The War Department today transferred to the Navy Department 200 acres of the military reservation at San Diego.

The tract transferred has a shore line of 2900 feet opposite the channel, allowing the approach of the largest ships. Ample coaling facilities will be provided. There is a bar at the entrance to the channel, but it is expected Chairman Burton of the Rivers and Harbors Committee will recommend legislation to remove it as the result of the committee's recent visit to San Diego. He has given Admiral Bradford assurance to that effect.

DESIRED LEGISLATION.

FOULKE AND CIVIL SERVICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William Dudley Foulke of Indiana, one of the most stringent civil-service reformers in America, called upon the President today by appointment, and afterward had a talk with the members of the Civil Service Commission. The belief is that Foulke will be invited to become a member of the Civil Service Commission at the earliest opportunity, and if he becomes a member and wields any considerable weight with the commission, political patronage in Washington will come almost to an end.

GOLD-DOLLAR STANDARD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] H. H. Hanna of Indianapolis, president of the Monetary Commission which engineered the sound-money bill through Congress two years ago, called upon the President today and urged him, in the interests of financial solidity, to ask Congress in his first message to pass a bill fixing the unit of value in the United States at the gold dollar, and nothing else. Such legislation would place the country so squarely upon a gold basis that no silverite, if elected President, could ever shake the world's confidence in the American monetary system.

SEA POSTOFFICES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Postoffice Department has ordered that an investigation be made to determine the advisability of operating sea postoffices on mail steamers plying between San Francisco and Honolulu. The investigation will take into consideration what are known as the domestic route and the ocean mail-service route. It has been urged that under the present plan of having mail for the Hawaiian Islands made up for distribution in the postoffice at Honolulu, a congested condition of affairs has resulted there, and numerous causes of delay have ensued therefrom. Assistant Superintendent Carr of the Railway Mail Service has been ordered to inquire into the matter and report to Superintendent Thrall at San Francisco.

SURGEON-GENERAL'S REPORT.

HEALTH OF ARMY GOOD.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Surgeon-General Sternberg, in his annual report to the Secretary of War, says the health of the army has been unusually good during the calendar year 1900.

Speaking of special diseases, Gen. Sternberg says: "The steady decrease of late years in the admissions for alcoholism among the men of the regular army is a matter for congratulation. Military officers may be said to be unanimous in their opinion that this is the result of the establishment of the post-exchange or canteen at military posts. There is less drunkenness among troops in active service than in a command doing garrison duty in times of peace."

Reporting upon the study of yellow fever by a board in Cuba, Gen. Sternberg says: "The spread of yellow fever can be most effectively controlled by measures directed to the destruction of mosquitoes and the protection of the sick against the bites of these insects."

Gen. Sternberg says the results of the investigation are of far-reaching importance, as the surgeons are now in possession of knowledge which enables them to stamp out yellow fever.

CENSUS REPORT ON SEX.

FEMALE POPULATION GROWS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The final census report on the population by sex, general nativity and color of the several States and Territories was issued today. This last bulletin of the series covers the entire country. It shows that the males numbered 39,059,242, and constituted 51.2 per cent. of the total population in 1900, while the females numbered 37,244,145, or 48.8 per cent. There is a slightly larger proportion of females now than ten years ago.

There is a difference in favor of males in the present census of 1,815,097, as compared with an excess of males for the equivalent area in 1890 of 1,560,370.

There has been an increase in total population of 13,233,361, or 21 per cent., since 1890, made up of 8,744,179 males and 6,489,453 females; an increase of males of 20.9 per cent., and in females of 21.1 per cent. There are 65,843,300 native persons and 10,460,085 foreign-born persons, the latter element constituting 13.7 per cent of the total population of 1900, against 14.8 per cent. ten years ago. The foreign-born show an absolute increase during the decade of 1,151,994, while the native-born have increased in ten years 12,081,437.

As to color and race, the population in 1900 is made up of 66,990,802 white persons and 9,312,585 colored persons, the latter figure comprising 8,840,789 persons of negro descent, 119,050 Chinese, 85,986 Japanese, and 266,760 Indians. The corresponding figures for 1890 show a total of 55,166,184 white persons, 7,488,789 persons of negro descent, 126,778 Chinese, 14,399 Japanese and 273,607 Indians.

The colored element constitutes 12.2 per cent. of the total population in 1900, against 12.5 per cent. in 1890. The white population shows an increase since 1890 of 11,824,618, or 21.4 per cent., and the colored element, as a whole, of 1,409,013, or 17.8 per cent.

There has been an increase during the past ten years in persons of negro descent of 1,352,001, or 18.1 per cent., and in Japanese of 71,587. The Chinese, on the other hand, show a loss of 7725, or 6.1 per cent., while the Indians have decreased from 273,607 in 1890, to 266,760 in 1900, a loss of 2.5 per cent.

Of the total white population, 56,746,729 are native whites, constituting 74.4 per cent. of the total population, and 10,250,063 foreign whites, or 13.4 per cent. of the total population. Native white persons are in turn subdivided into 41,063,417 of native parentage, and 15,687,322 of foreign parentage, constituting, respectively, 53.8 per cent. and 20.6 per cent. of the total population.

The native white element has increased 23.3 per cent., and the foreign white only 12.2 per cent., since 1890. The native white element of foreign parentage has increased relatively twice as fast as the native whites of native parentage.

THE MAN WHO SAW IT ALL.

It is an ancient mariner
Who stoppeth one of three,
"By thy spy glass and yachting cap,
Now wherefore stoppest me?"

"Oh, gentle sir," the mariner
Remarked, with earnest face,
"But list the while I tell you of The wonderful yacht race.

"They crossed the line in splendid shape,
The wind was strong, indeed;
And then she piped the larboard watch
And quickly took the lead."

"Which took the lead?" the stranger cried
"Which yacht ahead did run?"
"It was," the mariner declared,
"It was the other one."

"Go on! Go on!" the stranger said,
"And tell me of the race."
"I will," the mariner remarked,
"And then the last gave chase.

"They tacked and tacked until you'd think
The crew that oft did hang
Upon the rigging, was at best
A carpet-laying gang.

"And when the first yacht reached the stake
The whistles tooted gay."
"Which was the first?" the stranger asked.
"The one that led the way.

"They came back on the other leg."
The mariner went on,
"And one went by the very route
The other one had gone."

"What did they do?" the stranger said,
"What did they do, I beg?"
"As near as I can tell," quoth he,
"I think they pulled the leg.

"And then they neared the finish line;
The bettors cheered and cursed,
When proudly sweeping into view
The winner came in first!"

"But which was that?" the stranger cried.
"Oh, which was that, I pray?"
"Alas!" the mariner replied,
"I was ten miles away."

"The Heavenly Twins."

A mother with a half-grown son and daughter and a "pair of six-year-twins" as she described them, was returning on a recent Wednesday from Atlantic City. Each twin was armed with a hatchet, a spade, a whip and a bucket, but, in spite of this abundant provision for their diversion, one seized his sister by the nose, the other grabbed her hair, and they tried to screw her head off. Then one turned a handspring over the back of his seat, and would have gone out of the car window had not the brother caught him by the hair, whereupon he turned and bit his rescuer. Next both turned handsprings in the aisle, rushed back, got their whips, and made dashes at the passengers.

Finally, both jumped over a seat, fell on top of their sister, and kicked a woman severely in the latter turned suddenly, and threw one twin on the other nearly out of the several passengers now that these infants made vous that they would the car. ## DUTCH WIN EASILY.

PLAYED WITH THE CRIPPLES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The San Francisco team gave Oakland a terrible drubbing today, winning by a score of 12 to 1. The hired men of Cal Ewing were never in the game. Iberg pitched for the pennant leaders and had wonderful control. Oakland could do nothing with his deliveries, and their efforts to connect were pitiful. The local men also gave their pitcher wonderfully good support, the fielding being accurate and sharp throughout the one-sided contest.

The remarkable feature of the game was that Oakland only succeeded in getting one man as far as first until the ninth inning. In fact, at the end of the seventh inning but twenty-one men of the Oakland team had been to bat, which was made possible by Babbitt, the only man to reach first, getting caught off his base.

San Francisco did some heavy cannonading at the expense of Pitcher Hodson, making sixteen hits, eight of which were secured in two innings. Seven men reached first on called balls, which, together with sixteen hits, accounts for the big total. The score:

The members of the Santa Monica team are L. S. Goldman, R. F. Jones, Robert Miller, W. M. McLee and T. D. Goldman, the substitutes being Herman Gochring, A. R. Tompkins and C. H. Sammis. They will bowl in the alleys adjoining the North Beach bath-house.

NEW BOWLING ALLEYS.

The new California Bowling and Investment Company met for the first time last Thursday night and organized by electing L. J. Christopher, president; John Brink, vice-president; L. Behymer, secretary; Al Levy, treasurer, and James Morley, manager. In addition to these officers the directors consist of Ted Goodman and Dr. H. Bert Ellis.

The new alleys of the company on Main street opposite Third street will be open for business about November 15, and will be located in the second story of the building. The bowling room will be 65 feet wide and 115 feet long, and will contain eight regulation alleys with bathrooms and lavatories in the rear. The front part of the room will contain reception and lounging rooms, and space will be reserved for several sets of shuffle boards.

REITZ SUSPENDED.

LAID AWAY FOR ALL TIME.

After many months of backing and filling and dozens of broken promises, Second Baseman Reitz of the Looloos has been suspended by Magnate Morley. Reitz has been a bad actor on various occasions, and while he is a good ball player, he is a better booze fighter. He has failed to report for practice so often on account of being drunk that the patience of every one has become exhausted, and Morley finally relieved the agony yesterday by wiring Capt. Reilly at Sacramento to suspend Reitz and not to bring him back to this city. He has demoralized the team on many occasions, and his suspension will be a good thing for the players.

Golf Links Open.

The new Los Angeles golf links will be formally opened today at noon, and it is expected that a good-sized crowd of golfers will go out today to try the course, which is just east of the Arroyo Seco bridge on the Pasadena electric railway.

Hand Ball.

It is more than possible that several handball courts will be opened up in this city next month. This is a sport that has been neglected here, but it is said there are a number of players in town who would take up the game were the opportunity presented.

HIS BROTHERS REBELS.

New Ameer of Afghanistan Takes Measures to Perfect His Capital Against Their Possible Machinations.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 12.—[By Atlantic Cable.] According to official intelligence from the Ameer of Bokhara, says a dispatch from St. Petersburg, to the Daily Telegraph, the brothers of Habab Ullah Khan of Afghanistan, left Cabul secretly with their partisans, the moment their father died, and therefore cannot be said to have acquiesced in the accession of their brother.

Habab Ullah, indignant at their flight, has taken measures to defend the capital, and has sent strong detachments to prevent their return, or to endeavor to capture them as rebels. He has further resolved to ask assistance of Emperor Nicholas, and the Ameer of Bokhara.

As bearing upon the advices to the Daily Telegraph from St. Petersburg, it is pointed out that Habab Ullah, in his letter to Lord Curzon announcing his accession, asserted that his younger brother had publicly sworn allegiance to him the day the old Ameer died.

HABAB AND BRITONS.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SIMLA, Oct. 11.—The new Ameer has officially informed Lord Curzon, Viceroy of India, that he will follow in his father's footsteps, hoping that the friendship existing between the Afghan and British governments will continue to increase.

CRISIS IN GERMANY.

Pride in Commercial Honor Has Severe Blow—Excessive Expansion the Cause of Many Disasters.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Says the Berlin correspondent of the Journal of Commerce:

Germany is undoubtedly going through its saddest economic experience since the empire was founded. The well grounded pride with which German business men have hitherto contemplated their excellent reputation abroad for commercial honor has suffered a most severe blow. The Frankfort Zeitung admits, in a recent market review, that in no similar period of business depression in Germany have so many cases of "disgraceful frauds and common swindling" been exposed However, it is felt here that the sensational character of many of the disasters of the past year have given foreign observation an exaggerated impression of the state of things prevailing in Germany; not only that these disasters have created a false view as to the average of German business integrity, but that they have magnified unduly the proportions of the German crisis as seen from abroad.

It is pointed out that Germany has a total of about 5500 joint-stock companies, and that the number of companies that have failed or gotten into financial difficulties constitute but a slight proportion of the whole. Still the Bourse views the situation very pessimistically. Besides the many unfavorable factors in the situation itself, additional uncertainty comes from the tariff agitation.

Business men do not know what will be their condition under the new tariff law which goes into effect January, 1904. The great crisis in the German iron industry, for example, is chiefly due to the fact that all consumers of pig iron committed the vast folly at the height of the boom of placing contracts for iron for several years to ad-

A NEW DEPARTURE.

A New, Effectual and Convenient Cure for Catarrh.

Of catarrh remedies there is no end, but of catarrh cures there has always been a great scarcity. There are many remedies to relieve but very few that really cure.

The old practice of snuffing salt water through the nose would often relieve, and the washes, douches, powders and inhalers in common use are very little, if any, better than the old fashioned salt water douche.

The use of inhalers and the application of salves, washes and powders to the nose and throat to cure catarrh is no more reasonable than to rub the back to cure kidney disease. Catarrh is just as much a blood disease as kidney trouble or rheumatism, and it cannot be cured by local treatment any more than they can be.

To cure catarrh, whether in the head, throat or stomach, an internal antiseptic treatment is necessary to drive the catarrhal poison out of the blood and system, and the new catarrh cure is designed on this plan, and the remarkable success of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is because, being used internally, it drives out catarrhal infection through action upon stomach, liver and bowels.

Wm. Zimmerman, of St. Joseph, relates an experience with catarrh which is of value to millions of catarrh sufferers everywhere. He says: "I neglected a slight nasal catarrh until it gradually extended to my throat and bronchial tubes, and finally even my stomach and liver became affected, but as I was able to keep up and do a day's work I let it run along until my hearing began to fall me, and then I realized that I must get rid of catarrh or lose my position, as I was clerk and my hearing was absolutely necessary.

"Some of my friends recommended an inhaler, another a catarrh salve but they were no good in my case, nor was anything else until I heard of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets and bought a package at my drug store. They benefited me from the start and in less than four months I was completely cured of catarrh although I had suffered nearly all my life from it.

They are pleasant to take and so much more convenient to use than other catarrh remedies that I feel I cannot say enough in favor of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets."

A little book on cause and cure of catarrh will be mailed free by addressing F. A. Stuart & Co., Marshall, Mich., and the tablets are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada.

If you want to be a strong, husky fellow, with lots of steam in your pipes, you ought to read my book on the subject of physical development. My business is making men strong, especially those men who have thrown away their strength by excesses, overwork and dissipation. My electric belt is making such men happy every day. My book (illustrated) tells how. It's free.

vance and at the high prices then prevailing. Many of the capitalists that have recently gotten themselves into financial difficulties brought on these difficulties by excessive expansion.

After the present crisis is over, an interesting chapter can be written upon the intimate relations of the German banks with industrial capitalists. The jaunty confidence with which all foreign criticisms of the system was dismissed here up to a year ago, has certainly given place to a more reticent attitude among financiers, and they are now much more willing to admit the dangers of the system.

GERMANS LIKE OUR WINES.

Complete Victory Gained Over German Prejudice—Large Imports of California Wines.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BREMEN, Oct. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] California wines have gained a complete victory over German prejudice. Only a few years ago German wine dealers and wine drinkers spoke with contempt of American vintages, but now the American product has become regularly a large article of import into Germany. One of the large wine merchants of this city said today:

"I have completed arrangements for handling American wines on a large scale. I find California clarets and ports are excellent and unadulterated, far surpassing in quality the middle-priced Bordeaux wines. In a little while our exclusive clubs of military and naval officers will be drinking the products not of Rhine, but of the Pacific Coast."

BREAK OF GAME WARDEN.

Ernest Seton-Thompson and Guide, Who Were Arrested in Colorado for Infraction of Game Law, Acquitted.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

DENVER, Oct. 11.—Ernest Seton-Thompson, the noted writer on wild animals, and John Goff, the guide, who were arrested by Game Warden Bush in Rio Blanco county, Colo., charged with violating the game laws, were acquitted on trial of the case at Meeker.

Thompson and Goff were tried before a jury in Justice Mow's court. The evidence showed that the defendants baited a bear trap with a young doe that had been killed by a snowslide. Game Warden Bush watched the trap for three days and arrested Thompson and Goff when they appeared. The jury, after hearing the testimony, promptly returned a verdict of "not guilty" of violating the game laws.

Game Commissioner Harris has announced that he will remove Warden Bush from Rio Blanco county.

The Broadway Department Store

Cloak, Suit and Millinery Section.

This is indeed the favored section of this big busy store. It's the best lighted, most roomy, best appointed suit department on the Pacific Coast. And the garments—here's an almost bewildering array of vogueish garments that will please any woman who has an eye for the beautiful. And the prices are so reasonable. You'll see a garment with so much style, such an exclusive air that it's apparently out of your reach, but when you inquire the price, you'll find that it is quite within your limit. The prices are indeed a pleasant surprise.

New Walking Skirts $4.95

Made of heavy melton, finished with stitched tucks and heavily stitched bottom. Tailor stitched side seams. A stylish, comfortable garment well worth $6.00. Broadway special $4.95.

Handsomely Tailored Suits $10.00.

Women's suits of fine grade cheviot or venetian cloth, in tan, brown, navy blue or black, Eton jackets of the new long coat effect, coats finished with revers of satin, horn buttons, and lined with fine Italian cloth; skirts five-gore, flare bottom; new and extremely stylish suits that you'd have hard work to duplicate at $12.50. Broadway special, per suit, $10.00.

New Trimmed Hats, $4.95.

It would be impossible to describe the beauties of these trimmed hats in cold type. The shapes are the very latest. Trimmings and embellishments just what Dame Fashion has decreed. Color combinations and outlines were planned by New York's most noted milliners. $7.50 would be a very modest price for these hats; in fact, most of them have the appearance of a $10.00 hat. Take your pick at $4.95.

ARIZONA AND MINING NUMBER.

On October the 15th The Times will issue a special number, devoted to the mining industry of the United States in general, and particularly to mining in the Southwest, with special reference to the Territory of Arizona. For several months writers well qualified for the work have been preparing matter for this number, which will be the most complete and exhaustive publication devoted to the subject that has ever been issued in the Southwest. In addition to a number of reliable and complete descriptions of various mining districts and prominent mines, there will be a number of special articles on various phases of the mining industry in general, which cannot fail to be of great interest to all who are in any way connected with the business of extracting the precious metals from the earth. Besides these features, this number of The Times will contain a thorough and carefully-prepared description of the manifold resources of Arizona.

This special number of The Times will fully maintain the high standard that has been set by this journal for similar publications. It will be free from the shallow "write-up" style of article, which so frequently disfigures and lessens the value of such special numbers. Thousands of copies of this number will, undoubtedly, be filed away for reference. To insure insertion, advertisements intended for this number of The Times should be received not later than October 12.

AN ABSURD THEORY.

An individual by the name of E. B. Dunn recently had an article in the Washington Star, in which he advanced the remarkable theory that the severe hot spell which occurred in the Middle West last July was due to the increased area now under irrigation along the east slope of the Rocky Mountains. Mr. Dunn puts the blame for the burning up of the corn crop on the shoulders of the irrigation companies and the small farmers who are trying to make the desert bring forth sustenance for man and beast, and he argues that the farmer who raises small crops by means of irrigation must be suppressed, that the farmer who raises large crops without irrigation may prosper. He says that low-pressure, trough-shaped areas occupy this semi-arid region, and that the moisture evaporated from the soil is commensurate for their existence, but insufficient to propel them onward, and warm air is thus drawn from the south, which for days at a time flows over the corn belt and withers the crops.

This theory is illogical and absurd, and is condemned by the entire scientific staff of the Weather Bureau. It is, in fact, as stated by Edward A. Beals, forecast official at Portland, Or., "unworthy of serious consideration." However, as its publication may work some injury to the cause of irrigation, and may furnish a fallacious argument to the constantly-decreasing number of people who oppose the irrigation of the arid lands, it is not advisable to let it go entirely without comment. The Weather Bureau official above referred to says, in reference to this wild-eyed theory:

"The weather of the United States is controlled by the passage of low and high-pressure areas, and these disturbances are carried eastward by the general movement of the upper atmospheres. The general movement of the upper atmosphere is controlled by the differences in temperature between the poles and the equator. When these differences as in the winter time, are great, the upper currents move rapidly, but when they are slight, as is the case during the midsummer season, they move slowly and sometimes become stagnant. Last July the upper air currents were sluggish and the high and low-pressure areas drifted very slowly, and their inaction was not in any way caused by the moisture element they contained.

"Severe droughts and heat waves have occurred in the past long before irrigation was practiced, and they may be expected in the future as long as the difference between the temperatures at the poles and the equator decreases, in the summer time, as it now does, and no efforts on the part of man can change this order of events."

Mr. Franklin, of the Los Angeles Weather Bureau, calls attention to the fact that the moisture due to irrigation is altogether too limited to be a cause of the hot spell. When one takes into consideration the small area in which irrigation is practiced, and the limited amount of water used for this purpose, as compared with the great area of country affected by the hot wave of last summer, it is not rational to suppose that evaporation is sufficient to cause the low-pressure area which overlaid this large section of the United States. A map of the United States, west of the Mississippi, with the irrigated sections marked thereon, would look something like a chart of the Pacific Ocean, with small dots representing the islands, or like the face of a man who is slightly pitted with smallpox. Mr. Franklin shows that Dunn's idea is something like that which one frequently hears in Southern California, when we have mountain fires and hot spells. It is usually supposed that the fires are the cause of the hot weather, whereas the hot weather is more apt to be the indirect cause of the fires, in drying the vegetation, so that a mere spark will start a disastrous conflagration.

Incidentally, it may be mentioned that Mr. Dunn was formerly an official of the United States Weather Bureau, and is understood to bear no particularly good will toward that institution. How he can expect to "get even" with this statistical branch of the United States government by attacking irrigation is as much of a mystery as the method by which a Los Angeles citizen expects to wreak vengeance upon the City Council, by placing obstacles in the way of the acquisition of the city waterworks. This is a free country, and we suppose that everyone has a right to be more or less of a crank, so long as he keeps inside the danger line, but there really does seem to be a good opening for the organization of some sort of a private society for the suppression of public nuisances.

AN UNPLEASANT CONTRAST.

A well-known pioneer of Dawson City, who recently came down to Los Angeles, is reported as making some statements in regard to the conditions prevailing on either side of the international line, in the northern gold fields, which are not altogether flattering to American pride. It is a well-known fact that conditions at Cape Nome, in American territory, have been far from satisfactory, although only an occasional reference to the troubles has appeared in the press of the country. Los Angeles people who have been there agree in stating that the condition of affairs prevailing at the northern mining camp has been truly scandalous, so much so that many companies and individuals who acquired promising mining territory there, which they hoped to develop, have been compelled to abandon all thought of doing so for the present, for the reason that as soon as a piece of property is shown to be valuable it is immediately jumped by an organized band of armed ruffians. Consequently, owners of mining property have been permitting it to lie idle, in the hope of seeing a reorganization in the near future. The parties who are affected by the serious charges that have been made in connection with this lawless condition of affairs include a number of United States officials, among whom is a United States judge. The postmaster at that place was also arrested for delinquency, during a recent visit to Nome of a postoffice inspector.

On the other hand, the citizen of Dawson above referred to states that in that British-American city there is as good law and as ample protection to life and property as there is in Los Angeles. The Canadian authorities have established an admirable system of government, Americans being treated as well as Canadians. This is a striking contrast to the condition of affairs which has prevailed, not only in Nome, but at other mining camps on the American side, in Alaska, and, as we have said, this is not flattering to American pride. There has been from time to time some protest by Americans at the rigor of the Canadian laws relating to the mining industry, but if those laws secure miners absolute protection in their rights, and safeguard life and property, there is certainly not much to complain of.

There are still a few things that we Americans may learn of the nation from whom a majority of us are descended. One of these is the fact that a people honors itself when it pays all due deference to the regularly constituted laws of the land. If this is true under a limited monarchy, where the "majesty of the law" is not merely a figure of speech, to how much greater an extent should it be true in this country, where the people who make the laws are absolute sovereigns.

President Roosevelt wants no "recommendations" in making appointments. Men who are satisfactory, irrespective of what their friends may say, are the only men he will have. The others are simply wasting time and money in hoping to receive a political plum.

PACIFIC CABLE.

A Washington dispatch states that Atty.-Gen. Knox has made a verbal report to the President and Cabinet, giving the result of his investigations into the Pacific cable question; his conclusion being that under the law of 1866 any domestic company could land any cable on the shores of the United States or its possessions. The dispatch adds that "the President and the Cabinet were convinced by the verbal report that no executive action is called for at this time," but that the President will review the whole matter in his message to Congress. He is openly in favor of the construction of the cable.

The pressing need for the laying of a cable or cables from this Coast to Hawaii and the Philippines is everywhere recognized. It is a work that is imperatively demanded by the vast interests which it would benefit. A cable from the United States across the Pacific must be laid in the near future. It would have been of incalculable benefit to the commerce of the country had it been laid long ago.

A private company has recently come forward with a proposition to lay a cable from San Francisco to Manila, touching at Honolulu. No subsidies or other special privileges are asked. There has been some vague talk of obstacles to the granting of landing rights for a cable laid by private capital. We have heard hints of some agreement which Spain is said to have made, prior to the cession of the Philippines to the United States, by which landing rights in Manila were granted exclusively to some mythical corporation, which has never materialized to assert its alleged rights. All these so-called obstacles to the laying of the cable are probably imaginary, rather than real. The report of Atty.-Gen. Knox appears to show that such is the case, and that the field is clear for private enterprise to exploit this great and necessary work.

If private capital is ready and willing to embark in this undertaking, and if its promoters will give reasonable guaranties as to the time and manner of its completion, with further guaranties that rates to the public will be reasonable and that government service will be given preference, why should not the promoters of the enterprise be given every encouragement, and every opportunity, to complete the work at the earliest possible date? It does not so much matter who lays the cable as that it be laid and put into working order with as quick dispatch as possible. If we wait for the United States government to lay the cable, it may mean a delay of many years. The United States government has been discussing the building of the Nicaragua Canal for forty years or more, yet the actual work is not yet even begun.

There is no apparent reason why the Pacific cable should not be installed by private capital. The government may some time decide to lay a cable of its own—a second line—across the Pacific. This can be done at any time in the future. But the present need—and it is a most imperative need—is for a cable to be laid as soon as possible. It would seem, then, that full rights in the premises should be promptly extended to any and all companies that wish to embark in the enterprise.

Two American women living in Paris have set off for the neighborhood where Miss Stone was captured, in the hope that they, too, will be kidnaped, because they "want the experience." Mr. Gaskell's Real Idea.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to say one word more about the release of Miss Stone, and the thrashing of those Bulgarian road agents. We ought to spare no effort that will make for this end, except the kind of effort that will encourage and multiply crimes of this nature. If milder measures fail an expedition like that against the Barbary States is none too stern an expedient against the marauders. But the easiest, laziest and meanest way to liberate this missionary heroine is to at once turn over $150,000 to the bandits, and thank our stars and garters if the messengers who deliver up the money escape with their heads. But it is also the surest way for getting other cases of this sort to deal with. Can't Yankee genius and American pluck do something better? I appreciate all you say about the other stuff I wrote, and no doubt I deserved it for the topsy-turvy way it was said; but now you see what I ought to have said, or wanted to say. Yours truly, C. A. GASKELL.

IS THIS WHAT HE CAME DOWN FOR?

RAILWAY COMPANY TAKES THE TRICK.

THIRD TRACK IS AGAIN LAID ON SANTA FE AVENUE.

City Endeavors to Restrain the Work Commenced Early in the Morning, but it is Completed Before Injunction Can Issue.

The Los Angeles Railway Company again stole a march on the city yesterday morning, and unless the City Council decides to offer no objection to the maintenance of a third street-railway track on Santa Fé avenue between First and Third streets, the courts will have to settle the matter.

The third track was laid there early yesterday morning, the work having been begun before daylight and completed before the company could be restrained by order of the court, although the city commenced suit for a permanent injunction, claiming the company has no franchise for more than a double track.

The suit was brought at the instigation of President Powers of the City Council, who is acting as Mayor. Powers heard early yesterday morning that a gang of railway men were laying the offending track, and he hastened to the City Hall to advise with the City Attorney. Proper papers were soon drawn up, and the suit for injunction filed.

The action of Powers may be repudiated by the City Council Monday, although he will endeavor to have it sustained. While the City Attorney was at work on the papers he was called to the telephone by W. E. Dunn, attorney for the railway company. Dunn advised Mathews that he had no right to bring suit for injunction without authorization from the City Council. Dunn was told in reply that the action was being taken because a third track is in violation of the law.

This is the second time the railway company has laid its third track along Santa Fé avenue. When a few weeks ago the company put down the ties and rails in the night, the Council instructed the Superintendent of Streets to tear up the track. This work was accomplished under police protection, and cost the city nearly $200.

Many people who use the Mateo-street car line objected to the city's action, and petitioned to have the third track remain, as it facilitated their service to and from downtown. The Santa Fé Railroad, in front of whose property the rails were laid, also withdrew its objection to the third track, but the Council would not consider the petition.

At that time Attorney Dunn, although acting for the railway company, seemed lukewarm in its interests, and agreed to have the track removed. Now it seems that he has advised the relaying of the rails, and on this advice the action was taken before light yesterday morning. In speaking for the railway company yesterday, Dunn said:

"We are justified in laying this track because our franchise gives us the right to maintain switches, turnouts and all other appliances necessary for the operation of the road. This third track is merely a turnout, necessary for the operation of the Mateo-street line, and we will, if necessary, fight in court for its maintenance."

The failure of the city to secure its restraining order before the work was completed may make the city defendant instead of plaintiff in the first suit to be brought to a conclusion. Should the Council order the Street Superintendent to remove the rails laid yesterday, the company will doubtless secure an injunction preventing it.

President Powers is determined to have the rails taken up if possible, and will urge the Council to take action on Monday.

It is surmised that the subordinate officers of the company were braced to the new exploit by the visit of President H. E. Huntington to Los Angeles at this time.

...thirteenth annual convention of the Pacific branch of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Protestant Episcopal Church adjourned yesterday.

The early morning devotional service was in some respects, a very sorrowful one. The name of Mrs. E. C. Seymour, placed on the programme as the leader of this meeting, but the convention, in its first session, on Tuesday, brought the announcement of her death, which caused the funeral in a body on Thursday.

The important business of the morning was the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. Seymour of San José; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charlotte O'Neal of Alameda; recording secretary, Mrs. C. C. Spencer of Los Angeles; treasurer, Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee of Los Angeles. Delegates to executive meeting—Philadelphia, Mrs. Z. L. Parmelee, Los Angeles; Miss Josephine Jones of Los Angeles, Miss Josephine Dwight of Berkeley; alternates, Mrs. Reeve of Los Angeles and Mrs. Hamberg of San Francisco.

The afternoon session Rev. R. B. Hassell of Riverside made an interesting address upon the work in Mexico. The ladies took a collection, amounting to $10, for the benefit of an Indian boy, who is under the charge of Hayward.

The convention closed by all surrounding the altar and clasping hands while they sang "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and listened to the benediction of Rev. Dr. Healy.

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

GOVERNMENT BUYS OIL-BURNING PLANT.

LOS ANGELES INVENTION LEADS THE WAY TO MANILA.

California Fuel Oil Finding an Outlet in the New Possessions, With the United States Government as the First Customer—Local and San Francisco Stocks.

A new avenue for the consumption of California petroleum is being opened through a Los Angeles oil-burning invention. It is already being used on many locomotives on the Santa Fé Lake Route and in the northern part of the State, but its new field is in the new island possessions in the Pacific.

Booth & Cooper of this city, the patentees, have just completed the shipment to Manila, of a complete 100-horse-power oil-burning outfit for the United States Government printing office. The shipment included furnaces, boilers and everything required in the construction of the plant. The fire brick were from the California Sewer Pipe Company of this city. The order came through a Washington firm, and the government reserved the right to order three more outfits of the same bid.

Booth and Cooper are now in correspondence with sugar manufacturers in Honolulu, with every prospect of closing a deal which will open a new market for the consumption of oil. The government is now using oil from San Francisco to fill the Manila plant.

PRICE OF CRUDE OIL.

There is no promise of an improvement in the price of crude oil in Los Angeles. Most of the consumers in the city have closed contracts for the year at prices ranging from 35 cents. It is alleged that the unscrupulous promoters of the attempt to combine of producers were in error in determining it by selling off their oil before the combine could be effected. By means of one [illegible] another this scheme was [illegible] out while the smaller producers thought their interests were being protected. The big local surplus is on hand and there is no likelihood of its being immediately reduced. There are a few individuals, who were supposed to be pulling with the rest, who are said to be getting rid of their oil at a profitless price and at the expense of their neighbors' welfare.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Friday Morning Club.

Yesterday was a day of "discussion circles" at the Friday Morning Club. These circles, introduced last year, have proved a great success. The Everyday Topics Committee, of which Miss Jennie E. Collier is chairman, provided the following subjects for discussion: (1.) Is the tendency to city life to be deplored? (2.) Is the kitchen the basis of home life? Attending members of the club were divided into eighteen circles, each with a leader, who, at the close of an hour, reported from the platform the result of the debate in her circle. The hoes seemed to have it in both cases, although the verdict was not unanimous in either. The general opinion regarding the tendency of life cityward seemed to be announced by one leader, who said that her circle thought the tendency to city life was very deplorable for others, but preferred it for themselves. Practically the same decision was announced by a number of the other leaders. In one or two circles it was the opinion that the country was the best place to bring up children, but that the city was their best field of action, and offered the best advantages of education.

The second topic seemed to provoke more debate and disagreement than the other, but there were but one or two circles in which the coöperative or community kitchen was not brought into the discussion, and in all but two or three instances where it was discussed the majority vote favored it if it could be successfully established. In one circle the recently announced opinion of the chief chemist of the Department of Agriculture was quoted, that cooking should be taken outside the home and put into the hands of specialists, as many other formerly home industries have been. In all the circles the need of good and well-cooked food was emphasized, and it was with this idea in view that one circle decided that the kitchen was not the basis of home life, but the dining-room was. Another circle thought the library quite as important as the kitchen. One woman was so enthusiastically possessed with the community kitchen idea that the leader of her circle said she fully expected to see her bringing about a realisation of the idea in Los Angeles.

Wednesday Morning Club.

The Shakespeare section of the club, under the able leadership of Mrs. Anna S. Averill, met for the first lesson of the season on Wednesday morning, a large number being present. "Coriolanus," which heads the list of plays to be studied during the year, was begun, and an excellent start made for a good understanding of the old Roman tragedy. Mrs. Miles Dodd gave a short account of the history of the play, Miss Esther Hunt followed with its historical setting, and Mrs. M. A. Pierce told the story of the plot. Act I, scene I, was read and thoroughly discussed by class and teacher.

Placentia Round Table.

The Round Table of Placentia met with Mrs. H. H. Hale Wednesday afternoon. Twelve members were present. After a discussion of current topics, extracts upon the life and writings of John Ruskin were read. The ladies will meet with Mrs. Stafford next Wednesday.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The fire board yesterday delegated to President Powers the task of bringing a friendly suit to test the validity of the firemen's new pension law.

The City Attorney informed the Finance Committee yesterday that Swensen & Hill's demand for $2284 is not binding upon the city.

Several petitions were considered by the Board of Public Works yesterday.

The upper floors of the new Chamber of Commerce building have been suggested for a public library.

The Waldron bond suit is now being argued on demurrer in Department Six before Judge Williams of Ventura.

No especially serious results are feared from the Supreme Court's opinion knocking out the codes, save some inconvenience and the loss of $200,000 or more in salaries to the Code Commission.

Robby Wren, child, is in the County Jail for horse stealing.

An injunction was asked for yesterday by the city to restrain the Los Angeles Railway Company from laying a third track on Santa Fé avenue, which was attempted again yesterday forenoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John King yesterday abandoned the prosecution of employés of the telephone company for putting Mrs. King into a hole.

TO TEST THE VALIDITY OF NEW PENSION LAW.

PRESIDENT POWERS SCORES A POINT IN FIRE BOARD.

A Friendly Suit Will Be Begun to Determine the Liability of the City Under the Firemen's Pension Measure. Lieut. Johnson Reprimanded.

After a spirited debate the Fire Commission yesterday took the first step to test the validity of the firemen's pension law. To President Powers of the Council, who acted as chairman in the absence of Mayor Snyder, was delegated the task of starting a friendly suit.

For several weeks the matter has been under consideration by the board. Until yesterday most of the members favored defensive instead of aggressive action. It was argued that the city should take no action unless the benefits of the law are asked by the relatives of a fireman, or a suit to recover the 4 mills included in the tax levy for the support of the fund is brought by a property owner.

President Powers, who first brought the matter to the front, takes the view that the city may incur heavy liability at any time through death or accident, and that, if the law is valid, the department should be reorganized with regard to physical fitness. He has lost no opportunity to press this point, and last Monday introduced in the Council a resolution calling upon the fire board to take immediate action to protect the taxpayers. It is probable that this request from the Council is responsible for the board's change of front.

During the discussion yesterday morning President Powers and Commissioner Kuhrts engaged in a verbal duel. The proposed reorganization has stirred the department to the foundation. Many of the old firemen believe they cannot stand the test, and after years of fire fighting the prospect of securing other employment is not bright. Mr. Kuhrts was once chief of the department, and he sympathizes with those men who dread the outcome.

"Many of these men have been in the department for years," he began. "They have fought fire until they are unfit for other work. Some have been maimed or injured, and many have contracted constitutional diseases while in the public service. I do not believe it right to reorganize the department and force such men into the street. They have given their best days to the city and should not be forced out now by some arbitrary physical standard."

Mr. Kuhrts spoke with some asperity, and Chairman Powers replied with equal spirit:

"That kind of sympathetic talk is all right sometimes, but it doesn't go in this matter. Those men are getting every dollar from the city that they could get anywhere else. Otherwise they would seek other employment.

"Because men have been in the department for years is no reason why the taxpayers should pay a pension to their unmarried sisters for all the days of their lives. We were elected to represent the taxpayers. If the law will stand, then only physically perfect men should be kept in the department.

"If it can be shown that a fireman has been injured or disabled in fire fighting, I shall not favor his dismissal. If he was physically unfit when put in the ranks, he should be denied the benefits of this peculiar law."

"Nevertheless, I believe reorganization would do these men an injustice," declared Mr. Kuhrts.

"It would not work an injustice," hotly replied Mr. Powers. "I am as good a friend to the firemen as you, but that does not excuse us from protecting the taxpayers. The matter can be settled by a friendly suit, and I will personally subscribe toward the expense of hiring an attorney."

Dr. Webb moved that the board secure the services of an attorney, as the City Attorney is not eligible. Mr. Frankenfield proposed that the whole matter be turned over to the acting chairman, and this was done without discussion. Now President Powers is in a position to press his point against the firemen's pension law.

JOHNSON REPRIMANDED.

Lieut. J. C. Johnson was on the carpet to answer charges preferred by Capt. Michael McMahon of engine company No. 16. Johnson, who is in charge of hose company No. 4, was accused of using abusive language and vilifying a member of the City Council.

A number of witnesses were summoned, the purport of whose testimony was that profane and abusive language is used with reckless abandon in the department.

F. C. Erdman of Engine Company No. 9, at Ninth and Santee streets, where the conversation in question took place, testified that Johnson stated that the wages of boxmen would have been raised from $50 to $60 a month but for "that fellow Powers and that Irish —— McMahon."

Other testimony showed that Johnson had used profane language somewhat as a jest.

After listening to what the several firemen had to say, the board ordered the Chief to reprimand Johnson and to warn the entire department against the free use of profane and abusive language.

There was some discussion about the advisability of reprimanding McMahon for not attending to his own business. He has long figured as a disturbing element in the department, and members of the commission intimated strongly yesterday that another offense will result in his dismissal.

GAS APPLICATIONS.

The exhibition of fireworks on the gas question did not materialize yesterday. The performers and the set pieces were on hand, but the board was not in the proper humor.

Last Monday two protests against the location of a gas works by the Equitable Gas and Electrical Company at Seventh and Channing streets was referred to the board in conjunction with the Committee on Legislation by the Council. For the purpose of conferring with the Council committee and securing additional light on the plans and purposes of this lighting concern, the board postponed the hearing until this morning at 10 o'clock.

The application of the Suburban Gas Company for a permit to build gas works on St. John street near the river was referred to the Chief. A number of protestants accompanied by an attorney were on hand to oppose the application.

The following permits were granted: W. F. Stearns Distillate Company, gasoline engine, Keller and Macy streets; E. Garner, blacksmith shop, Fifty-seventh and Central avenue; Ed. Ryan, livery stable, Jefferson street and Wesley avenue.

Three fires were reported during the week. The official estimate of the loss caused by the fire in Chinatown Thursday night is $5000.

TUNNEL DEMAND.

NO CLAIM AGAINST CITY.

At the session of the Finance Committee yesterday morning the claim of $2284 preferred by Swensen & Hill for work done on the Third-street tunnel was referred to the City Attorney. Unless the attorneys for the contracting firm can substantiate a legal claim upon the city for the money, Attorney Mathews will recommend that the demand be denied.

Swensen & Hill and their attorney, Walter Bacon, Esq., appeared before the committee and argued the question at length. Attorney Bacon endeavored to prove that the city was bound to pay the demand even though no mention of it was made upon the back of the contract. He alleged that the city has paid similar demands before and that this was the practice in the Third-street tunnel construction.

Inasmuch as one clause in the contract states explicitly that no demand for additional work shall be binding upon the city unless endorsed upon the back, the City Attorney states that the city is in no way legally bound to pay the claim. The City Engineer and all parties admit that the work was actually done. The item was not included in the contract because at the time Swensen & Hill wished a final settlement it was understood by the City Engineer that the change of grade did not involve additional work.

Under date of March 7, 1900, a "final certificate" was issued by the City Engineer, and on March 26 the "total payment" due the contractors was paid. The certificate upon which the demand was based states that the contractors "have finished their work on the Third-street tunnel."

Under the circumstances, the City Attorney says that the city is estopped from paying the demand whether morally good or not, and each Councilman will be personally liable to the city if it is paid.

BRICK KILN.

PUBLIC WORKS DISCUSSED.

Henry C. Jensen, who is seeking to excavate for a brick yard in the western end of the Fourth Ward must wait another week before learning his fate at the hands of the Board of Public Works. Mr. Jensen was represented by J. W. McKinley, Esq., and the protestants by former City Attorney Walter Haas, at the board session yesterday afternoon. Attorney McKinley pleaded ignorance of the merits of the case, and asked a week to inform himself regarding his client's contention. The protestants present decided to wait until the final hearing of the case before presenting any arguments.

Henry J. Kramer, whose school for dancing at No. 932-934 South Grand avenue, was twice inundated last year by the bursting of the Arroyo de los Reyes, is now seeking protection from further troubles of a like nature. He told the board yesterday that there are indications of weakness in the big storm drain just south of his academy which should be attended to by the city at once. Mr. Kramer believes in the ounce of prevention, and after explaining the situation fully to the board, he asked that the City Engineer make an examination of the pipe. His request was granted by the board.

There is now pending in the Superior Court a damage suit for $2514.11, which amount the city is asked to pay for the injury done the dancing academy on November 17 and 21 last year. This suit will come to trial on the 16th inst.

The board yesterday took under advisement a petition asking that the name of Buena Vista street be changed to Broadway so as to make the latter a continuous street from Main street to Pasadena avenue.

A petition to widen Jefferson street from San Pedro street to Central avenue to a uniform width of sixty feet was approved by the board. The necessary property will be taken from the south side of the street.

The Street Superintendent was instructed to sprinkle with oil the streets included in his report to the Council last Monday.

NEW LIBRARY.

DOCKWEILER HAS A PLAN.

Director Dockweiler has a new plan for a public library. It is to secure the third and fourth stories of the Chamber of Commerce building shortly to be erected on Broadway, between First and Second streets.

At the meeting of the library board yesterday afternoon, Chairman Clark was appointed to interview the directors of the Chamber of Commerce and see if they will consider the plan. It is understood that the ground floor of the new building will be used for offices, and the second floor for the commercial exhibit. If the two upper floors can be secured for the library, Director Dockweiler believes the public library problem will be solved.

In his remarks yesterday, the director intimated that the city could afford to pay some rent for the use of the floors, if necessary. He suggested that a lease for five years be secured and by that time the Historical Society's plans for the erection of a suitable building might be formed.

"It would not pay for the city to erect a library building costing only $250,000 or $300,000," he said. "At least $500,000 should be expended on such a building. Even if it was now known from what source this money is to come, it would take two or three years to erect a library building, and prepare it for use. I believe the Chamber of Commerce would be delighted to secure the library for five years, but I have no definite information on this point."

The discussion of the availability of the new Chamber of Commerce building for a library home, was started by a suggestion from Miss Mary L. Jones, the librarian, that the Chamber of Commerce be asked to make room in the reading room of the new building for the newspapers now kept at the library. One of the main rooms allotted to the library is almost entirely filled by newspaper files. There are forty-six daily and seven weekly papers kept on file by the library. Miss Jones states in her report to the board that people are turned away from the library reading-room every day, because of insufficient seating capacity. If the papers were removed, there would be room for seventy-five additional people in the room, and about 18,000 volumes could be shelved along the walls.

Director Trueworthy opposed this plan, because it would separate one part of the library from the rest. Action was finally deferred to await the report of Chairman Clark on the plan suggested by Mr. Dockweiler.

It is expected that the new Chamber of Commerce building will be ready for occupancy about the first of next August.

After November 1, there will be no branch library in the College Settlement building on Castelar street. On motion of Director Edelman, the library board yesterday voted to discontinue this station.

After much discussion, the board took favorable action on the request of citizens that a branch library be established on Central avenue, near Adams street. A delegation of property owners appeared in the interest of the project. They stated that many boys and young men reside in the vicinity who would take advantage of the opportunity to improve their minds. They agreed to furnish the room and lighting, if the library board will furnish books, and an attendant. It is probable that the branch, if established, will be kept open only from 6:30 to 9 o'clock p.m.

The report of Miss Mary L. Jones, the librarian, for September, was read, showing the total number of books in the library October 1, to have been 68,361. The circulation for September was 49,341, of which the home circulation is credited with 37,207, and the reading-room with 12,134. The total registration is now 13,128.

Apportionment Made.

An apportionment of $25,000 was made to the several funds yesterday by the City Auditor. There is still a substantial shortage in all the principal funds.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

DEMURRER ARGUED IN WALDRON SUIT.

CITY MAINTAINS THAT ITS CHARTER IS VALID.

Many Points Raised Against the Notorious Complaint That Calls the Mayor and Councilmen Usurpers—Judge Williams of Ventura Presides.

Judge Williams of Ventura mounted the bench promptly at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon to try on demurrer Waldron's lawsuit against the city to test the validity of the municipal water bonds. The argument is being conducted in Department Six, and a large number of interested spectators occupied seats during yesterday's proceedings.

Waldron, in making his stab at the bonds, attacks the validity of the city charter.

The defendants in this suit comprise, not only the city, but the Mayor and the nine Councilmen, all of whom are dubbed usurpers. City Attorney Mathews presented two amended demurrers—one on behalf of the municipality and one for the other ten defendants. Both demurrers, however, raise the same points.

The city's main contention is that the charter is valid, notwithstanding a slight defect in its adoption in 1888, and accordingly that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

In support of this position it is urged that the municipality is a regular corporate entity de facto, if not de jure, and that Waldron cannot resort to injunction, but should use quo warranto proceedings to raise any question about its regular existence.

The next point raised is that several causes of action are improperly united in said complaint, as follows:

"An action to annul the agreement between the city and the water companies for the acquisition of certain waterworks and to restrain the defendants from carrying out said agreement.

"An action to restrain the defendants from issuing municipal bonds for the purpose of acquiring said waterworks, and to annul all proceedings heretofore taken by them to that end.

"An action to annul the agreement between the city and Messrs. Dillon & Hubbard, bond experts, of New York, and to restrain defendants from carrying out the same.

"An action against the city of Los Angeles for the alleged usurpation of a franchise.

"An action against each of the other ten defendants for the usurpation of a public office."

The city holds that these causes of action should be separately stated in the complaint.

Another point raised is that there is a misjoinder of parties; that the city has wrongly been joined with the other defendants and vice versa.

It is also urged that the complaint is ambiguous in that it cannot be determined how the agreement to pay $2,000,000 will become an obligation on the city from the date when the bonds should be voted, or at all; nor can it be determined what is the value of the waterworks property, nor how the city is cooperating with the water companies to execute the agreement.

It is finally averred that the complaint is unintelligible and uncertain.

The attorneys who are assisting the City Attorney are Messrs. Lee A. Scott and Walter Trask, Esq., while the lawyers for the plaintiff are C. M. Hansen, Esq., and Sherman Page, Esq., who has recently come into the case.

City Attorney Mathews concluded his opening argument late in the afternoon and was immediately followed by Attorney Hansen, who in beginning his remarks, characterized the city charter as "the quintessence of stupidity, ignorance and carelessness."

NEW CODES NO GOOD.

EFFECT OF THE BIG OPINION.

Excitement of a low-humming, dignified sort was evident over the Courthouse all day yesterday by reason of the Supreme Court's opinion of Thursday, declaring the new codes of the last Legislature unconstitutional and invalid. Attorneys who made haste to procure, at considerable expense, new code books, are busy kicking themselves, in posterior way, for these publications are now worthless.

Constant inquiry has been made of the exact effect of the late decision, and many matters tried since July 1 will have to be reheard.

"Had this opinion been delayed two or three years," said Chief Deputy District Attorney Wilbur yesterday, "it would have been calamitous."

But it is not generally believed that any tremendous damage has thus far been done in proceeding along unconstitutional lines; as most of the questions involved are those of practice. With reference to the Penal Code, it appears that many of the changes promulgated by the Legislature had not been adopted in this county, and very little difference therefore results. Convictions under the new law, it is thought, will certainly stand.

Judge Shaw is of the opinion that the validity of the County Government Act is not affected. If not, then the newly-appointed deputies at the Courthouse, court reporters and those officers whose salaries were raised or decreased need not be concerned.

It is also stated by Judge Shaw that probate business has been but slightly deranged. One instance, however, is quite marked. The new law provided that administrators or executors should notify creditors of estates to present their claims against said estates to the clerk of the court, but under the old law such claims must be presented at the office of either administrator or executor. It is the old law that now prevails.

Women will perhaps be especially interested to know that once again must their ages be made public when the groom applies for a marriage license. Each party must give his age, under the old law, which the Supreme Court now concludes has never been superseded, but the new law compelled applicants to swear merely that they were 18 years of age or over if female, and 21 or over if male.

Parties, however, who have taken out marriage licenses under the new law, need not be alarmed. They are just as strongly married as if the Supreme Court had never opined.

TINY PRISONER.

POMONA CHILD IN JAIL.

Sympathy naturally goes out to little Robert Wren of Pomona, who lies in the County Jail charged with horse stealing.

Young Wren is under 9 years of age, and about as big as a minute. If the tiny boy is no worse than he is wide, he isn't large enough to be punished for any violation of the law, unless his punishment come in the form of the maternal slipper, but, it seems, his parents have given him little attention in his present dire predicament. He was put in jail on September 28, and since that time nobody has called to see him. The boy's imprisonment would be unbearable had he not taken a fancy to Dr. Woodworth of Long Beach fame, who is permitted to read him stories and look after him generally. They are chums, and are upstairs in the United States cells, away from the rest of the prisoners.

Master Wren says he never intended to steal the horse and buggy, but simply drove off for a ride. He objects to going to the Whittier Reform School.

"There are lots of bad boys there," said he, yesterday, "and I want to go home. I'll be good."

The authorities are incensed that so small a waif must lie in durance vile, for they think he is too young to be treated as a bad boy.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW NAME WANTED. The Los Angeles Stove and Manufacturing Company has petitioned the court to change its corporate name to the Pacific Stove Company.

SMITH CASES. The trial of William T. Smith, the assayer, charged with obtaining $220 from the California Bank in April, was continued again yesterday until December 2. One other case alleging false pretenses was also set for the same date. The charge of embezzlement, on which Smith was recently tried before a "hung" jury, is set for trial at the same time. John G. Mossin, cashier of the California Bank, is seriously sick in New York City, and will probably not be able to return for four or five weeks. He is the principal witness for the State, and the defense insists upon his testimony viva voce at the trial.

COOK'S DAMAGES. James Cook, a tanner, who was injured about four years ago by a street car on the Los Angeles and Pasadena Railway Company's lines near the Plaza, and got $5000 damages from his jury, is rejoicing to learn that the Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of the lower tribunal.

SAVAGE DIVORCE. Mrs. E. L. Savage was divorced from J. C. Savage by Judge Allen yesterday on the ground of desertion.

SWEDE WOMAN INSANE. Carrie Gustafson, aged 32, was adjudged insane yesterday, and sent to Highland. She suffers from suicidal mania, and melancholia.

LAND AND WATER. The Sunny Slope Land and Water Company incorporated yesterday with a capital stock of $250,000, divided into $100 shares, of which amount $500 has been subscribed. Los Angeles is the company's principal place of business. The directors are Charles E. Jones, Los Angeles; E. Groenendyke, E. H. Groenendyke, Pasadena; Albert H. Quatman and E. A. Meserve, Los Angeles.

POST-HOLE EPISODE A CLOSED INCIDENT.

MR. AND MRS. KING WITHDRAW THEIR COMPLAINTS.

Charge Against Telephone Employees is Dismissed—Neighborly Amenities on New High Street—Undesirable Lobsters Create Trouble—Police Court Notes.

The post-hole episode is closed. That is, so far as Mr. and Mrs. John King are concerned. Mrs. King was in the hole a week ago, but she is out now, and she proposes to keep out of it.

When the Sunset Telephone and Telegraph Company tried to plant a pole in front of property owned by John King and wife on West Seventh street, Mrs. King objected, and stood on the spot where the post-hole was to be dug. The employés of the company dug the hole just the same, and Mrs. King went down with it. The ground was dug out beneath her feet and presently she was in a hole that engulfed her to the neck. She would have been buried in the hole but for the fact that she surrendered after the dirt began to enfold her lissome form.

Mrs. King got out of the hole safe and sound, save for a few bruises suffered while resisting the men who were digging it. Owing to the rough treatment she received, Mr. King had five of the employés of the telephone company arrested on the charge of disturbing the peace. King himself, and one of the telephone men were arrested previously on a similar charge preferred by a policeman, because they came to blows while squabbling over the digging of the hole.

The trial of the cases growing out of the difficulty was set for yesterday in the Police Court, but when the court was ready to proceed with the business, the District Attorney moved to quash the whole proceedings, inasmuch as King was unwilling to appear against the alleged disturbers of his wife's peace. The court granted the motion without question, and thus a cause celebre came to a sudden conclusion.

The District Attorney and the court willingly acquiesced to a peaceful settlement of this kind, because the points at issue were really a matter for civil adjudication. It is improbable, however, that any civil action will be brought in connection with the matter.

King had made a pretty vigorous gun play while fighting off the telephone employés, and his belligerent actions in this respect made him liable to criminal prosecution. It was the intent of representatives of the telephone company to proceed against him for unlawful display of a deadly weapon, but the compromise agreed upon yesterday put an end to the whole matter. Therefore, the post-hole episode is a closed incident unless civil action is brought hereafter to restrain the telephone company from maintaining the line as now located contrary to the wishes of Mr. and Mrs. King. No further legal proceedings are looked for, however.

Neighborly Amenities.

Emma Laneguebel, residing on New High street, was acquitted of the charge of disturbing the peace, by the Police Court yesterday. The complaining witness was a colored woman, who failed to make her charge good. Mrs. Laneguebel and Mrs. Sepulveda are to appear today, however, on another charge of disturbing the peace, preferred by a neighbor. Each of the defendants wanted a complaint against the other, which the District Attorney refused to grant, but on the solicitation of a third party, he issued a complaint against the two, jointly, for disturbing the peace by unseemly bickering with each other.

Darling in Name Only.

Charles Darling is a darling in name only. For some time past his family has been supported at the expense of the Associated Charities. As if this were not offense enough to stamp him as a worthless galoot, Darling so far forgot himself as to commit a nuisance on a vacant lot, and when a woman living on property adjacent, remonstrated with him, he heaved rocks at her. The court gave him a sentence of $20 or ten days in the City Jail, for this breach of the peace. He took the days.

A Question of Lobsters.

William Cline and Frank Morton do not plead guilty to being lobsters, but lobsters got them into trouble just the same. Constable Pritchard of Santa Monica charges them with having taken crawfish, otherwise known as California lobsters, less than nine inches in length, which is contrary to law. The culprits are to appear in the Police Court at 2 o'clock today to learn when their trial is to take place.

Police Court Notes.

A. R. Sturtevant, a peculating collector, who embezzled $6.95 from the Parmelee-Dohrman Company, was given a sentence of $20 fine, or fifteen days in the City Jail yesterday, in the Police Court. Being short of ready cash, young Sturtevant went to jail.

Albert Johnson was fined $10, and J. E. Irwin $6, in the Police Court yesterday, for engaging in a public brawl on Spring street. Irwin paid his fine and Johnson forfeited bail to the amount for which he was mulcted.

Lee Sun and Lee Yung were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on the charge of conducting a lottery in Mott alley. The case against them is to be set for trial at 2 o'clock today.

Emanuel Elisalda was given a sentence of twenty days in the City Jail, for escaping from that institution while serving a term for petty larceny.

C. M. Bennett was fined $2 for peddling milk without license.

VOLUNTEERS' RESOLUTIONS.

The Seventh California Volunteer Association has adopted the following resolutions on the assassination of President McKinley:

"Our beloved President and Commander-in-Chief has been stricken down by the hand of a cowardly assassin in the midst of his most glorious career.

"His was the successful life of a brave soldier, brilliant statesman and upright Christian citizen.

"This, the Seventh California Volunteers Association, deplore the atrocious murder of President McKinley and hereby pledges themselves to use every patriotic means to stamp out any persons or societies who uplift their hands against our flag or nation."

MINE FIRE CONTROLLED.

FAIRMONT (W. Va.) Oct. 11.—Early this morning an explosion of gas in the Fairmont Coal Company's New England mine, a mile and a half south of this city, set fire to the mine, and it was feared there would be heavy loss of life, but the men emerged safely. The fire will soon be under control.

A GOOD STORY

A certain young lady in delicate health was advised by her doctor to take a half-teaspoonful of Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil after dinner—once a day—and found herself almost suddenly growing robust.

CRASH OF DEATH IN FOGGY SHROUD.

Five Mangled Corpses and Four Maimed Sufferers the Result of Sherman Trolley-car Collision.

The dead:
ELMER E. VINSON,
A. JOHNSON,
ED. WIER,
J. TURNER,
AUGUSTUS KORSE.

Seriously injured:
J. NELSON,
GEORGE NOONAN,
WILLIAM CAMERON,
JOSEPH WARTNER.

At 1 o'clock this morning the condition of the wounded was such that hope was entertained for the recovery of all. Wartner is the most severely hurt, his dangerous injuries being internal.

Korse died last night at 9:15 o'clock and the body was removed to Garrett's undertaking rooms, where the inquest will be held today.

A WORK train from Sherman, on the Santa Monica electric line, loaded with section hands, ran into a trolley fruit train from Colegrove in a heavy fog half a mile this side of Sherman yesterday morning. The motor car, in which the workmen were riding, was twice telescoped and every man inside the car was either killed or horribly wounded.

Two men were standing on the platform and escaped by jumping. E. E. Reuter, the motorman in charge of the work train, stayed at his post when he saw he must jump and was crushed to death. No one but the conductor and motorman were on the fruit train; the latter jumped in time, but the conductor was pinned in the wreck and badly injured.

Both trains were what are known among railroad men as "wild trains," not running on scheduled time, but under orders to keep out of the way of regular trains. The Coroner's jury described the accident as "purely accidental;" but officials of the Los Angeles Pacific Railroad, on whose tracks the collision occurred, by inference fastened the responsibility on the dead motorman.

It is the custom to post a notice on the bulletin board in the headquarters office at Sherman when the "lemon train" is expected to run. Vinson, as the man in charge of the work train was supposed to have seen this and to have looked out for the fruit train before he took out the section hands. The work train consisted of two flat cars and a single truck trolley car known as a "dinkey." It left Sherman at 7:2 yesterday morning carrying fourteen men and Vinson, who was in charge of the car. The train was bound for the gravel pits, on a siding a few miles up the road toward the city.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

The fog lay so heavy that it was not possible to see more than a few hundred feet ahead, and Vinson cut down his distance by standing on the back platform operating the motor between the rear car and the first flat instead of in front of the "dinkey." His reason for doing this was to be near the bell rope, which he had to sound, there being no conductor on board. Drawing out from the side track on to the power-house onto the main line it was necessary to switch the trolley pole from one line to another, and it was more convenient for the motorman to do this on the rear platform.

The moisture was thick on the rails, and the wheels of the motor car kept slipping and slipping until one of the hands was ordered to scatter sand on the track ahead. He was just in time to obey when the collision occurred.

It will never be known whether Vinson had forgotten the lemon train, or whether, seeing a chance of getting to the yards first. As they rode out of Sherman, R. V. Reuter, the roadmaster, who was riding on the back platform with Vinson, asked him if they were in luck to get out of the regular, for the track would be clear for a few miles along this part of the road. Vinson said there was no danger of those for the regular; they would mention the lemon train, either before or after.

At the Coroner's inquest the railroad men swore that there was nothing to obstruct Vinson's view of the track for a mile, as all the men but Reuter, Vinson and one other on the back platform were seated inside the car. This was not a fact, however. On the front platform of the dinkey car were Jack Crip and Henry Haynes. Vinson on the back platform were Reuter and Reuter. Inside the car were A. Johnson, Ed Wier, J. Turner, J. Wartner, J. Nelson, Augustus Korse, George Noonan, William Cameron and Joseph Wartner. The car had no seats, and the men were sitting on the floor at either side, their feet stretched out to the centre of the car.

The work train was not going faster than four or five miles an hour, and up a slight grade, when some one yelled from the front platform, and the lemon train loomed up out of the fog ahead, coming down the grade.

Reuter, the roadmaster, shouted for every one to jump, and jumped himself. The men on the front platform leaped out, and the men with Reuter all followed his example. Only Vinson stayed on.

M. H. Prichard, the motorman of the lemon train, saw the work train when it was about the length of a telegraph pole away, and tried to stop. He had shut off the current and was coasting at the rate of ten miles an hour, under the weight of the motor car and the freight car loaded with lemons behind. He had already begun to apply the air brake before he saw the impending disaster. As soon as he saw the dim outline of the train ahead, he threw on the air brake full force and then reversed the current. Having done all he could, he jumped, catching his foot on the controller bar as he left the car, and landing on his head and shoulder on the ground.

D. W. Flanagan, the conductor of the lemon train, was standing on the rear platform of the motor car and could see nothing for the fog, until the two cars were almost together. He felt a sharp jolt when the air brake was put on, and another as the current was reversed; then there was a frightful crash and he was pinned in between the rear of the motor car and the trailer with the lemons. He was able to extricate himself without assistance, and was not seriously hurt. He sustained a slight wound in the chest and a few bruises.

Johnson and Vinson lay together, but Wier and Turner were on opposite sides of the car; both were on their knees, as though they had tried to get up when the roadmaster yelled out his warning.

One of the survivors said that the groans and shrieks of the wounded men were enough to freeze his blood. When the débris was removed, the victims were found lying about the car floor, writhing in agony. Some one of them was crying out, "For God's sake, take me out." One of the men was propped up in a corner bleeding horribly, and cursing at the top of his voice, in a strange jargon, which was partly German, with American cuss words.

One or two were wedged in by the splinters of timber, and one of the survivors had to run to a ranch house near for a saw, before they could be extricated. He was so weak with the horror of it, that he could hardly work the saw when he got back.

LIKE A SLAUGHTER PEN.

The car floor was as bloody as a slaughter pen, and one of the timbers torn from the telescoping car was smeared and dripping with gore. One of the most pathetic sights of the wreck, when the bodies had been removed, was the lunch pails, with the lunch that will never be eaten, all twisted and pounded.

Just after the smash, Reuter jumped into a passing wagon and went back to Sherman for help. The house crew was called out, and a wrecking car was sent to the scene. The bodies of the dead were packed up and sent to Sherman, where they were laid out in the shed, where the private car some difficulty in finding anyone to identify them, for, like most section hands, they drift in and drift out again.

Vinson lived in a pretty cottage near the church at Sherman with his wife and two children, one of whom is a little girl of 3 or thereabouts, and the other a baby in arms. Mrs. Vinson has been ill for several days, and her friends were afraid for a long time to break the news.

Korse's wife and family reside at Orange. His wife at once hurried to Los Angeles. Their son, Charles, went to the Philippines with Capt. H. T. Matthews, and is now serving on the police force in Manila.

CLEARING THE TRACK.

Wrecking crews went to work immediately after the removal of the wounded and cleared the track by noon.

All the men of this gang were afflicted with military lockjaw. The order had gone out for employés of the company to give out no information. Mr. White, the train dispatcher, explained that this was only in the interests of accuracy. Superintendent Larrabee would explain all.

Mr. Larrabee did tell the whole story very frankly, both to reporters and before the Coroner's jury.

Coroner Holland had been notified immediately, and arrived at Sherman with his deputy about 10 o'clock. A jury was straightway assembled. There was some difficulty in finding enough men who were not in the employ of the company, but six were finally sworn.

train master beside the superintendent.

W. D. Larrabee, superintendent of the road, was next called to the stand.

He explained that the "lemon train" is a train which ran last summer every morning from Colegrove to Santa Monica with lemons. Of late it has not been running every morning, and warning has been posted on the bulletin board the night before when it is going to run the next day. Mr. Larrabee said that this notice had been posted Thursday night and as a matter of fact such a notice was on the bulletin board when a Times reporter investigated after the inquest.

Mr. Larrabee said that the work train was also a "wild train."

For the work train it was not customary to post warnings because it was not possible to tell so far ahead as the night before where it would be needed.

"Vinson could have seen from the bulletin board that the lemon train was on the road and it was his duty to have protected himself."

"Then it was seemingly neglect on his part not to have looked on the bulletin board?" asked the Coroner.

"I can't see it any other way," said Mr. Larrabee.

"He is among the dead I believe?"

"Unfortunately."

Reuter, the road master, and R. H. Savage, the track foreman, and several other employés of the road testified and told the details of the disaster as it has already been rehearsed here. None were able to tell if Vinson had looked at the notice posted on the bulletin board or not.

J. S. Larrabee, now one of the crew

THE CAR ON WHICH THE MEN WERE KILLED.

PULLING THE WRECK APART.

AFTER THE CRASH

LITERALLY CRUSHED.

The dinkey car drawing the work train was lower than the lemon motor, and the larger car climbed over it and stove in the roof of the dinkey and crushed the life out of three men inside. The first flat car of the work train raised slightly higher than the dinkey, and slid over its floor, with a frightful velocity, catching Vinson, hurling him from his motor, and crushing him to death against the end of the telescoping lemon motor.

EVERY ONE A VICTIM.

The scene that presented itself to the survivors was a frightful horror. In the midst of the débris on the dinkey floor sat the section hands, every one dead or dreadfully wounded. Vinson had been borne back through the car door by the end of a flat car and lay dead with the head of another dead man on his shoulder. This was a section hand named Augustus Johnson. He had been crushed between two timbers, and his head had been flattened, as though it were a gingerbread figure, so that one cheek was almost concave, while the back of the head bulged out in a hideous caricature twice its natural size.

Turner had been hit under the right eye by a beam, and the bones were driven into a hideous gaping hole.

Wier had been hit on the temple.

There were no wounds on Vinson. His body was one mass of bruises, and the spume came from his lips and nose in bloody foam. Straight across his chest, as though it were a brand, or an old burn, was a short heavy mark, where some piece of wood must have "Mermaid" is housed. The wounded were sent at once to the Sisters' Hospital, in this city, in a trolley car. Some were laid on the seats, and some on the floor.

The car went as easily as possible, but the trip was a horror. When the wounded men were taken out of the car at the Sisters' Hospital, and carried up the hill, they were screaming with the torture of it. One man had the bone of his forearm sticking out through the flesh, and the hip bone of another had torn through the skin and stood out in a way that is not well for any but doctors to see.

They were bandaged and tucked comfortably away in the hospital beds as fast as doctors and nurses could work.

Wartner sustained a fractured arm and bruised hand and very serious internal injuries. Two fingers had to be amputated. His condition is critical.

George Noonan's scalp was torn almost off, his left arm broken in three places, and his body bruised.

William Cameron suffered a fractured thigh and cuts and bruises. No serious results anticipated.

J. Nelson was operated on last night, one of his legs, which was terribly crushed, being amputated below the knee. He recovered from the shock surprisingly well, and is considered out of danger unless complications should set in.

All the victims except Vinson are single, and live in Sherman. They are all section hands, and most of them have been only a short time with the company. When the dead

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The inquest took place in a back room of the main office.

M. H. Prichard, the motorman of the lemon car, was the first witness called.

He explained his part in the affair; how he tried to stop the car and then jumped.

"Under the circumstances, you think this could not have been avoided?" asked the Coroner.

"Not under the circumstances."

"Whose fault was it?"

Prichard said he thought it was due solely to the fog.

"Was this work train running on your time?"

"On the time usually taken by the lemon train."

"Ought you not to have been informed that this work train was coming?" asked one of the jurors.

"I should like to be excused from answering that," said Prichard. "It is not a matter of fact to which I could testify. It would only be a matter of opinion."

In answer to a question, Prichard said the work train, as the east-bound train, had the right of way under the rules of the company.

Flanagan, the conductor of the fruit train, said that he did not think the accident was anyone's fault; it was entirely due to the fog. One of the jurors asked Flanagan whose duty it was to send out the specials and Flanagan answered, "I don't think I should have to answer that." He finally said, however, when the question was repeated that there was a regular

THE POPULAR WOMAN.

The Kind That Men Admire.

Men admire a pretty face and a good figure, but sooner or later learn that the happy woman,—that contented one is most of all to be admired.

Those troubled with fainting spells, irregularity, nervous irritability, backache, the blues and that dreadful bearing down feeling cannot hope to be happy, and advancement in either home or social life is impossible.

It is clearly shown in the young lady's letter which follows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Murphy's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

MISS MARGARETTA MURPHY,
President "Lend-a-Hand Club," Seattle, Wash.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For three years I suffered with bearing down pains, backache, became nervous and hysterical and could not enjoy life as other young women did. A lady friend who had suffered similarly and been cured, suggested that I try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had little faith in it, but nevertheless I gave it a trial, and I am glad that I did. I kept getting better gradually and my pains left me and within four months I was a well woman. This is a year ago and I have never had any trouble since. I wish all suffering women knew of your valuable medicine.—Yours very truly, MARGARETTA MURPHY, 2703 Sec. Ave., Seattle, Wash."

Two More Grateful Letters.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to write you in regard to your valuable medicine. I have been troubled with falling of the womb and inflammation of the ovaries, and was so bad I could hardly walk across the floor. The doctors said it was impossible for me to get well unless I had an operation, but this I would not listen to. Having read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I made up my mind to give it a trial, and it has done wonders for me. I commenced to feel better from the first dose, and today I am a well, healthy girl.

"Hoping that your Vegetable Compound will relieve other sufferers as it did me, and thanking you for restoring my health, I remain,—Miss ALMA LARSON, Box 188, Hudson, Wis."

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been greatly benefited by the use of your medicine. I was troubled with a pain in my side and any little unusual thing would almost prostrate me I was so nervous; I was so weak I could not do my work; menstruation was very scanty. I tried medicines for my nerves, also kidney and liver medicine, but nothing did me any good. I then concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took three bottles of it, and one box of your Liver Pills, and I have not been sick since. That was three years ago, and I have given birth to two children since then, and do all my housework for a family of six."—MRS. JOHN MOLER, Hillsboro, Ohio. (Nov. 19, 1900.)

Don't hesitate to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about your sickness you do not understand. She will treat you with kindness and her advice is free. No woman ever regretted writing her and she has helped thousands. Address Lynn, Mass.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, Mass., which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

FRANCE AND TURKEY.

France Asks Russia's Support of Her Claims, While Turkey Looks to Germany for Support.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says the attitude of Russia toward the dispute between France and Turkey is watched with the greatest interest in Berlin, and that it would be manifestly regarded as unfortunate if the Porte were compelled to give way by the double pressure of the influence of France and Russia.

The Sultan, the dispatch adds, has recently come to regard Germany as his best supporter and councillor among the powers, and he would be disappointed to discover, when joint pressure was applied, that his reliance on Germany was no avail to him.

The statement that France has made proposals to Russia asking for the support of her claims, and that the reply of Russia is only a promise to observe a benevolently neutral attitude is not believed in Berlin. The St. Petersburg Foreign Office, it is observed, would scarcely make public through the German press its rebuff to French overtures.

BALLOON SANTOS-DUMONT VI.

Aeronaut Makes Marvelous Maneuvers With His Rebuilt Airship at Great Speed and Without Disaster.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—M. Santos-Dumont, having completed the repairs to his balloon, the Santos-Dumont VI, in spite of unfavorable predictions based on a sudden rise of the barometer decided yesterday to start against the wind and maneuver around Longchamps race course, says the Paris correspondent of the Herald.

When the signal to start was given, the Santos-Dumont VI shot off like an arrow and, in spite of a contrary wind, reached Longchamps at a speed impossible to estimate in the actual state of aeronautic science, but certainly as fast as a rapid automobile travels. The speed cannot be estimated at less than sixty kilometers an hour.

For more than an hour the balloon maneuvered in all directions above the race course with perfect docility in the presence of numerous spectators. An enormous crowd had assembled outside the inclosure waiting for the aeronaut to venture out. The balloon reached the rendezvous in the twinkling of an eye, while the friends of the aeronaut followed it with all speed.

When tea was over, M. Santos-Dumont returned in his aerial carriage to Longchamps and, crossing the Seine at a height of about two hundred meters, lightly overshot the Parc D'Aero station. With a sudden turn he came back to his goal and, passing with considerable speed over the telegraph wire which runs along the western side of the park, stopped in a few minutes between the two sheds. The difficulty of doing this is extreme. It requires astonishing skill to descend in so narrow a space.

Today, should atmospheric conditions be as favorable as they were, the aeronaut will attempt an official trial for the grand prize of the Aero Club, half of which, if he succeeds, he has promised to the poor of Paris.

SUBMARINE BOAT.

STAMFORD (Ct.) Oct. 11.—A mysterious submarine boat which has been under construction for the last three years at Ware Island, near the mouth of Stamford harbor, has departed for the New Jersey Coast, where she may have deep water for her trials. J. I. Carter, who has superintended the building of the boat, has maintained much secrecy about her design, but she is said to be fifty feet long and to have a cigar-shaped hull of pine sheathed with galvanized iron. The motive power is supplied by two powerful engines driving two dynamos, kerosene oil being used as fuel and serving also as ballast.

What is wanted of soap for the skin is to wash it clean and not hurt it. Pure soap does that. This is why we want pure soap; and when we say pure, we mean without alkali.

Pears' is pure; no free alkali. There are a thousand virtues of soap; this one is enough. You can trust a soap that has no biting alkali in it.

All sorts of stores sell it, especially druggists; all sorts of people use it.

THE CONNECTION.

Joseph rose wherever he was, by moral gravitation. In the house of Potiphar, Pharaoh's military leader, he won his way to the confidence of his master, and, because of his extraordinary executive ability, he was soon put in complete charge of everything. His beauty, nobleness and magnetism subjected him to temptation, but his personal purity, his sense of fidelity to his confiding master and his sense of responsibility to God saved him. Rather, let us say that the same God who was with him in winning Potiphar's esteem and confidence was with him in temptation. For a sin which he refused to commit he was imprisoned. His master may have fully believed in his guilt, but the wildness of the punishment suggests the suspicion that Potiphar did not believe Joseph to be wholly bad, and that he might have imprisoned him just to hush up an unpleasant sensation. Joseph bears his punishment and saves his master's honor.

THE LESSON.

I.

"Overseer in Prison." (Verses 20-23.)

"And Joseph's master took him and put him into the prison, a place where the king's prisoners were bound; and he was there in the prison.

"But the Lord was with Joseph, and showed him mercy, and gave him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

"And the keeper of the prison committed to Joseph's hand all the prisoners that were in the prison; and whatsoever they did there, he was the doer of it.

"The keeper of the prison looked not to anything that was under his hand; because the Lord was with him, and that which he did, the Lord made it to prosper."

It is not so very surprising that Joseph was cast into prison, for intrigues go on in eastern courts that often lead court favorites into disgrace, and the caprice of masters is sufficient reason for putting a servant in prison. Joseph's master had power, without trial or investigation, to do as he pleased with his servant. He was at the head of the military, and that stood next to the priestly caste. He could be arbitrary in his decisions.

The imprisonment must have been severe at first, for he was put where the king's prisoners were, and that must have been a place where they were treated badly, for the king would be more severe with offenders against his conceit and whims than with real criminals. But in prison Joseph, in time, became overseer, even as in Potiphar's house. He won the confidence of the keeper, who put everything into his hands and gave himself no further concern about anything. There was a transparent honesty in him that any one could see, even a corrupt Egyptian official or jailer. To this day, oriental jailers are so lazy that they give trusted prisoners charge of tasks in the prison, but in that case, Joseph was put in charge of everything. The qualities that won the promotion were transparent honesty, sympathy for others, power of leadership, great capacity for affairs, and a sunny cheerfulness that was contagious. Because he was so high-minded and had such an interest in his master, he made no great effort to avert the punishment. He was in prison because he was too honorable and delicate-minded to expose the guilty person. He knew that God was with him, and would make it work out some good thing. His good humor was partly temperamental and partly the result of faith in God. He did not sulk and mourn, but regarded his prison as affording an opportunity and as being a means of doing some important task. His conscience was clear, though it was hard to be numbered with the transgressors and treated as a criminal. His good cheer was worth everything to him. Not having to sulk and think about himself he had time to take an interest in others. He made them his friends rather than his enemies. He had great reserves of power, great magnetism, and gentle sympathy for them, and he won the confidence of all his fellow-prisoners. He, no doubt, introduced some system and discipline into the prison, and yet he was so genial and sympathetic that he won all hearts. Had he not been friendly he would have made no friends at all, and would not have gotten out as soon as he did. He acquired skill which he afterward used. He gained knowledge of affairs, both in and out of the prison, that must have become very useful to him. Because the Lord was with him Joseph did his best. He did not decline to use this new experience but made it his servant. A man who can thus make misfortune an opportunity of gaining knowledge and experience and friends, and of doing good is sure to find dignities awaiting him. All noticed Joseph's prosperity.

II.

"Friend to Prisoners." (Verses 1-11.)

"And it came to pass after these things that the butler of the King of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord, the King of Egypt. And Pharaoh was wroth against two of his officers, against the chief of the butlers and against the chief of the bakers.

"And he put them in ward in the house of the captain of the guard, into the prison, the place where Joseph was bound.

"And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them; and they continued a season in the ward.

"And they dreamed a dream both of them, each man his dream in one night, each man according to the interpretation of his dream, the butler and the baker of the King of Egypt, which were bound in the prison.

"And Joseph came in unto them in the morning, and looked upon them, and, behold, they were sad.

"And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in the ward of his lord's house, saying, Wherefore look ye so sadly today?

"And they said unto him, We have dreamed a dream, and there is no interpreter of it. And Joseph said unto them, Do not interpretations belong to God? Tell me them, I pray you.'

"And the chief butler told his dream to Joseph and said to him, In my dream behold a vine was before me, and in the vine were three branches; and it was as though it budded and its blossom shot forth; and the clusters thereof brought forth ripe grapes; and Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and I gave the cup into Pharaoh's hand. And Joseph said unto him, This is the interpretation of it: The three branches are three days; within yet three days shall Pharaoh lift up thine head and restore thee unto thine office; and thou shalt give Pharaoh's cup into his hand, after the former manner when thou wast his butler. But have me in thy remembrance, when it shall be well with thee, and show kindness, I pray thee, unto me and make mention of me unto Pharaoh, and bring me out of this house; for indeed I was stolen away out of the land of the Hebrews; and here also have I done nothing that they should put me into the dungeon."

The coming of these two officials was another element in Joseph's great opportunity. They brought to him much knowledge of the King and his court. They would naturally tell their grievances and all the circumstances connected with them. They were chamberlain and steward in the royal household, high and honored officers, and through them Joseph saw into the true needs of the court and of the people. Thus he was storing up treasures of knowledge and skill and experience and purpose. He was at school, preparing for his life work. Attending them every day he showed sympathy for them and was given their confidence. He not only gained something, but gave, as well. In their sad hour, when troubled by their dreams, he is the friend who is ready with his wise directions.

In dealing with them he shows great tact, for he approaches them through their sympathies. It is his kindly inquiry into their sadness that calls forth their confidence. He shows insight into their conditions, too. He also shows that his faith in God has kept fresh and buoyant, notwithstanding his hard experiences. He had had hard luck with his own dreams, and most of us would have lost all faith in dreams of any kind. But Joseph knew that God often indicated duty or destiny in dreams, and he would not lose faith. That was one of God's ways of teaching and directing people, away back in those early days. We notice that he had confidence not in his own, but in God's power to interpret the dreams. Yet he had confidence in himself as the servant and spokesman of God. One owes it as a duty to God to believe in God's chosen servant and his task, even if that servant is himself. Joseph's superb self-confidence is really confidence in God. That is what made his natural sensitiveness so acute and brotherly. Nothing that affected the prisoners escaped him. The fidelity of Joseph in telling the dreams was exact. He filled the butler with a joyous hope and the baker with a deadly gloom. Sadly he must have told the latter his doom.

It was not selfish as he asked the cup-bearer to remember him when he returned to his position and power. Joseph was sincerely anxious to leave his prison, yet was determined to make it serve his purposes as long as he was kept there. He knew how an autocrat often promises anything a courtier asks, and felt sure that this officer could help him.

Notice the grounds on which he sought release—two—he had been brought to Egypt against his will and therefore he was not responsible for the treatment he had received; he was unjustly imprisoned. He was infinitely above the sulking fault finder, for he did not speak of his brothers as having brought him to Egypt, nor did he say who was guilty of his unjust imprisonment. He protected all the guilty from censure. He was a very noble man. He merely states facts without indicating the persons responsible for his brutal treatment.

It is not to the credit of the reinstated cupbearer that he let two whole years pass by before he thought to recommend his benefactor, Joseph, to the executive clemency. But those two years were undoubtedly spent by Joseph in doing his best, cheerfully and hopefully. Those years were not wasted, but were putting the finishing touches upon the schooling he needed.

WHAT THE MASTERS SAY.

Joseph gives the first great evidence of moral strength by rising superior to this temptation, to which almost all men, in one degree or other, succumb. You can hear him saying, deep down in his heart, and almost unconsciously to himself: If the world is full of hatred, there is all the more need that at least one man should forgive and love; if men's hearts are black with selfishness, ambition and lust, all the more reason for me to be pure and to do my best for all whom my service can reach; if cruelty, lying and fraud meet me at every step all the more am I called to conquer these by integrity and gulelessness.—[Dods.

In oriental countries, as a general rule, there is not that disgrace connected with imprisonment as in other countries. The prisoner is generally regarded as an unfortunate man, most probably innocent of the crime imputed to him, but whose fortune may at any time change, and the prisoner of today may be the court favorite of tomorrow. Hence it is very common for prisoners to confide in one another and to promise mutual aid, whoever first obtains his liberty being pledged to use his influence for the release of the other. Unfortunately, it is also very common for feeble human nature to forget in the day of prosperity the promises made in adversity.—[Long.

The prison is light when God is there, and chains do not chafe if He wraps His love around them. Many a prisoner for God since Joseph's time has had his experience repeated, and received tenderer tokens from him in a dungeon than ever before. Paul the prisoner, John in Patmos, Bunyan in Bedford Jail, George Fox in Lancaster Castle, Rutherford in Aberdeen, and many more have found the Lord with them, and showing them His kindness. —[Maclaren.

TRUTHS TO IMPRESS.

(1.) That the innocent often suffer for the sins of others.

(2.) That God always turns such suffering to the good of His people.

(3.) That when one trusts in God, treats men kindly, he is in the line of promotion.

(4.) That when one is true to God in temptation he will be protected by God in misfortune.

(5.) That in every condition we may find people that need our sympathy and help.

(6.) That one man and God always constitute a majority.

(7.) That we look to God for both life and the interpretation of life.

(8.) That one who has received a benefit from another must be on the watchout to bestow one in return.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Comments on the uniform prayer-meeting topics of the Christian Endeavor Societies, the Epworth Leagues, the Baptist Young People's Union, etc.

By William T. Ellis.

Topic for October 13: "Dark Days and Their Lessons."—[Ps. cvii, 1-15.

Even the brightest lives have dark days. Sorrows enter every person's lot. There is no life that is all sunshine. The inevitableness of suffering in every human experience is well expressed by Ella Wheeler Wilcox in her poem, "Gethsemane:"

In golden youth, when seems the earth
A summer land for singing mirth;
When souls are glad and hearts are light,
And not a shadow lurks in sight,
We do not know it, but there lies
Somewhere, veiled under evening skies,
A garden all must sometime see—
Somewhere lies our Gethsemane.

With joyous steps we go our ways,
Love lends a halo to our days
Light sorrows sail like clouds afar;
We laugh, and say how strong we are.
We hurry on, and hurrying, go
Close to the borderland of woe,
That waits for you and waits for me—
Forever waits Gethsemane.

All those who journey, soon or late
Must pass within that garden's gate,
Must kneel alone in darkness there,
And battle with some fierce despair.
God pity those who cannot say,
"Not mine, but thine," who only pray,
"Let this cup pass," and cannot see
The purpose in Gethsemane.

Every situation in life is a schoolroom, every experience a teacher. There is no event, no incident, no hour without its message. We are all learners and each one of us receives individual instruction. One lesson, though, there is for all alike; it is perhaps the greatest lesson in the curriculum of life—the lesson of suffering. The deepest, largest and most beautiful truths in God's storehouse of knowledge are taught us by this dark-robed teacher who is variously named Pain, Sorrow, Disappointment, Burdens.

As Hawthorne has vividly portrayed, in his greatest novel, there is no sorrow like unto sorrow for sin. The consciousness of the soul's guilt is the greatest burden that can weigh upon the spirit of man. Sin within shuts out all of life's beauty and joy and brightness. At this very moment there are thousands of men and women crying out in agony of soul because life is black before them, on account of their own sin. What is the lesson to be drawn from this darkest of days? It is this—Christ is light to dispel sin's midnight. He changes the soul's darkness to midday. With Him is forgiveness of sin; no life can be so darkened that He cannot give it sunshine and peace. This is the cardinal truth of the Christian's faith—the power and willingness of Jesus to save.

The essentials and the non-essentials of life are curiously bound up and interminglied. Most persons are pursuing ends that are really not worthy of immortals. Often it is not until shut up in the chamber of grief that a person learns what is worth while in life. Poverty, disappointment, or the death of a loved one must overtake some men before they can perceive what are enduring and worthy goals for a soul.

As a bird flies to her nest at the approach of a storm, so the soul of a Christian hastens to Jesus when clouds of adversity arise. Strangely enough, even disciples sometimes think that they can get along without divine help when the days are fair. Therefore the need of trouble to drive us to the breast of the Savior, who is our comfort, our shelter, and our strength.

Tears wash the eyes. Few of us can see clearly until we have sorrowed. Life's vital interests, both our own and our neighbors, become plainer to us after we have sojourned in the dark valley. One of tribulation's compensations is that we learn what to value in life, and how to understand ourselves and our neighbors.

Sorrow teaches sympathy. Only the soul that has suffered can be a brother to the soul that is suffering. Ability to enter into another's feelings, and to lift up the hearts that are bowed down, is one of the lessons learned in the dark days. Because Jesus was a man of sorrows, every suffering soul that has known Him has found Him kin.

We are never sure of ourselves until we have suffered.

It is good for us to realize our dependence upon God, for only thus can we know peace and security. If we can find out our helplessness in no other way than by being thrown prostrate by trouble, still let us sing aloud because we have learned our lesson at any cost. No price is too great to pay for a sense of complete dependence upon God.

"Did you like it where you went for your vacation this summer?"

"No; it was the most aggravating place I ever got into. There were four newly-married couples at the hotel, and the only good-looking single girl around the concern would run like a scared filly every time she saw me coming."—[Chicago Record-Herald.

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—Mrs. B. Shirer, La Plata, Mo.

SEPTEMBER DEALINGS. Dealings in stocks on the New York Exchange during September aggregated 14,630,762 shares, against 10,771,812 shares in August, 15,926,580 shares in July, 19,919,121 shares in June, 26,159,728 shares in May, 21,668,897 shares in April, 21,881,389 shares in February and 20,207,603 shares in January. In railroad bonds the sales reached a par value of $14,564,000, in miscellaneous bonds of $93,300, and in government bonds of $50,500, making the total sales of all classes of bonds for the month $14,708,100, against a total of $38,621,700 in August; $49,477,000 in July, $79,858,050 in June, $130,257,400 in May, $115,875,500 in April, $132,491,950 in March, $103,982,- in February and $44,718,400 in January.

COMMERCIAL.

CORN HIGHER. The quotation for western corn is now $1.01½ per bushel cash.

TOMATOES FIRM. All prices are withdrawn on tomatoes for future delivery.

THE SUGAR DEAL. Apropos of the reduction in granulated sugar to 5½ cents per pound along the Missouri river, Willet & Gray say: "The notable feature of this movement is that the quotation of 5½ cents is on a level with the parity of raw beet sugars on the present basis, 2½ cents for cane and 1 cent for refined sugar. It seems that the beet-sugar interests of the country are compelled to protect their interests to such an extent that the domestic beet-sugar industry may not realize any larger profits on the making of sugar than would come to them from the manufacture and sale of raw material for a favored industry to confine its profits to the manufacture of raw material for sale to the refiners. The whole refining of sugar is a business by itself."

THE CRANBERRY CROP. The commercial crop of cranberries still centers in Massachusetts and New Jersey, but the West may be more of a competitor in the future. In addition to the important cranberry-growing sections of Wisconsin, a few counties in Michigan are giving considerable attention to this crop. It is also in an experimental stage on the Pacific Coast, where occasional cultivated bogs are found. The American Agriculturist reckons a crop of 725,000 bushels this season, as against one of 604,000 bushels last year, and as compared with 900,000 bushels in 1899. The heaviest cutturn in the past decade was in 1895, when the crop reached 1,000,000 bushels. The market outlook is promising.

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

PROMOTIONS HALT. Speaking of the incorporations during September, the Journal of Commerce significantly says that it is a question whether the combinations now contemplated will be actually organized. The unfavorable showings made recently by many "industrials" have made it difficult to secure underwriting for such issues, and it is not at all improbable that some will have to be abandoned. The months of August and September have been a comparatively light period, causing party to party to the disadvantage of interested parties from their vacations and family duties, and to the difficulty in securing financial support for new enterprises. In this connection the subjoined summary of bank clearings for each month of the year, with comparisons for 1901 and 1900, is of interest:

|---|---|---|
| February | [illegible] | 124,350,000 |
| March | [illegible] | 242,000,000 |

FRUIT SHIPMENTS. There is nothing from Southern California now but one car of oranges and it is bound for Canada. The total shipments to date, November 1, 1900, to 20,284 carloads, of which 2820 were oranges.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS. R. G. Dun & Co.'s monthly review of trade conditions for September in Southern California is as follows:

"As shown by the country's bank clearings there was no falling off in the general aggregate of trade for the month just closed. Manufacturing is still a vigor that few wheels are id'e, and little change; stability of the situation is the rule. Distributing trade is everywhere good, and pronounced in West and Southwest.

"In the immediate district the sugar beet is nearing harvesting and, market. Fruit-orchard products en- growers hold prices firmly, and are being made for small lots at 3 cents. The price for new crop is at 5 cents.

"The crop is as fine as any in the history of the State. About fifty per cent of the crop will go to the last year's is a careful estimate has commenced, and 50 per cents of the crop will go this month. The association at 50@5 cents, about one-fifth over than last year.

"The crushing grapes and raisins is advancing. In the northern counties are as high as $30 a ton

"Farmers are busy turning their land, for it is the best season for it. Money has been going at rates of two to four cent. All offerings find ready buyers. Shipments have reached more than a hundred carloads. Eastern prices are 2 to 4 cents in advance of those in local market.

"The surprising orchard crop of Southern California is the fact that it is about ready to pick in unusually large. It is estimated barrels, more than the average crop of previous years.

"Activity is manifested in market for fruits. Dealers await fall with full confidence.

"There is relatively no business in the hands of growers and associations, badly mixed, and low prices. The situation has practically changed.

"Reports from Arizona are most encouraging. The continued prosperity of mines. There is plenty of feed for stock, and cattle are in fine condition. The citrus trees are heavily loaded, and the end of October will see the crop ready to be shipped to New York. Mines are more active and on the whole better than for years. Arizona is now stirring up a determination to do something in the matter of Statehood, and there will undoubtedly great business ex-

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

EGGS are very scarce for local ranch, and while they are generally quoted at 22 cents, some dealers are getting more in a small way from special lines of trade. The general public do not care to pay above 25 cents, while they can get eastern for 25 to 30 cents, the latter for carefully selected, large, sound eggs.

Fresh fish are scarce, and so is game. The demand for fish is good; for game slow.

Live poultry is scarce, but the demand is not active. Eastern dressed poultry is plentiful, and sells freely. As the weather cools off, more turkeys are used in restaurants and boarding-houses.

Honey is moving slowly, not to exceed three cars a week now. It looks as if the bulk of the crop had gone forward, and what is left is in the hands of speculators or is held above the views of buyers.

New-crop navel oranges are going out, one car from Corona and one from Glendale this week. Lemons are moving freely. There are not many cars fit for the market left. Other lines are steady.

The very highest grade in the market, which has been quoted at $3.25 per barrel, is cut to $3, and second grades to prices ranging from $2.75 to $4.50. These have heretofore been ruling at $5 to $6.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Great speculative activity continued in the stock market today, but it was centered to a large extent in transcontinental stocks, led by St. Paul, which rose 8¾ points over last night in the late dealings and closed one point below the best. The appearance of the Harriman stocks suggested the days of last spring, dear to the memory of the professional speculator, when the absorption of a new railroad system or a new transcontinental combination was rumored each successive day and readily accepted in the credulous mood of that speculative world. The activity of today's market was largely due to the crop of rumors received by yesterday's various reports of the proposed plan for consolidating the control of Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Burlington in one proprietary company. As a matter of fact, the official disclaimers this morning of the accuracy of the published reports and the prompt relapse in the prices of Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific preferred, had a somewhat chilling effect on the speculative sentiment. The general accord of the current rumors in asserting that the stock of Northern Pacific itself was not yet provided for in the plan, the alleged provision for the retirement of Northern Pacific preferred through which the control by the Harriman interests is exerted, and the assertion by representatives of Harriman interests that that syndicate was not a participant in the plan, seemed to open up a vista of renewed contention. As the day progressed, there was a revival of old rumors that Union Pacific was to acquire St. Paul in exchange for new bonds. In the presence of these pleasant old associations, speculative enthusiasm seemed to take fire. The buying of St. Paul was quite in the old prodigal fashion of outlay, and Union Pacific, Southern Pacific and Atchison were conspicuous followers. The extreme advance in Union Pacific was 2¾, and in Southern Pacific, 2¾. Rock Island was up four points at one time on light dealings. Missouri Pacific by no means kept pace with the other transcontinental railroads, and the Gould stocks as a whole were laggards. The Huntingtons were affected by poor earnings for the first week in October. Here and there in the railroad list and the prominent industries there were advances of a point or over, but the activity and strength of the market were by no means general or well distributed. The coalers and the so-called Morgan stocks, including the United States Steel stocks, seemed to be little affected and moved narrowly. Dissemination of a good bank statement was generally founded more on the tone of the money market than on actual speculation. The showing will depend on the loan items. changes in which are necessarily small. The feeling is growing that the present resources of the banks are likely to prove sufficient to meet the further requirements of the interior for currency. The improvement by more than this week's net gain of $4,000,000 from that of last week. This feeling was an influence on the strength of the market. Completion of the reported little evidence of an increase in the outside interest in the market, and the principal buying was attributed to large speculative interests. The railroad bond market was active and showed an unusually strong tone. Total sales, $1,540,000. United States 2s coupon advanced ½ per cent on the last call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

(BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Wheat ruled fairly active and higher; December opening ¼ to ⅝c higher on improved cables at 69¼@69⅝c. Statistics, if anything, were bearish. Receipts were still very liberal, though falling off somewhat in the Southwest. Clearances were small, and the export demand was sluggish. In spite of these influences, wheat gained material strength, principally from the corn report, and rose steadily throughout the session on covering by shorts. There was some outside demand, which helped, and December sold to 70¾c, easing off a trifle at the end and closing strong, ⅝c higher, at 70c. Oats were moderately active early, but dull and narrow later in the day. December closed a shade lower at 35½@35¾c. An easy market in provisions at the opening resulted from a renewed selling for the local and outside accounts. Prices surged rapidly for a time, in spite of a strong hog market, but on a development of a considerable local demand, thought to be an effort of packers to keep prices up, January products reacted and held steady, January pork closed 12½c advanced; lard, 7½c up, and ribs 5c higher.

| Wheat, No. 2— | Closing. |
|---|---|
| October | 69¾ |
| December | 70 |
| May | 72½ |

London Financial Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The Commercial Advertiser's London financial cablegram says: "The tone of the stock market was distinctly improved today, and there was much more activity, especially in the American department. Copper shares spurted with Amalgamated copper, Rio Tintos, 1¾, and Anaconda 1¼. American stocks opened with London 1 higher, expecting handsome profits, but New York stolidity made London sulk, although the reaction was unimportant. The cold storage stocks were the favorites in the speculation of a revival of the combination. Erie was in particular demand. London is observing that New York is all the time absorbing talk of a resumption of the bull movement. The activity of the Morgan-Hill and Harriman interest encourages buyers. Austria is still a keen buyer of gold, and probably will intercept the £200,000 due from the Cape Monday."

New York Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Values at New York for tin advanced about forty points today without special activity attending it. London advanced £1 10s, spot closing £111 5s and futures £110 12s 6d. The local market closed quiet, bid firm at 24.00@24.10 for spot. The domestic market for copper held firm all day at yesterday's advance. At London spot closed at £66 and futures at £61 10s. Lead and spelter were nominally unchanged at home and abroad. Iron ruled quiet, but about steady, at old prices.

BOER WAR AFFECTING SANTA ANA CANNERY.

HIGH DUTIES A HARD BLOW TO APRICOT MARKET.

Ten Thousand Cases Less Fruit Put Up This Year Than Last—Giant Rattler Killed Near Red Hill—Land Sale at Orange.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The big cannery has closed for the season, after completing a pack of about 22,000 cases of fruit. This is about 10,000 less than last season, and is accounted for by the scarcity of fruit, and the condition of the apricot market in England, where the California canneries had built up a very large trade. Since the Boer war the rise in customs duties to supply revenues for conducting the struggle has affected canned goods to such an extent that the shipment of apricots into English markets is practically impossible. The duty recently imposed is from 18 to 20 cents a case.

Of the 22,000 cases of fruit, 5000 were of pears, and the remainder, with the exception of a few hundred cases of plums, were peaches. Shipping has already begun, and as practically all of the output is sold, will be continued until the big warehouse is emptied, except the hold-over apricots. It is estimated that an average of about 1000 cases a day will be sent out during the next two weeks.

During the rush of the canning season, a force of 350 employés was kept busy, and the cannery management paid out from $1000 to $2000 a week in wages. There is yet a considerable force of workmen engaged in shipping the fruit, and some are employed during the entire year.

FULLERTON.

"POKER" DAVIS "BUSTED."

FULLERTON, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] "Poker" Davis of Los Angeles spent three days in Fullerton this week, with the expectation of finding a number of "suckers," but he was sadly disappointed, returning to his home "dead" broke. "Poker" had no trouble in finding local sports who were willing to sit in a little game of draw poker with him; in fact, they were delighted to entertain the "colonel," having met him here before. The first night around the boards he lost 150 shekels, but the next day he won this back, and that night came out ahead of the game an even $200, in addition to the $150 recovered. The following day "Poker" was at one time ahead of the local sports over $400, but his luck turned, and Davis did not only lose the $400, but also dropped every cent of money he brought from the city with him, and the local gamblers now say Davis is about the easiest sport they ever went up against, and they hope to see him in Fullerton again soon. During the first day's "business" Davis won $150, it is said, from a farmer residing a few miles north of town, who has received several hundred dollars from an oil company in Brea Cañon the past year or two. After dropping this money the farmer had an attack of cold feet and quit.

NEVADA WANTS HANCOCK.

Efforts are again made to have Hancock, the murderer of Edmonston and Engelke, removed from the California penitentiary back to Lincoln county, Nev., for trial on the murder charges. Letters were received here this week asking for the things found on the bodies of the victims, to be used as exhibits on the part of the people during the trial. Mrs. Gross, the wife of Hancock when he killed the men, and who was forced to help Hancock litt them into the wagon after they had been knocked in the head and shot, to be removed to the hills near the road, is now in Arizona, and is still willing to testify against Hancock.

JURY'S LONG SIEGE IN SAN BERNARDINO.

MATTER OF INDIVIDUAL OPINION THE OBSTACLE.

Fate of Norton, Who Killed a Man at Needles, Hangs in the Balance—Was He Justified in Slaying?—Wedded at Sunrise.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] At 9 o'clock tonight the jury was still out in the Norton murder trial. The case went to the jury yesterday afternoon. This afternoon Judge Oster summoned the jurors into court and questioned them as to the cause that was in the way of a verdict. The inquiry developed that it was not a case of law or evidence, but purely a matter of individual opinion. The foreman thought the jurors could decide if given more time, and they were sent back to work again.

The trial opened Tuesday and was contested on every possible point. The case rested on whether or not Norton was justified in firing the shot that caused McSherry's death in a Needles restaurant on the night of the 2d of May last. The case is one of the most expensive ever tried in the county, because practically all of the witnesses live on the border line of the county, many miles from San Bernardino.

ANDERSON-TAYLOR.

John W. Anderson and Miss Blanche M. Taylor were married at sunrise yesterday at the home of the bride's parents on North A street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. McG. Judge and Mrs. J. F. Crowe returned yesterday from a three months' eastern trip.

N. S. Putnam and family have returned from an outing at Los Angeles and coast points.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Outwater have returned from an extended eastern trip.

Mrs. Mabel Stephens of Garnett, Kan., is a guest at the McMallen home on East Seventh street.

D. E. Myers of Moreno is back from the East.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harter and family left yesterday for their home in Loveland, Colo.

SANTA PAULA.

SUPERVISOR AT REST.

SANTA PAULA, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The funeral of the late Supervisor Touchton, held yesterday, was attended by many friends and citizens, who knew him as a man who was open and fearless for the right in the performance of his official duties. The county officials were all present. Judge Williams of the Superior Court delivered a eulogy.

Applicants are already numerous for the place left vacant by the death of Mr. Touchton. Walker of Sespe, Hobson of Santa Paula and Foster, also of this place, are most mentioned. The temperance people are said to have fixed upon Frank Foster as their choice, and indications are that he will be the appointee.

VICE-PRESIDENT'S WIDOW.

Mrs. Hendricks, widow of former Vice-President Hendricks, is in Santa Paula, the guest of Mrs. Raschig. Though advanced in years, Mrs. Hendricks is well preserved and active in body and mind. Her stay in Santa Paula is an indefinite one, but it is probable that she will remain for some time.

SATICOY.

ATTEMPT TO BLOW SAFE.

SATICOY, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] Last night the Co-operative store at this place was entered and an attempt made to blow up the safe. The clerk and his brother sleep in the rear rooms of the store, but the would-be robber entered by a side window, unnoticed, and drilled through the top of the safe and through the fireclay to the steel lining. When he was interrupted by a noise in the rear rooms and fled. His tools, consisting of a brace and two drill bits, a flask of powder and a piece of fuse, were left. Although the officers have made diligent search of the surrounding country, no trace of the crook has been found.

SANTA BARBARA.

ELKS ... SIDE ON QUARTERS.

SANTA BARBARA, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] A meeting was held last night by the Elks, at which the report of the trustees and Hall Committee regarding the new lodge and clubrooms was given. It was practically decided to follow the suggestion of Bishop Montgomery and Father Stackman, of putting a second story over the row of stores to be built by them at State and Figueroa streets, directly in front of the Parochial Church.

There will be ten of these stores fronting on State street, and the plan is to have the Elks occupy the whole second story, with a lodge room fifty by eighty feet, having a stage in one end, club rooms, reception rooms and a kitchen. The lodge room and its anterooms will be rented to any of the other lodges, while the balance of the floor will be reserved for the Elks only. The building will make a great improvement in the appearance of the street.

HIGH-SCHOOL FOOTBALL.

Yesterday afternoon the first football game of the season was played at Agricultural Park, with the freshmen and juniors of the High School on one side and the sophomores and seniors on the other. Neither side scored, and another game will probably follow very soon, as several challenges have been received from other Southern California teams, and all of them will probably be accepted, after the boys have had more practice.

SANTA BARBARA BREVITIES.

The Elks will have a ladies' night next Friday, for which great preparations are being made. The password will be required to get through the gate, and each member is entitled to take two ladies. A promenade concert will be one of the features.

S. R. Payne, a business man of Duluth, Minn., has rented a house on Valerio street, and with his wife and daughter will spend the winter here.

Dan Martin, Chief of Police, is spending a few days in Los Angeles.

Mrs. A. L. Austin, who has been in the city for about two weeks on business, left tonight for her future home in San Francisco.

Rev. S. J. Carroll, who succeeds Rev. Cory in the pulpit of Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, has arrived, and will preach his first sermon on Sunday.

AMERICAN LITERATURE AND AMERICAN LIFE

XVII.—THE SONNET IN AMERICA LITERATURE.

[By Maurice Francis Egan, professor of English language and literature, Catholic University of America.]

THE sonnet, though one of the most artificial of metrical forms, was naturalized in English poetry mainly by Sir Philip Sidney and Shakespeare. They borrowed the suggestion for the English form from the Italians. When one names the Italian sonnet, one names Petrarch, who brought this exquisite and subtle expression of poetry to perfection. The form adopted by Spenser, Wyat, Surrey, Sir Philip Sidney and Shakespeare had little in common with the typical Petrarchan sonnet, except the fourteen lines. Guittowe, who preceded Petrarch, set the example for the form accepted by both Dante and Petrarch—a form which recalls the sound of fourteen bells—sonnetti—or, rather, the accented notes of the mandolin. The sonnet was first written to be accompanied by a mandolin or other stringed instrument. It is essentially musical, and when the musical idea is forgotten the sonnet becomes merely a formal academic exercise in metrical difficulties. With the Italians it was a song, and a popular song-form, for, while our language needs to be chiseled and forced into the octave and sextet, the Italian flows into it musically.

TECHNICAL DEFINITION.

Both Sidney and Shakespeare use the couplet at the end of the sextet, and, though there are no more beautiful short poems in the English language that Shakespeare's seventy-third sonnet or Sidney's "Leave Me, O Love," they cannot be said to be—in the strictest Italian sense—sonnets at all. Spenser—by the way, it has been observed that in his tomb in Westminster Abbey his name is spelled with a "c"—Wyat, Surrey and Raleigh were also devoted to the couplet, which, like the snap of a whip or a laugh emphasizing a story, comes monotonously at the end. The technical requirements of the sonnets are that it should have fourteen lines, that it should be divided into two parts—the octave and the sextet, or sextet; the octave—the eight lines—ought to consist of two quatrains; the second carrying out, reflecting or amplifying the thought of the first. The measure should be pentameter iambic—that is, each line counts five feet with the accent on the second syllable of each foot. The sextet has, of course, six pentameter iambic lines. Occasionally a trochee is admitted both in the octave and the sextet; the musical effect must be the writer's guide here. The general meter should be, at all events, iambic. The rhymes in the octave are arranged invariably in this way. (The example is taken from Richard Watson Gilder's "The Sonnet:")

"What is the sonnet? 'Tis the pearly shell
It is a little picture painted well.
What is a sonnet? 'Tis the tear that fell
From a great poet's hidden ecstacy;
A two-edged sword, a star, a song—ah me!
Sometimes a heavy-tolling funeral bell."

As Mr. Gilder is one of the first of American sonnet writers it is appropriate to take the sextet of this poem as an example of the usual Petrarchan form:

The solemn organ whereon Milton played.
For like a fjord the narrow floor is laid

AMERICAN PRE-EMINENCE.

Some years ago Matthew Arnold, in conversation at the Author's Club in New York, paid a compliment to the exquisite polish of the sonnets written by Americans, and a comparison of the sonnets of José de Heredia, the first writer in that line in Europe, shows that the best American sonnets are at least the equal of anything he has done. A careful comparison would probably prove that in depth of thought, Longfellow, Aldrich and Gilder are the superior of the French academician.

It is evident that a master of the sonnet must not only be a poet and a logician versed in verbal music, but an expert in all the shades of meaning in his native tongue. The writer of the exotic forms of verse—the rondeau, the ballade, the virelay—cuts something pretty from a cherry stone. The writer of a sonnet in English must carve an exquisite figure from a piece of very hard marble. The English language must be conquered by the poet; it does not yield easily. English literature boasts of great sonnet writers with reason—Milton, Wordsworth, Keats, Sir Aubrey de Vere; but since Longfellow and Lowell taught their countrymen the value of continental culture the United States has produced the most subtle, the most polished, the most musical sonnet writers of the world.

Leaving out Hawthorne, this country can congratulate itself on no really first-rate writer of important fiction—since, of course, the failure of Mr. Cable to reach his ideal in "The Grandissimes;" but in the short story and the sonnet America is first. We send to England for our serial novels; our short stories we get at home. Mrs. Meynell, of all living English authors, has reached the standard of the American writers of sonnets. William Sharp, not prejudiced in favor of American literature, practically admits the superiority of American sonnets. It would be hard for a fair-minded critic not to admit it. Longfellow's sonnets, suggested by Dante, and half Dante's, beginning "Oft have I seen at some cathedral door," are among the noblest in any language. There is one imperfection in this delicate form, which ought to be perfect or impossible. In the second quatrain of the octave Longfellow rhymes "o'er" with "roar."

POETIC ART IN AMERICA.

Nearly all American poets of importance have written sonnets, and tried to do their best in strictest bounds. The attitude of respect toward this little but deep poem assumed by them has made the sonnet popular in America—much to the astonishment of our English cousins, who are inclined to fancy that the "Heathen Chinee," the "coon song" and the crudities of Walt Whitman's verse-form appeal more to our taste. Even Whittier, the Quaker, played on this Italian harp of fourteen strings. His sonnets have the couplet, and are not great; the best of them is "Forgiveness," beginning:

"My heart was heavy, for its trust had been Abused, its kindness answered with foul wrong."

George H. Boker was an enthusiastic partisan of the sonnet. He looked upon it as an admirable corrective of a tendency to mistake facility for talent and mere feeling for art, and he and Edmund Clarence Stedman had much to do with teaching the younger poets that reticence and care, modulation and reverence for form, are excellent things in a writer. It is astonishing that any critic can be so superficial as to imagine that American poetry is "barbaric" in view of the success gained by our writers in this form, which, if once thoroughly mastered, gives the key to all verse forms. The encouragement given, in spite of all changes in public taste, to the beautiful and artistic in poetry by Richard Watson Gilder, editor of the Century, has had much to do with the respect in which good poetry is held, in spite of the vulgar jeers of the comic writers at the poets. When a list of the fine sonnets written in the last twenty years by Americans is examined it would be silly to say that Americans are incapable or too young to produce fine art.

NO PERFECT SONNET IN ENGLISH

Mr. Gilder and Mr. Aldrich are the first of the living American writers of sonnets. Gilder has the wider range and the deeper thought, Aldrich the lighter touch and the greater spontaneity. "Even This Will Pass Away" is one of his best:

"Touched with the delicate green of early May,
Or later, when the rose unveils her face,
The world hangs glittering in star-strewn space.
Fresh as a jewel found but yesterday.
And yet 'tis very old; what tongue may say
How old it is? Race follows upon race,
Forgetting and forgotten: in their place
Sink town and temple; nothing long may stay.
We build our tombs and live our day and die:
From out our dust new towers and temples start:
Our very name becomes a mystery.
What cities no man ever heard of lie
Under the glacier in the mountain's heart,
In violet glooms beneath the moaning sea."

This sonnet is typical of Mr. Aldrich's genius. The pursuit of the perfect sonnet has not yet been rewarded, for a perfect sonnet has not yet been written in English. The critics have said that a "newly-found jewel" might, ten to one, not be "fresh;" but the last line of the sextet ought to make amends for this almost imaginary flaw. De Heredia, acclaimed by the French academy the chief of sonnet writers, has done nothing better than this, or than Edith Thomas's "Frost," beginning:

"How small a tooth has mined the season's heart;
How cold a touch has set the wood on fire—"

Or Lanier's "Harlequin of Dreams:"

Dim-paneled in the painted scene of sleep."

The consideration of the position of the sonnet in American literature would have little value if preëminence in the use of it did not imply unusually high qualities of thought, restrained strength of imagination and philosophical training—for a sonnet is ineffective if the form of the syliogism does not lie behind it. It implies, too, that American writers do not imitate the faults of the great that have preceded them. They are convinced that a defect in technique made by Wordsworth cannot be repeated in a time when poetry to be accepted at all must be flawless in form.

The American great sonnets are so numerous that it is hard to point out a few that are highest in quality. It is easy, from the older sonnets by English writers, to take five or six or even ten supremely great; for instance, Milton's "On His Blindness," Keats's "On First Looking Into Chapman's Homer," Wordsworth's "The World Is Too Much with Us," Blanco White's "Night and Death," Shelley's "Oxymandias;" but it is just as easy to pick out three times that number of equally great sonnets written in the last twenty years by Americans in which there is no sign of imitation of their great predecessors.

Edgar Fawcett, Robert Johnson, Miss Guiney, Richard Burton, Richard Hovey, C. Buel, Helen Hunt, George Lathrop—and fifty more; one has only to follow the best magazines from month to month to find exquisite examples of a plastic and lively poetic form which promises to reach its perfection in the literature of our country.

KERN COUNTY.

Dairyman Sued for Twenty Thousand Dollars for Alleged Breach of Promise.

Barefoot Burglar on Hand.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BAKERSFIELD, Oct. 11.—A damage suit for breach of promise was instituted in the Superior Court today wherein Eloise E. Murphy seeks to recover $20,000 from George A. Rankin, a well-known resident of this county, who conducts a dairy near this city. In the complaint it is alleged that the two became engaged in September, 1900. The wedding day, it is alleged, was put off from time to time until the bride became discouraged and filed the suit.

SNEAK THIEF'S HAUL.

A barefooted burglar entered the home of A. F. Stoner last night and stole a vest and a gold watch and chain from the bedroom. Stoner saw the man, but thinking in the darkness that it was one of his children, he turned over in bed to resume his rest. When the man started to go out of the window, however, Stoner fired two shots at him, without effect.

HUMANE OFFICER WANTED.

Owing to the many cases of cruelty to animals which have come to the attention of the authorities in this city, E. J. Emmons, Esq., president of the Kern County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has petitioned the Board of Supervisors to appoint a humane officer with a salary of $75 a month.

PISTOL WENT OFF.

Alfred Freear, who resides in the North River district, accidentally shot himself in the left thigh last night while attempting to clean his pistol. The bullet was extracted.

CALIFORNIA HONEY BEST ON EARTH.

SATISFACTORY CONDITION OF LOCAL BEE INDUSTRY.

Coming Meeting of Honey Producers' Association to Look to Better Marketing of Crops—Smaller Apiaries Being Absorbed by Wealthy Bee Men.

California honey surpasses any other in fine sage flavor and its thick, ripe texture. The northern part of Los Angeles county produces a fine flavored buckwheat honey, much sought after by those who know of its quality. It is by far the best so-called buckwheat honey on earth. German and British markets know this honey and demand it.

Honey producers this year are in splendid financial shape, for the past dry years have discouraged the less-practical bee men, and they have either quit or sold out to the more fortunate bee keepers, who generally have other interests. This is why so much honey is being held. These producers are not compelled to sell nor to sacrifice their crops at bear prices.

The Pacific Bee Journal has been investigating the 1901 honey crop, and finds that it has been much overestimated by buyers who wanted to bear the market to keep prices down, thus giving them a larger profit. The October issue of the Bee Journal gives the actual crop of the larger producers, and a careful estimate of what the smaller bee men have marketed or soon expect to market.

The meeting of bee keepers at the Chamber of Commerce on October 21 and 22, will bring out a more extensive representation of the honey industry than has ever before been assembled in this State, as the object of this gathering is to organize the producers and market the crop systematically, carefully grading, labeling and packing it, as is done by the fruit exchanges.

The States of California, Utah and Colorado and part of the Territory of Arizona, produce about all the surplus honey found in American markets, and most of that sold abroad, and yet seldom fully supply the demand. False reports of the California crop have always lowered the price for our honey to half what it would bring if marketed by one seller, instead of hundreds of small ones. The small, poor lots come tumbling into the Los Angeles market, from those men who need the money, and these lots usually make the price for the whole season, just as the first poor lots of maple sugar bear the eastern maple-sugar market. Back there the big maple-sugar makers build up markets of their own, and establish reputations that sell their output away above the standard price, the poorest stock that ...

REST RANGERS' HEADS WILL DROP.

EST AGAINST STRANGE ORDER FROM WASHINGTON.

dity—Agent Allen Instructed to Pay Roll One-half—Annexation ...-meeting—Funeral of Jack Mar—Pasadena Brevities.

SADENA, Office of The Times, 24 South Raymond avenue, Oct. 11. [From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] The Department of the Interior at Washington has issued an order to Southern California Forestry Agent B. F. Allen, cutting down to half the number of rangers employed in the reserves of Southern California. The order has caused a deep feeling of protest among those who have been informed of it. Hon. T. P. Fowler, of this city, who is one of the largest of mountain lovers, as well as interested in the preservation of the forest and shrubbery of the hills, from an economic point of view, at once called the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce with a petition of protest. The chamber unanimously approved the document, and the situation was considered so urgent that its contents were telegraphed to Washington. It is hoped that the order may be revoked.

"It was a strange order," said Mr. Fowler today. "We cannot understand such a move. It is more strange, coming at this time of year, for the mountains will continue to get dryer and dryer until the fall rains come, and it is always the most dangerous time for fires. There are only a few men employed in this region, and we had planned with the utmost economy to utilize every one of them this winter, building trails, fire-breaks and patrolling. There should be more men where there is one now, and there will eventually be ten times as many. Then everybody that comes to the mountains can be watched, and there will soon be a thing of the past."

Forest Agent Allen has received no official order from Washington, but is acting under instructions received recently from the department at Washington becoming more interested in affairs in forestry out here. The government recently contributed $300 toward the work of planting the slopes of trees in these mountains, and $600 was secured from private sources. The work of planting will begin the first of next month.

PASADENA ANNEXATION.

The proposition recently started to annex the suburb of North Pasadena to this city is meeting with much favor among the residents of that locality, and those who have actively interested themselves in the matter are highly encouraged over the sentiment being shown. A partial canvass of the district to be taken in shows 100 votes out of it and fifty-five against it, which represents about three-fifths of the population, and there are still a few hundred to be interviewed. The matter is more clearly before the people a mass meeting of citizens north of the Pasadena and south of the cemetery at the Los Robles avenue and Colorado will be held in North Pasadena Tuesday evening next. The canvassers will make their reports in full, and the wishes of the territory to be decided upon. Steps will be taken to organize a North Pasadena Improvement Association.

FUNERAL OF JACK MARTIN.

The remains of Jack Martin, who died in his room in Los Angeles yesterday morning, were brought to Pasadena this afternoon and were in charge by the local lodge of Woodmen of the World, under whose auspices the funeral was held. Interment was at Mountain View Cemetery, the only funeral service being the burial service of the order, which was read at the grave. The pallbearers were members of the local camp.

PASADENA BREVITIES.

Mr. Hoffman, a rancher living at Orange and Villa street, broke his arm in two places today while trying to get out of his wagon. Being in a hurry he stepped quickly on the tongue, which threw the bones of the leg together with a report like a pistol shot. Mr. Hoffman seems to have been under an unlucky star as to the second experience he has had of this kind. About a year ago he entered his house and made a considerable plunder.

Mrs. McCrary, who drove his team of horses yesterday and got into the City Jail, was released under $200 bonds to keep the peace, pending a hearing of his case next Monday morning. Not being able to raise the required amount, he was taken to Los Angeles, where he will spend the next few days in the county bastile.

Word was received from an upper station of the Kinney & Kendall Company at Big Tujunga that fire had broken out in the Raymond-avenue entrance to the building. Officer Reynolds, who happened to be near, saw the smoke and began to pull the awning from the window and put out the fire before it had communicated to the building.

Work on the new vaults for the National Bank has been started and the steel cases are being made. These will be placed in position as soon as they arrive, and it is expected that then be pushed to completion. The new savings institution to be connected with the bank has been named for business.

The remains of the late J. W. Hugus are expected to arrive from San Francisco today, and arrangements for the funeral are postponed until that time. The services will probably not be held before Monday or Tuesday, as relatives who are expected from the East cannot reach here before that time.

Pasadenans are still making life miserable for burglars who persist in using the sidewalk in preference to the streets. Two more of whom enriched themselves to the extent of $3 each by climbing two will have a hearing this morning.

The ladies have organized the Shakespeare Club, with L. Perrin Welch secretary, and fifteen members. The club meets the old Pasadena Club disbanded some time ago, the latter's old grounds and clubhouse on Fair Oaks, near Long Beach.

Mrs. Thompson, formerly Miss Collins of North Pasadena, but of late years of Illinois, Mr. Thompson and Miss Collins were married in Illinois a few days ago. The parents of the bride reside in Orange.

Mrs. Wall is very ill at her home on Fremont avenue.

Work is being pushed on East Walnut street between North Marengo and Fair Oaks avenue.

The walk in front of the property of Mrs. Ellen Hall, on Fair Oaks avenue, was getting pretty dilapidated, and did not seem to be worth repairing.

Rev. D. H. Greer, rector of St. Bartholomew Church, New York City, who has been attending the Episcopal Convention at San Francisco, will arrive in Pasadena tomorrow as the guest of his brother, J. H. Greer, Jr.

The family of Maj. Frank Greene, U.S.A., has returned from the army post in Alaska and will occupy the residence on Mentor avenue during the winter.

J. B. Runyon, cashier of the Commercial Bank of Tiffin, O., accompanied by his wife, was the guest of E. T. Toms in Pasadena this evening.

The funeral of Mrs. R. H. Scudder will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home, No. 567 Galena avenue.

Miss Edna Shaver of North Raymond avenue is visiting in Riverside.

I. N. Todd of the Southern Pacific is at work again after a serious illness.

LORDSBURG.

TRIO OF SCRAPS.

LORDSBURG, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] This quiet and peaceful town has been stirred up by three fights in one day. Joseph Cross and P. Harris had difficulty about a little irrigating ditch, and proceeded to settle it with their fists, until friends interfered.

Mrs. E. Gallop, with whom the sixteen-year-old son of J. Lewis has been boarding, visited her wrath on the latter because he is alleged to have said that her home is not a fit place for the boy. She tongue-lashed and slapped the father. Lewis terminated the interview abruptly.

Oscar Parrot recently returned from Arizona and held that A. A. Veher had made uncomplimentary remarks about his father, who formerly lived here. The two met and Parrot knocked Veher out. Parrot was fined $7 in the Justice Court for disturbing the peace. Later he met Veher's cousin, also accused of talking about Parrot's father, and punished him severely.

LORDSBURG BREVITIES.

The Rev. W. Stirling, presiding elder for this district, held the first quarterly conference at the local Methodist Church tonight.

Several carloads of rock are being loaded here from the La Verne Paint mine for the Silica Aluminum Paint Company of Los Angeles.

Owing to the increased attendance at the public schools, Miss Hattie Conkling of Glendora has been engaged as a third teacher.

Herbert Wilkerson and wife, who have been staying at Long Beach for several months, on account of Mr. Wilkerson's health, have returned to their home at La Verne.

Ed H. Bixby, one of the successful competitors in The Times' scholarship contest, has commenced his fall term of school at the Throop Polytechnic Institute, Pasadena. He selected a scholarship in the Cumnock School of Expression, valued at $150, and sold it for enough to pay for a year's tuition for himself at Throop, and for his sister's tuition at Pomona College, Claremont.

Rev. W. A. Brown and wife of Oceanside, arrived in Lordsburg today. Rev. Mr. Brown is the new pastor of the local Methodist church, and will preach next Sunday.

M. F. Douglis, an early settler of La Verne, is building a handsome residence in Pasadena, and will reside with his family.

POMONA.

LOOKING AT THE ORANGES.

POMONA, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Representatives from the Pomona Fruit Growers' Exchange, the San Dimas Citrus Union, the Indian Hill Citrus Union and the Claremont Citrus Union met W. H. Garvin, Chicago agent of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, here today, and drove with him through the orange groves of this locality. Mr. Garvin is carefully looking up the different orange-growing sections. He came here from Covina, and left for Ontario tonight, there to remain through tomorrow.

POMONA BREVITIES.

Frank Johnson has sold his house and lot on West Center street to B. Bunts.

M. Henry, 18 years old, was thrown from his bicycle on East Second street this morning and his collar bone was broken.

News has been received here by telephone of the sudden death at his home in Los Angeles this morning of Dr. A. C. Bryan. The deceased resided here with his wife for a number of years, and was well known. He had a dental office on Second street, was a prominent member of the Baptist church, and belonged to the Masonic fraternity.

Alfalfa growers are having success this year. A. H. Rose has just cut the sixth crop from his twenty acres south of the city, since March.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rust have been here from Kansas City for two days. Mr. Rust is a friend of J. Albert Dole, and is general manager of the Kansas City Stockyards Company.

SAN LUIS OBISPO.

NECK BROKEN ON STEAMER.

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Frank Avila, who was engaged in loading grain on the steamship Corona, was instantly killed at Port Harford today. He fell through a hatchway and his neck was broken.

COMPTON.

LARGE BEET OUTPUT.

COMPTON, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] This season's sugar-beet crop from the fields about Compton will amount to about 12,000 tons. The estimate is based on the shipments which up to this time have aggregated about 12,000 tons. There are not far from 1500 acres in this vicinity in beets and the acreage next year will probably be doubled. The farmers are getting about $4.25 per ton for the beets, and in many instances the yield amounts to from twenty to twenty-five tons per acre.

COMPTON BREVITIES.

Laborers and teams are scarce about here. Boys who have heretofore been able to earn only very small wages have been getting as high as $1.50 per day for topping beets.

The Compton cheese factory is receiving about 14,000 pounds of milk per day, and is producing about a ton of cheese per day. The demand for the product is active and the cheese is sold as fast as made. The patrons of the factory are receiving an average of $1.40 or more per hundred pounds of milk on a basis of 4 per cent. butter fat.

LONG BEACH TO HAVE A SANITARIUM.

ITS COMING BELIEVED TO BE ABOUT ASSURED.

Directors to Have Conference With Local Board of Trade Monday to Arrange Final Details—Replacing Incandescent Street Lamps With Arcs.

LONG BEACH, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] The location of a sanitarium on the Signal Hill site by the Battle Creek Sanitarium Company, is considered here as practically a certainty. At a meeting of the directors of that company in Los Angeles yesterday, a decision in favor of the Signal Hill site was arrived at. The decision is, however, subject to a number of conditions, which it is expected will be arranged satisfactorily. The directors have arranged to come to Long Beach Monday for a conference with the Long Beach Board of Trade, at which it is believed the details in the way of a final agreement will be cleared up.

LONG BEACH BREVITIES.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers have been spending a period at Hemet. Mr. Rogers returned to Long Beach today, leaving Mrs. Rogers there.

Mrs. W. W. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Heartwell and A. L. Schattman returned today from a trip to the Pan-American Exposition, and other eastern points.

Mr. and Mrs. George Bristol and their daughter, Miss Emma Bristol, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Crane, have returned to their home in Roseberg, Or.

Many of the incandescent electric street lamps are being replaced with arc lamps. The new illuminating agents are being installed under direction of E. V. Griffes, superintendent of the United Electric, Gas and Power Company, which has the street-lighting contract.

SAN PEDRO.

BURNED WITH COAL OIL.

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Correspondent.] "Cow" Anderson, as he is known in San Pedro, was painfully injured by an accident with coal oil. He was heating a lot of the liquid, intending to prepare a scale wash. It caught fire and he was burned about the face and hands.

SAN PEDRO BREVITIES.

The steamer Hermosa has gone to San Diego for repairs.

The schooner Louise, Capt. Rasmussen, has arrived from Umpqua, with 280,000 feet of lumber for the Kerckhoff-Cuzner Lumber Company.

The steamer Luella, Capt. Madsen, has arrived from Eureka with 11,000 ties for the Salt Lake Railroad Company.

The brand-new schooner Wemple Brothers, Capt. Aspe, has arrived from Gray's Harbor with 840,000 feet of lumber, the halves of which cargo are for the Southern California Lumber Company and the L. W. Blinn Lumber Company.

Charles Bell and William Jamison started from this port for Mexico in the power boat Marblehead, Sunday. When a short distance out the boat caught fire from a stove, so it is reported, but the flames were subdued before they had done much damage. The Marblehead, after a short delay, proceeded on her voyage.

AVALON FISH TOO BIG FOR THE SCALES.

ANGLER FROM THE EAST FINDS TEST UNNECESSARY.

Couldn't Believe the Tales That Reached Him, But Found Large Surprises in the Santa Catalina Island Waters—Nothing to Say.

AVALON, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] George Russell is an ardent disciple of Isaak Walton. Between times in a busy life of fishing Mr. Russell has managed to accumulate a competency on a farm near Winthrop, St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and has possessed himself of a summer cottage on the St. Lawrence River, where he hies himself every year to angle. Fishing was good back there, when he could catch enough during the day to make a good square meal for the family at night. If by chance a three or four-pound fish fell to his lot, that was considered a red-letter day. Some of Russell's friends drifted out to California, and he began to hear of good fishing at Santa Catalina Island. He didn't believe half of the stories he heard, for he knew something about fish stories himself. But when A. L. Phelps, manager of the aquarium, began writing him about the fishing at Avalon, he couldn't resist the temptation to pack his grip and come. He landed here a few weeks ago, and lost no time in hunting up Phelps. "Now, bring on 'your yellowtail,'" he said; "I've been filled up with so many fish tales by you fellows that I propose to see that they are correctly weighed," and he drew from his inside pocket a little pair of scales. Phelps saw that their limit was ten pounds, but he only smiled. The next morning early found Russell out fishing. Soon something struck his hook. The reel was wrested out of his grasp, and in trying to recover it he had his knuckles skinned, but he made a desperate grab and stopped the buzzing machine, and instantly the line parted, and it was all off. "Geewhillikins! What was it? he gasped. "A yellowtail," said Phelps; "why didn't you hold him?" "Hold him? I could hold a cyclone just as easy! Why, I thought I had a whale!" But Russell soon caught on, and his first yellowtail weighed twenty-seven pounds. He has never said a word about those tested scales since.

ISLAND BREVITIES.

Edward Schultz and George F. Mahler of Chicago are not neglecting any of the amusements of Santa Catalina. Yesterday they were in the neighborhood of Mt. Black Jack, and got two fine goat heads. The day previous they were out and brought in a boat load of fish, mostly albicore, aggregating nearly a quarter of a ton.

Miss Bessie Griswold and Miss Kitty Bullard of Council Bluffs, who spent some time here earlier in the season, have returned, and are occupying one of the Hutchings cottages for a short time.

George H. Englehard and wife of Louisville, Ky.; W. F. Bailey and wife of Summit, N. J., and Rev. Arthur H. Proffit of New York are at the Metropole.

The Falcon is on the run from Avalon to San Pedro for a week, the Warrior having gone to Port Los Angeles to overhaul the buoys which mark the harbor.

Dr. W. G. Mobley, of Oakland tried his hands at wild goat shooting yesterday and brought down a few billies with wide spreads of horns.

Rev. C. M. Williams, pastor of the Avalon church, returned today from a month's vacation pleasantly spent at Idyllwild.

Stanley Castleman and wife of Riverside occupy the Castleman cottage on Clarissa avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Smith returned to Avalon yesterday after an absence of three weeks.

CASSIDY ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE.

DEVELOPMENTS IN SAN DIEGO'S DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Funeral of Two Victims of Shooting Affray — Prospectors Return from Lower California—Imperial Land Deal. M.E., South, Conference.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 11.—[From The Times' Resident Correspondent.] Pete Cassidy was arrested this morning, charged with the murder of James Posey. He was arraigned before Justice Anderson, and his attorney asked that he be released on bail, but the District Attorney contended that the proceeding would be legal. The court held the matter open all day. At 6 o'clock this evening, he postponed his decision until tomorrow, and Cassidy was taken to jail. The preliminary hearing was set for Monday.

The inquest in the case of Quinlan, killed about the same time Posey was shot dead, was begun today.

TRAGEDY'S VICTIMS BURIED.

The funerals of James A. Posey and Andrew Quinlan, the two victims of Tuesday night's double murder, were held today. That of Posey took place this morning. Rev. Clarence True Wilson conducted the ceremony. The remains were escorted to Mount Hope Cemetery by the friends of the deceased. He had no relatives here, but leaves a brother, who, when last heard from, was in Lawrence, Kan. He also had a sister, who is thought to reside near Washington, D. C.

Quinlan's funeral was held this afternoon. Col. Blackmer spoke a few appropriate words. The remains were interred in a beautiful casket with a sterling-silver plate, inscribed with the words, "At Rest." The floral offerings were numerous and very elaborate.

PROSPECTORS RETURN.

The launch Mascot called at this port today on her way to San Pedro from the Lower California coast, where she landed a prospecting party composed of Dr. A. O. Smith and Dr. E. N. Rosenberger of Pasadena and Egbert Post of San Bernardino. Dr. Smith was seen this morning, but would not vouchsafe much information concerning the trip. He said that the party had landed at Cape Colnett and had traveled inland two days. They found some very rich mining property, and located two claims, but the doctor would not disclose the nature of the ore which they hope to obtain nor give any hint as to the location. He said that they had filed on these claims, but had not satisfied all the legal requirements, and that he could not talk until this had been done. He said that they were well satisfied with the results of their trip. It is the presumption that the claims contain copper ore. The Mascot left tonight for San Pedro, and expects to make that port by morning.

IMPERIAL LAND DEAL.

F. O. Paulin of Los Angeles, of the Oakley-Paulin Co., is in the city, attending to business connected with the recently-acquired interests of the firm in the New River country. This firm has recently made a deal whereby they have become the owners of all the unsold stock of the Imperial Land Company, No. 1. The deal involved the transfer of 25,980 shares of stock at a cost of $260,000, nearly a third of the entire stock of the company. This stock will be placed on the market at a price ranging from $12.25 to $13.50 per acre.

M. E., SOUTH, CONFERENCE.

The sessions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, Conference today were mainly devoted to reports and routine matters. In the evening, Bishop Duncan preached. In the afternoon, the Ladies' Home Mission elected the following officers: Mrs. J. F. C. Finlay, president; Mrs. W. Hamilton, first vice-president; Mrs. J. V. Williams, Arizona, second vice-president; Miss Laura Haygood of Downey, corresponding secretary; Mrs. W. R. Gosewisch, Los Angeles, treasurer; Mrs. J. F. Porter, Los Angeles, recording secretary; district secretary, Los Angeles district, Mrs. ... M. Knight; district secretary, Arizona district, Mrs. W. K. Simpson; recording secretary, Mrs. J. F. Porter. The conference appointments of ministers will be announced Sunday.

EXCITEMENT AT THE NADEAU.

Donald McDonald Creates a Scene Because He is Refused an Interview With His Wife—Police Called In.

Because he was forbidden an interview with his wife, Donald McDonald, a young man whose father is a member of the law firm of McDonald & Wynn, created such a scene at the Nadeau Hotel yesterday that several policemen were sent there to put a stop to the disturbance and prevent a possible tragedy. Mrs. McDonald's maiden name was Fairbrother, and her father is a traveling salesman for an eastern shoe house. Her marriage to McDonald was the result of a short courtship, followed by an elopement. Their brief married life was not happy, and they separated, the wife securing a divorce. Subsequently they met again, and as a result of McDonald's urging they were again married. Again they separated, and since their second separation Mr. Fairbrother has succeeded in preventing McDonald from communicating personally with his wife. He took his daughter to live at the Nadeau Hotel.

Yesterday when McDonald appeared there and demanded to see his wife, he was told somewhat harshly that he could not see her, and was ordered out of the place. The angry altercation between him and his father-in-law attracted a crowd and created excitement and alarm among the guests of the hotel. Finding that Mr. Fairbrother was determined in his refusal, McDonald left the place, and as he did so he is said to have threatened to return with a gun and force his way to his wife's room.

Then Mr. Fairbrother appealed to the police. McDonald has had some experience with the detectives, and when the case was explained to the officers they at once agreed to prevent McDonald from intruding himself upon his wife. When he returned later to the hotel and found the police there, he left, saying he would secure legal advice and compel his father-in-law to release his wife. He then went to the detectives' office, but received little comfort there.

Mr. Fairbrother stated that his daughter desires no interview with her husband, but is preparing to again begin an action for a divorce. He is very bitter against his son-in-law, who, he declares, shall never see his daughter again if he can prevent it. He secured a private detective to protect his daughter from her husband, and proposes to retain the services of this guard as long as he remains in Los Angeles.

WILL ERECT MEMORIAL TO WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

STATEMENT BY TRUSTEES OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

The People of the Country are Asked to Subscribe to a Lasting Expression of Their Love for the Late Chief Magistrate.

[BY THE NEW ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Oct. 11.—At a conference of the trustees of the McKinley National Association, held at Senator Hanna's office, the following statement was issued to the public:

"The purpose of this association, as defined in its certificate of incorporation, is the erection and maintenance at Canton, O., of a suitable memorial to the late President and the raising of the necessary funds for such purpose and fully providing therefor, the surplus of such funds, if any, to be devoted to such memorial as may be provided for the late President at the national capital. The memorial will be erected at Canton, the city having been his home throughout his public life and selected by him as the final resting place.

"The memorial is to be in the highest sense the sincere expression of all the people of the country of their love for President McKinley and their admiration for the qualities expressed so eminently in his life and deeds.

"It is the purpose to have the offerings of the people voluntary, with a full opportunity to allow all to contribute. The cooperation of Governors and officers of States and municipalities of the United States and all religious, educational, civic, patriotic, fraternal, benevolent and other organizations is cordially invited.

"All public officials, organized bodies and the press are requested to take immediate steps to secure at the earliest possible time, a full response to this appeal. The association looks to the press of the country to lend its efficient aid to the collection and forwarding of subscriptions.

"Money may be deposited in banks and other financial institutions, with telegraph, telephone and express offices, and with postmasters, who are requested to receive and transmit them to the treasurer promptly.

"The trustees of the association will receive subscriptions. Subscriptions abroad may be received by the ambassadors, ministers and consuls of the United States, and in Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands by the respective Governors thereof, or persons authorized by them. Remittances may be made directly to Myron T. Herrick, treasurer, Cleveland.

"The association will prepare and distribute to all donors to the fund a souvenir certificate which will be worthy of preservation as evidence of each holder's participation in the work. The name and postoffice address of each contributor should be forwarded to the treasurer of the association with the fund remitted, for preservation in the permanent archives of the association.

"It is hoped that the response of the people will be liberal, that a memorial may be erected which will fittingly honor the memory of our martyred President and emphasize their loyalty to our institutions and their abhorrence of that spirit of lawlessness which inspired the assassin."

The President of the United States and the Governors of all States and Territories were unanimously elected honorary members of the association by the trustees.

BUFFALO THIEVES TRACKED.

BUFFALO, Oct. 11.—It transpired today that a month ago the sum of $5200, receipts of the Buffalo customhouse, had been stolen, evidently while in transit from Buffalo to the sub-treasury in New York. The discovery of the theft was made at New York. Collector Bredel said this afternoon that he thought the thieves were known, and that their arrest was but a matter of a short time.

"MERCHANTS' lunch, 5oc; everything nice, at the Del Monte Restaurant.

"DEATH'S GRIM SEQUEL" is the title of an article telling how Uncle Sam disposes of the dead bodies of assassins which will appear in The Times Magazine the coming Sunday.

DON'T HURT SOME.

But Coffee Certainly Ruins Some of the Most Highly Organized People.

"One year I lived where the water was bitter with iron and I could not bear to drink it, so I began drinking coffee three times a day.

"Gradually I noticed an uncomfortable feeling in the stomach, and more or less constipation. In a few months I began to lay awake at night long after I had retired.

"This increased until I never thought of going to sleep until three or four o'clock in the morning, and then only after getting out of bed and walking the floor for an hour.

"I was talking of my nervous state with a friend, who suggested that perhaps it was the coffee I had been using. She felt quite sure it was, and stated that coffee would not stay on her stomach at all, but as she felt she must have a hot driuk for breakfast, she had been using Postum Food Coffee. She said she didn't like Postum particularly well, and at breakfast the next morning I didn't wonder, when I tasted the flat drink that the servant brought on.

"The same day I was invited to take dinner with another friend, Mrs. Foster. I had visited her often before and knew she made delicious coffee, so when she asked how I liked her coffee, said, 'It is just as fine as usual.' She invited me to have another cup, but I said, 'I would not dare to take the second.' 'Oh, you can drink as many cups of this as you like; it won't hurt you. This is Postum Food Coffee. We have been using it a year now, and the little children have all they want and our family have never been as healthy as in the past year.' 'Postum,' said I, doubtfully, 'why the Postum I had this morning didn't taste any more like this than dish water.' 'Perhaps it was not made right,' said my friend. 'I have known more that one person turned away from Postum because it was poorly made. There is no secret in it; only allow it to boil long enough to bring out the taste, there you are.' I have been using Postum since, and am entirely cured of my trouble. I cannot say too much for it."—Grace A. Foster, Omaha, Neb.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Relief Ball.

The Relief Committee of the Foresters of America will give a ball at Turnverein Hall this evening. The proceeds will go for the benefit of the order.

Fugitive Captured.

Tom Andrews, who escaped from the chain gang when he began a sentence of forty days for petty larceny, was recaptured yesterday by the detectives and locked up to serve his time.

Sneaked Ten Dollars.

A. E. Williams and C. W. Bonnernd reported to the police yesterday that their room on South Broadway near Third street was entered by a sneak thief Thursday nigh, and $10 stolen. The lock was picked.

Tea at Camera Club.

Tea will be served this afternoon at the rooms of the Los Angeles Camera Club by Mrs. George H. Freeman and Mrs. Hattie D. Hong. Many club members and their friends enjoy these social Saturday afternoons.

Schoolmasters' Club.

The City Schoolmasters' Club met last night and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, George E. Larkey; vice-president, C. A. Kunon; treasurer, F. W. Stein; secretary, W. A. Ellis.

Study Circle.

The Child's Study Circle of the Sand-street school met Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Frank Jones was re-elected president; Mrs. Stafford, vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Varcoe, secretary; Mrs. Bery, treasurer.

Frank Gibson Sick.

F. A. Gibson, cashier of the First National Bank, is very ill at his home, No. 1238 Sou... Alvarado street. He was in excellent health until a few days ago, when he was attacked with what is now announced to be typhoid fever.

Fire in a Closet.

The residence of Emanuel Eyrand, No. 327 Summit avenue, was damaged $300 by fire yesterday. The blaze originated from some unknown cause in a closet, filled with clothing, all of which was destroyed, and the woodwork of the room damaged. Insured.

Evangelist Coming.

Rev. L. O. Fergusen will arrive here Sunday morning. He will spend perhaps a month in Los Angeles, conducting an evangelistic campaign at the East Eighth-street Christian Church, where he will speak every evening, except Saturdays, during his stay.

Where is Peter Johnson?

William Worrall of No. 567 Warren street Brooklyn, N. Y., has written to the Chief of Police asking him to try to locate Peter Johnson, a Dane, who several years ago owned two orange ranches near Los Angeles. Johnson's relatives are anxious to locate him, so that an estate may be settled.

Pastor Resigns.

Rev. C. S. Tanner has resigned as pastor of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and will close his pastorate on next Sunday. Rev. H. F. Ingram will supply the pulpit until January 1, when Rev. W. D. Landis is expected to take charge. It is said Rev. Tanner will spend two years in a Chicago university.

Justice Austin Indisposed.

While holding court yesterday morning, Justice H. C. Austin was seized with a hemorrhage of the nose, which proved so severe that he was obliged to retire to his home. Justice Morgan attended to the business on the calendar of both departments of the Police Court yesterday, in consequence of Justice Austin's indisposition.

Going to Whittier.

Melvin Hughes, the fourteen-year-old boy who was arrested Thursday for stealing a bicycle, committed other thefts. It has been learned that he broke open several trunks in a stable in the rear of his home, and stole a number of articles. The boy's father is unable to control him, and will have him sent to the State Reform School at Whittier.

For Deaf and Dumb.

The Rev. John Chamberlain, associate clergyman with Rev. Dr. T. Gallaudet in mission work among the deaf of New York City, will be in Los Angeles on Sunday next, and he is expected to preach to the deaf of Los Angeles in St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral at 7 p.m., with Lay Reader Widd. The deaf of the city and vicinity are cordially invited to attend, and welcome their old friend.

Were not Prosecuted.

N. R. Berkeley, a motorman in the employ of the Los Angeles Railway Company, and Mrs. Emma Arnfeldt, who were arrested several days ago for adultery, were released from custody yesterday, because it was considered doubtful whether they could be convicted, Berkeley's wife having left the city, and the authorities having no other means of proving that Berkeley is a married man.

Boy's Hard Fall.

Jean Gabriel, aged about 12 years, fell from electric car No. 174 near Broadway and Seventh street, at 11 o'clock last night and was so stunned that he could not tell where he lives. He was put to bed at the Receiving Hospital. The cause of the accident is not known. The boy was standing on the rear platform and suddenly fell. He did not recover consciousness until half an hour later, and then appeared in a stupor.

New Townsite.

The map of the new township in Ventura county was filed in the local United States Land Office yesterday. It is known as township 3 north, range 20 west, and lies in the mountains just south of Sespe, between the Sespe and Las Posas ranches. Eight settlers filed claims in the new township yesterday, and will turn their attention principally to fruit raising in the fertile little valleys that are included within the range of 3000 acres.

Who Slugged Him?

J. W. McCormack, a general contractor who resides on East Third street, staggered into the office of the Maier & Zobelein brewery on Aliso street shortly before midnight bleeding from a long cut in the side of the head. He said he had been assaulted on Alameda and Ducommun streets by five negroes, none of whom are known to him. He could give no reason for the assault, and said that no attempt was made to rob him. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment. The police were unable to find anybody who witnessed or had heard of the assault.

On an Old Charge.

Peter Lockridge, who has been under arrest a number of times, was again taken into custody yesterday, this time on a charge of burglary. Last June, he, with Charles Blodgett, aged 14, is alleged to have broken into a house near the race track and stolen a quantity of pipe, which they sold to a wrecking company. Blodgett was convicted, and is now in the State Reform School at Whittier. Lockridge has been working for the man who has the mail-carrying contract to and from depots. He has been charged with grand larceny, sodomy and horse stealing, but has always succeeded in escaping conviction.

Johnson Buttoned.

E. E. Johnson, cashier in the City Tax Collector's office, was presented with a beautiful gold Elk's button yesterday by Tax Collector W. A. White and Correspondence Clerk Harry J. Leland. Mr. Johnson was recently initiated into Camp No. 99 in this city, and these gentlemen were responsible for his horns.

Vinnell's Denial.

S. H. Vinnell, janitor of the Rogers building and private detective, who is alleged to have illegally visited the office of the Equitable Gas and Electric Company in the night, a week ago, for the purpose of securing copies of documents there to be turned over to the Los Angeles Lighting Company, will make his deposition regarding the facts of the incident this afternoon in the office of Attorney John D. Pope, representing the Equitable company. Vinnell was to have made this deposition yesterday, but by consent of counsel it was postponed. It is understood that the accused man will make a general denial of all the accusations against him, and that he will repudiate the statement he is said to have made to S. A. W. Carver, vice-president and general manager of the Equitable company, and his father-in-law, Mr. Winans. The taking of Vinnell's deposition is an incident in conection with the suit filed a few days ago by the Equitable company against the Los Angeles company.

"INCURABLE" HEART DISEASE SOON CURED.

During the last two or three years very great improvement has been made in the treatment of diseases of the heart. Cases formerly considered incurable now readily yield to new remedies. The well known specialist in treating heart diseases, Franklin Miles, M.D., LL.B., of Chicago, will send $2.50 worth of his Special Treatment free to any of our afflicted readers.

This liberal offer is for the purpose of demonstrating the unusual curative powers of his new Treatments for heart troubles, oppression in the chest, irregular pulse, palpitation, smothering spells, puffing of the ankles or dropsy.

They are the result of twenty-five years of careful study, extensive research, and remarkable experience in treating diseases of the heart, stomach and nerves, which often complicate each case.

Few physicians have such confidence in their remedies. And there is no reason why all afflicted persons should not avail themselves of this liberal offer. No death comes more suddenly than that from heart disease. Thousands die unnecessarily each year because most physicians do not understand these cases.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Chicago, was cured of heart dropsy, after five leading physicians had given her up. Mr. Keister, of Chicago, was cured after failure of ten able physicians.

A thousand references to, and testimonials from, Bishops, Clergymen, Bankers, Farmers and their wives will be sent free on request. Those include many who have been cured after from five to twenty or more physicians and professors had pronounced them "incurable." Among them are H. A. Gross, 804 Mountain St., Elgin, Ill.; Mrs. Sophie Snowberg, No. 292 21st Ave., S. Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. A. P. Colburn, Blessing, Ia.; Mrs. M. B. Moreland, Rogers, O., the presidents of two medical colleges, etc.

Send at once to Franklin Miles, M.D., LL.B., 203 to 211 State St., Chicago, Ill., for free treatment before it is too late, and please mention this paper.

Ebell $3.50 Shoes for Women

The entire Ebell line for fall and winter is ready. It is the biggest, the most perfectly assorted line of shoes that the Ebell factory ever turned out. There are thirty different models, which means that thirty different ideals and thirty different foot-forms can be pleased and fitted. It is impossible to describe them. Enough to say that they come in patent calf, Kibo kid, Brazilian kid, vici kid. Styles for dress occasions, for walking, for golfing, bicycling and general house wear. The quality of these shoes has been bettered in many instances. We have your requirements; we have had shoes made to conform to your ideas. Ease, grace and comfort in every shoe. Always the same price, $3.50.

Women's Sample Shoes at $2.65 and $3.95.

A big sample line of women's fine shoes, including all styles. The sizes are 3, 3½, 4, 4½. They are A and B. Sample shoes are, of course, the best that the factory produces. An agent has given a poor shoe with which to solicit orders. They are regular $5 and $6 lines, but the best of their kinds. Prices have been rearranged and now run from $2.65 to $3.95 a pair.

Bargains in Children's Shoes.

Today we offer sterling values at special reduced prices. Many of these shoes were bought for less than the regular wholesale price. Others have been reduced since we bought them. We believe no sextette of shoes ever offered in Los Angeles can compare with this one either in quality or shoemaking.
